PREFACE

Education is the pre-requisite for the holistic development in our national life. To cope with the challenges of the fast changing world and to lead Bangladesh to the doorstep of development and prosperity, a well educated and skilled population is needed. In order to build up a nation imbued with the spirit of the Language Movement and our Liberation War, the secondary education aims at flourishing the talents and prospects inherent in the learners. Besides, the other aims also include expansion and consolidation of the basic knowledge and skills of the learners acquired at the primary level in order to make them fit for entry into higher education.

The aims of secondary education further emphasise on developing these learners as skilled and competent citizens of the country through the process of acquiring knowledge at the backdrop of socio-economic, cultural and environmental settings.

Keeping the aims and objectives of National Education Policy 2010 ahead, the curriculum at the secondary level has been revised. In the revised curriculum the national aims, objectives and contemporary needs have been reflected. Along with these expected learning outcomes have been determined based on the learner's age, merit and level of acquisition. Besides, efforts have been made to raise, starting from the level of moral and humanistic values down to awareness on history and tradition, the spirit of the Liberation War, passion for art-culture and literature, patriotism, feelings for nature and equal dignity to all irrespective of religions, caste, creed and sex. Efforts have also been made to apply science in all spheres of our life in order to build a nation advanced in science. Attempts are also there to make the learner capable of implementing the goals envisioned in Digital Bangladesh-2021.

In the light of the present curriculum almost all the textbooks at the secondary level have been introduced. While introducing the textbooks, the capacity, aptitude and prior knowledge of the learners have been taken into utmost consideration. While selecting the contexts and their presentation special attention has been given on the expansion of the learner's creative faculty. Adding learning outcomes at the beginning of each chapter, hints about the achievable knowledge of the learners have been given. By adding variety of activities, creative and other questions evaluation has also been made creative.

The textbook Buddhist Religion and Moral Education has been enriched with information and topics befitting for the respective class. Subject matter based pictures have been incorporated to create an interest to students' learning. Studying this textbook, the students will feel deeply, inspired to the ideals of religion and morality. Forgetting the difference between man to man, they will be interested to follow good manners, mercy for all creatures of God, and self control. Internalizing the advice of Gautama Buddha, the students will be inspired to build a life of honesty and enlightenment.

Considering the challenges and commitments of 21st century and following the revised curriculum the textbook has been written. Therefore we welcome with our highest consideration any suggestions, both constructive and rationale as well for the further improvement of the book. Amidst huge activities needed for introducing a textbook, this one has been written within a very short span of time frame. We will continue our effort to make the next edition of this book more beautiful, decent and free from any types of errors.

We appreciate the endeavours of those who assisted very sincerely with their merit and hard work in the process of writing, translating, editing, illustration, introducing sample questions and printing of the book. We hope the book will ensure joyful reading and achievement of expected skills from the learners.

Prof. Md. Mostafa Kamaluddin
Chairman
National Curriculum and Textbook Board, Dhaka.
Contents

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>Chapter Title</th>
<th>Page No.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>One</td>
<td>Life and Education of Gautama Buddha</td>
<td>1-20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Two</td>
<td>Buddha and Bodhisattva</td>
<td>21-32</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Three</td>
<td>Tipitaka</td>
<td>33-46</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Four</td>
<td>Sutta and Moral Verses</td>
<td>47-58</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Five</td>
<td>Buddhist Kammavada</td>
<td>59-70</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Six</td>
<td>Atthakatha</td>
<td>71-87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seven</td>
<td>Nibbana</td>
<td>88-95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eight</td>
<td>The Councils</td>
<td>96-109</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nine</td>
<td>Jataka</td>
<td>110-120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ten</td>
<td>Biographies</td>
<td>121-134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eleven</td>
<td>The History of Buddhism</td>
<td>135-153</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Twelve</td>
<td>The Daily Activities and Duties of the Buddhists Bhikkhus and Devotees</td>
<td>154-168</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Chapter One
Life and Education of Gautama Buddha

Gautama Buddha is the founder of Buddhism. His life and teachings are the basics foundation of Buddhism. During his long life of eighty years, from birth to great demise (Magaparinibbana) he showed many rare instances of morality and humanity. In spite of being a prince, he left house and took the life of an ascetic to search ways for the redemption of human sufferings. He attained Enlightenment after six years of hard meditation. He discovered the ways for the redemption of suffering. He preached his new religion for the betterment of all creatures and showed that way for the redemption of suffering. His life was soaked in the essence of comapassion and pity. He became known as Mahakaranika Buddha preaching the words of love for all creatures, non-violence, equality, comapssion and pity. His messages of great compassion (mahakaruna) inspire us to protect all creatures, from the bigger to the very smaller ones, on earth. He did not neglect those who have been neglected as filthy in the society. He has established them as dignified human beings. He showed the right way to the derailed ones and led them to the right path. Those who had been leading a dirty life, he freed them from their life of stain. He led the people affected by pains and sufferings to the path of highest bliss (Nibbana) and made them free from sufferings and pains. He tried to establish a peaceful society inspiring people to lead a life of morality and humanity. So Gautama Buddha has occupies a predominant position in the history of civilization. In this chapter we will study about Gautama Buddha.

At the end of this chapter we will be able to-

- Narrate the birth history of Siddhartha
- Explain special incidents of the childhood of Siddhartha
- Explain the significance of the Cari Nimittas seen by Siddhartha
- Narrate the story of Siddharth’s renunciation and his ascetic life
- Discuss Siddhartha’s attaining Enlightenment and his preaching
- Narrate the story of Buddha’s attainment of Mahaparinibbana

Lesson: One
Birth of Siddhartha

There was a beautiful and peaceful kingdom named Kapilavastu at the feet of the Himalayas. There lived the Shakkyas. The name of the king of this kingdom was Suddhodana, and the queen Mahamayadevi. There was no want of happiness and peace in the state. But there was no peace in the minds of the king and queen because, they had no offspring. They had been waiting eagerly in the hope of a child. Completing the festival of Full moon day of Ashara (Ashari Purnima), queen Mayadevi felt asleep. There was the full moon in the sky. The world around was flooded with the moonlight. The queen dreamt a very beautiful dream. Four pioneer gods from four sides arrived and put the queen to a golden cot. They carried her to the Manasasarovara of the Himalayan Mountain. There the mistresses of the gods bathed Mayadevi and dressed her with sweet scented celestial clothes. The queen also dreamt that she was lying on a golden cot. There came down a white elephant from the golden mountain beside. The elephant was carrying a white lotus on its trunk. The white elephant cinctured thrice around the cot of the queen. Then it penetrated the white lotus into the south side of the queen’s abdomen. The queen was overwhelmed with a miraculous pleasure. At that time there was the bright full moon of Ashara in the sky.

Dream of queen Mahamaya

Next morning the queen woke up from sleep and told king shuddhabodhan of her dream. The king called all his astrologers and demanded the explanation of this dream. They said ‘Your Majesty, there is a good news, be cheerful, queen Mayadevi will give birth to a mail child. A great man will emerge in the Sakya clan. In the long run, he will be an enlightened one and a reliever of sufferings of all creatures. Your Majesty, enjoy please.’

Days go by this way, finally there came that happy full moon day of Vesaka (Vesaka Purnima). At this time the queen desired to go to her father’s house. The king consented and arranged for her visit to her father’s house. Kapilavastu to Devadaha, the path way for the queen’s journey, was adorned and smoothed. The queen got into a golden bride cot with her friends and started for her father’s house. In between the two cities, there stands Lumbini forest. The queen desired to take rest in this cool-shadowy forest surrounded by Shal trees, plenty of flowers and leaves and noisy with the chirping of birds. At her behest, the planqueen stopped.
The queen walked a little ahead and stood under a Shal tree and touched one of its branches with her hand. Right then her birth pang started. The attendants cornered the surrounding area with clothes.

The light of the earth, the future Buddha Siddharth Gautama was born at the happy full moon day of Vesaka under the Shal tree of Lumbini forest. After long worship and prayer, the desire of the king and queen came to reality, so the son was named Sidharth. There is a saying that Siddhartha went forward in seven steps just on his birth and there bloomed a lotus on each step. At this moment, the gods around expressed their cheerfulness. Siddhartha took his birth on earth. There is saying that the Bodhi tree of Gaya, Rahul’s mother Gopadevi, Cari Nidhi Kumbha, four noble elephants (Cari Mangala Hast), Horseking Kanthaka, Sarathi Channa, and Minister’s son Udayee also were born on the same day. All of them had a special relationship with the life of Siddhartha.

Birth of Siddhartha in Lumbini Forest

The queen returned to Kapilvastu with the little prince amidst pomp and train. The kingdom was flooded with happiness. The city dwellers engrossed themselves in great festivity. But a shadow of gloom came down to this pleasure making. Queen Mayadevi died after seven days. Step mother Mahapajapati Gautami took the responsibility of child Siddhartha’s upbringing. She was the sibling of Mayadevi. As he was reared up by Gautami, so he was known as Siddhartha Gautama. Throughout the world he is known as Gautama Buddha.

Exercise work
Describe the birth-story of Siddhartha
Lesson: 2

Childhood

After the birth of the prince Siddhartha saint Aslit came to see him. He was also known as the great saint Kaladevala. He was overwhelmed seeing the child prince and first expressed his delight. After a while his two eyes turned wet with tears. The king asked anxiously the cause of this sudden pleasure and pain. Saint Aslit said, ‘Your Majesty, this prince will become the Enlightened Buddha, he will show the world the ways of redemption from sufferings. For this, I was delighted. But I am old. I will not be fortunate enough to listen to the amiable sermons of Buddha, I will die long before. That is why my mind is filled up with sadness.’

Siddhartha was growing up with great care and attendance of his step mother Gautami. Pet hare, fawn, swan and peacock were his playmate. His childhood days were passing joyfully in the exquisite environment of the palace and garden. The king did not want the prince to be out of sight. Once there held a ploughing festival in the city. That day the king, the bureaucrats and the noblemen inaugurated the cultivation work of the whole year driving ploughs in their own hands. The king attended the festival with the prince. Here the prince noticed that the birds and the frogs are eating up the insects coming out of the wet land because of tilling. A snake came and devoured the frog. Again, a kite flying from somewhere pounced upon the snake and took it away. What happened in front of his eyes made Siddhartha very anxious. He started thinking of this cruelty of human beings and animals for their survival and went to solitude, away from noise and crowd. He absorbed himself in deep meditation sitting under the shade of a huge Jambu-tree. In the mean time ploughing festival was over, now it is time for everybody to return home. But where is the prince! After reaching all around, he was found absorbed in deep meditation under the shade of Jambut-ree. The face of the prince was dazzling in a celestial light. The king and the others were wonder struck and overwhelmed at this sight. Everybody along with the king was perturbed at this incident. King Shuddhodan again remembered foretelling of saint Aslit. After the break of meditation the king returned to the palace with his son.

His education life started under the great scholars. His first learning started with Brahmin son Vishvanmitra. At the outset of learning alphabet, he showed a mark of peerless talent. When he uttered each alphabet, immediately, he uttered a moral sentence containing the same alphabet. Gradually, he attained efficiency in many languages, scriptures and 64 types of calligraphy. He also mastered the scriptures like Puranas, History, Yoga, Vaisheshika Nyaya, Mathematics and the science and art of medicine. Simultaneously, he successfully mastered the art of politics, hunting, horse-riding, archery, driving etc. as a Khattiya (warrior). Yet he showed some exceptional behaviour. Such as when he nearly reached victory he let loose this reins to give opportunity to Devadatta, His competitor, to win. Once he went on hunting but set free the prey getting it within his reach. At this, his companions got annoyed but he was pleased as the life of a helpless fawn was saved.

The mark of Siddhartha’s talent was found in his very childhood. Siddhartha, with his merit settled the crisis created with water of the river Rohini flowing between the kingdoms Kapilavastu and Devadaha. A huge tree fell on the River Rohini and created obstruction to its flow. As a result, the whole water of the river began to flow towards Kapilavastu and Devadaha was being deprived of water of the river. People from both the cities strived hard to move the tree away but in vain. Paying heed to the hue and cry of a lot of people, Siddhartha who was playing nearby arrived at the spot with his group.
The Sakya youngsters failed to move the tree despite their heartfelt effort. Then Siddhartha ought to hold of the top of the tree and pulled with full force towards the current. At this, the part of the tree which was lying on earth, moved with mud from the horizontal to a vertical position making the water flow clears. The prince reached to his youth from his boyhood. Quickness and agility is the characteristic of this age. But Siddhartha was different in his behaviour. He often passed his hours in the touch of nature in a peaceful mind. Sometimes, he left the company of his playmates and engrossed himself in deep meditation.

One day the prince was enjoying the beauty of nature sitting in the garden. A flock of white swans was flying through the blue sky. Being amazed, Siddhartha was enjoying this sight. Suddenly, a swan struck by an arrow fell down on his lap. The bird was moaning in pain. The heart of Siddhartha was flooded with pity at the painful sight of the arrow struck swan. He removed the arrow with care. He nursed and cured the swan. At that time another prince Devadatta came and demanded the swan. He said, 'Prince, the swan is mine. I shot it. Return me my swan’. Siddhartha did not return the swan. He said, 'you wanted to kill the swan by throwing arrow. I saved its life. Whose right is more? Who wants to kill or who has given life?’ Devadatta did not pay heed to the logic of the prince. To settle the conflict, the case was raised to the elders. The elders supported the logical reasoning of Siddhartha Gautama and said, ‘the prince is right. The giver of life has a better claim on the swan.’ Siddhartha cured the swan and set it free to the open sky.

The sweet behaviour, generosity, friendly manners, his talented foresight won the hearts of all the palace dwellers and the common subjects. He became favourite to all.

Exercise Work

Describe any one event of Siddhartha’s childhood

Lesson: 3

Siddhartha Gautama and Gopadevi

Siddhartha Gautama reached to sixteen. Seeing through indifferent and aloof nature of the son, kind Sudhodana wished to turn his son to family life. He arranged a Sayonybara ceremony. The prince Siddhartha sat in the royal meeting with Ashokabhanda at his side. The beautiful princess and the brightest dames from different states came by turns. The prince gave away different gifts to them from Ashokabhanda. The whole day went by. Ashokabhanda became empty. The prince could choose none of the princess. He was about to leave his seat. Just at that moment entered the beautiful and sweet smiling princess Jasodhara Gopa of the neighborhood democratic state Koliya. Asokabhanda was exhausted. The prince felt hesitated. Then, with a smile on her face, Jasodhara Gopa, the daughter of Dandapani, asked, ‘Is there no gift for me?’ In a moment, Prince Siddhartha adorned Gopa Devi’s finger with his own ring. At this sight, everyone present in the meeting was overwhelmed with joy.

King Sudhodana sent a formal proposal of marriage of his son to Gopa’s father Dandapani. Dandapani was glad to receive such proposal. But he informed that according to the custom of their clan, the wooer of their daughter should have to prove his excellence in horse riding, archery, sword playing etc. So, Prince Siddhartha involved himself in a competition with the Kshatriya princes from home and abroad on an appointed day. He proved his excellence in horse riding, archery, sword playing—in all one by one. On the stage Gopa garlanded Siddhartha as her bridegroom. Companion of Bodhisattva for life beyond life, Jasodhara Gopa was tied into wedlock with Siddhartha Gautama. King Shuddhadana celebrated his son’s marriage ceremony in great ostentation and festivity. Gautama turned to family life. The king also became free from anxiety.

The days of the prince Siddhartha and the royal wife were passing very happily in magnificent palaces built in the flowery gardens noisy with the chirping of birds to suit each different season. There is no pain or suffering anywhere. The world seems full of joy.

Exercise Work
How was the king relieved of tension?

Lesson: 4
Encounter with the four nimittyas

One day Siddhartha decided to go on a tour. King Suddhadana made arrangements for a cheerful tour for his son. The prince went out to travel around the city with charioteer Channa. He took his dear horse Kanthaka with him. They traveled for away. The city is well decorated, the city dwellers well adorned and happy. Everybody welcomed the prince with pleasure. He advanced a bit far. Suddenly he noticed an old man, weak and white hair, with a senile body walking with lot of efforts with a stick in his hand. Siddhartha asked Channa, ‘who is this?’ white hair, flabby skin and senile body?’ Channa replied, ‘He has become old because of age, when age increases, one day everybody gets old and weak.’ Siddhartha thought, will I become old someday? Will my dear Gopadevi also become old? He told Channa to move around the chariot. I will not travel anymore today.

Next day again he came out to travel around the city. He came outside the city and saw that a man was wailing beneath a tree, his eyes and face looked pale in pain. Siddhartha again asked Channa, ‘What has happened to him?’ Channa informed, ‘All human beings are subject to suffer from illness someday.’ The prince again became sad. He engrossed himself in deep thought. That day also he returned to the palace. Returning to the palace, the prince began to think of that old man and the sick man. Will everybody become such old? Are all men subject to such sufferings being attacked with diseases?

In this way, the thoughtful Siddhartha came out to travel around the city on the third day again, with charitter Channa, riding on his horse Kanthak. When he came to a little distance outside the city, he saw some people going bewailing carrying a deceased body on their shoulder. Seeing this group of mourners, Siddhartha asked to Chhanna, ‘What has happened to them? Why are they crying?’ Channa replied with a sad heart, ‘they are carrying a dead body. The dead is their near one. They are bewailing at the death of their dear ones.’ Siddhartha asked again, ‘Will the bewailing bring the dead man back to life?’
Channa said, ‘No, the dead never get back to life.’ He asked again, ‘Will all men die like this?’ Channa replied, ‘Yes prince, all who are alive will once die.’ Siddhartha was very sad seeing this pitiful plight of the creatures on earth. He returned to the palace with a sorrowful heart.

One the fourth day, he came out to see the city again, and went far away outside the city where he came across a meditating ascetic in a solitary place under a big tree. Siddhartha felt attracted to the sight of this steadfast, calm and contemplating ascetic. He asked Channa, ‘Who is he? What’s he doing?’ Channa replied, ‘He is an ascetic who has left everything. Giving up the attachment of his family, he has been meditating to know the truth. Within no time a feeling of monkhood awakened in Siddhartha Gautama.

He found himself in a monk. He took a vow to search for the ways of redemption of sufferings, decrepitude and disease of the world. He ordered Channa to turn the chariot around.

Traveling around the city, Siddhartha fully realized the catastrophic end of human life encountering the decrepitude disease, death and the monk. These are called the encounter of the Cari Nimmittas by Siddhartha.

Exercise Work
Describe what are the Cari Nimmittas

Lesson: 5
Siddhartha’s Renunciation

Renunciation of Siddhartha
Siddhartha Gautama could not find any peace in his mind after seeing the four causes. All the while he lost he lost himself in deep contemplation. That very scene of the younger ascetic engrossed in deep meditation made a lasting impression on the mind of Gautama. He decided to leave home in search of ways of emancipation from sufferings. He thought of taking permission from his father before leaving home. He went to his father and expressed him of his decision. Listening to his son’s words, the king felt as if he were thunder struck. He controlled his feeling with much effort and asked his son, ‘who is dearer than his own life, you are the prince of the kingdom of Sakya, the heir to the throne, for what you want to leave home?’ Siddhartha said in reply, ‘If you can ascertain me four things, I will not leave home.’

1. I will never be broken down with old age, I will be evergreen;
2. I will never be affected with disease;
3. Death will never snatch away my life; and
4. I will attain inexhaustible wealth.

Listening to his son’s condition, the king was surprised and said, ‘It’s impossible! Decrepitude, illness, death can not be prevented by anybody, rescind this conditions, son.’ Siddhartha said, ‘Death also can separate us at any time. A house on fire is to be left. I am determined to renounce home.’ The king got to realize that the son is adamant accomplish magnanimous tasks, he can not be bound any more. He told with a saturated tone, ‘Son! Let your desires be fulfilled. Siddhartha left his father’s room with tearful eyes making obeisance to his father.

In the meantime, a son was born enlightening the lap of Gopa Devi. Hearing the news of his son’s birth, Gautama absentmindedly uttered, ‘Rahul is born, a bond is created.’ King Shuddhodana came to know it from a messenger and named his grandson Rahul.’ On this side Gautama took the decision that this tie is to be broken. On the other side, the king arranges singing and dancing to keep Gautama in a cheerful mood. But Siddhartha could not pay attention to pleasure making, he felt asleep. The dancing maids also hesitatingly fell asleep here and there seeing the prince in a sleeping state. Gautama woke up and became annoyed looking at the dancing maids sleeping in a disheveled posture. He took decision, ‘Right today I will have to leave the house’. It was the full moon night of Ashara. The city was flooded with full moon light. The prince went to Gopa Devi’s room for the last time. He found that his baby son was sleeping with his mother. Looking at the innocent face of his son he felt a kind of lone. He thought, he would caress his son. But if he tries to fondle the son, Gopa may wake up. He controlled himself. He came out of the house silently. He woke his charioteer Channa up. He ordered him to prepare the horse. Channa brought forth Kanthaka, the horse king, well prepared. Siddhartha Gautama rode on Kanthaka and drove away out of the town. Then he reached on the bank of the Anoma. This is the time for farewell. Gautama got down from the horse back and cut his long hair with his sword. He put off his royal dress and ornaments. Giving the crown to the hand of Channa He said, ‘Give it to father.’ He ordered to give the royal dress and ornaments to the hands of his mother, His shoes to Gopa Devi and his golden sword to his son Rahul. He ordered, ‘Channa, now you return.’ Parting with Gautama was heart rending to Kanthaka that it died at once. Doleful Channa returned to Kapilavastu. The prince left his house and royal happiness and became an ascetic. Gautama started walking alone by the side of River Anoma towards the deep forest. This renunciation of Siddhartha at the age of twenty nine and at the hour (tithi) of Ashari full moon is known as the Mahabhinnikamana in Buddhist literature.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Exercise Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>What were the conditions given to his father before Siddhartha left home?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why Siddhartha’s son was named Rahul?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Lesson: 6
Attaining Buddhahood

Leaving the palace Gautama came to the lap of nature surrounded by river, forest and hills. Spending a few days in the hermitage of the sages He reached Vesali. Here he became a disciple of saint Alara Kalama and learnt philosophy from him. He practised the seven stages of meditation (Samadhi). But his thirst for knowledge remained unquenched even under him. He returned to Rajageha. Here he remained in the cave of Ramagiri hill for a few days. He tried to gather knowledge from those saints. This cave was the abode of many saints. One day while collecting alms, king Bimbisara felt attracted to this young ascetic. He called for him to the palace. He requested him to leave the hard ascetic life and offered him high official post in the kingdom. But the person who has left the throne, can the offer of higher post or wealth deviate him from his mission? He has already abandoned the royal flamboyance.

He practised religion under the renowned contemporary religious teacher called Ramaputra Rudraka. Time came when he gained equivalence with his teacher. Simultaneously he realised that through the teachings of his master and the method of worship is of higher level, it is not possible to earn the true knowledge with it. He left the Rajageha taking leave of his master. Saint Alara Kalama’s three disciples’ Kondanya, Vappa and Assawjit and master Ramaputra Rudraka’s two disciples Mahanama and Vaddiya joined him.

He walked far away from the Rajageha and reached Uruvela. The place was surrounded with the beautiful scenery of nature. He came to a village called Senani. There was deep forest beside. River Neranjana was flowing there. Another name of this river is Falgu. Solitary nature was always a thing of attraction to Gautama. So he liked the place very much. He decided that he would be absorbed in divine contemplation right here to know the end of sufferings.
Six years have gone by in deep meditation. His glamorous body turned lean and thin. He became unable to walk or move because of his physical weakness. He became so weak that one day he could hardly get out of water after bathing in the river. With lot of efforts he caught hold of a branch of a big tree and managed to get on to the shore. He could realize that ceaseless meditation would lead him to death. He will not be able to know the ways of redemption from sufferings. He felt that the true way of meditation would be to eat bit by bit and adopt the middle path. Neither laborious meditation nor life of luxury is favorable for redemption of sufferings. For this reason, he adopted the middle path.
Sujata offering sweets (Payes) to the Buddha

The five disciples Kaundinnya, Vappa, Bhaddya, Mahanama, and Aswajit, left the company of sramanera Gautama to see him taking food. One day he sat under a large Bunyan tree after having bart. Then a house wife of the village Senany named Sujata offered him Payes. Gautama accepted the Payes of Sujata. That day was the full moon day of Vesakha. Taking payes he again started meditation. He committed to himself that he would not leave this sit before achieving Enlightenment.

In the sky, there was the full moon of Vesakha. Determined Gautama is engrossed in deep meditation at the foot of the banyan tree. He is in a state of meditation in search of ways of redemption from sufferings. The earth reverberated. Mara, the symbol of evil force like covetousness, cravings and desires, fearfulness etc., got afraid at such a row of him. To make deviated him from his goal, Mara with his groups made manifold efforts. There was a terrible fight (between Buddha and Mara). Rati, Arati and Trishna-these three daughters of Mara attacked the meditating Bodhisattva with pushpadhanu and pancashara. They made different gestures and did fraudulent activities to break his meditation. Then He started a debate with Mara. He declared in a firm voice, ‘If the hills and poles displace, the whole earth turns empty, if the whole stars fall down to earth with other heavenly bodies and Indra if all creatures on earth become unanimous and the great sea dries up it will not more a bit from this seat. In the battle, Mara was defeated to Sakya lion. Gaining Enlightenment, Siddhartha Gautama became Buddha. Then he was thirty five.
While meditating, in the first quarter of the night, He knew His previous birth. In the second quarter of the night, He obtained celestial eyes. In the third quarter of the night, He was informed of the causes of birth, decay, illness and death. He realized the four noble truths. He discovered the Eight Noble Paths, the way to the cessation of sufferings.

Gautama Buddha after attainment of Enlightenment.

The word ‘bodhi’ means supreme knowledge. He became Buddha after the attainment of ‘Bodhi’ the name of the Banyan tree under which He received the Buddhahood came to be known as ‘Bodhi tree’. He is known as Gautama Buddha to the world. The place at which he attained Buddhahood is known as ‘Buddha Gaya’.

After attainment of Buddhahood, His life of Bodhisattva came to an end. He obtained the wisdom of emancipation i.e. Nibbana. He noticed that lack of knowledge is the root of all our sufferings. It is possible to destroy sorrows with the destruction of ignorance.

After attainment of Buddhahood, the rays of light arose in his body, the world reverberated with a joyful sound. Eradicating the craving, he won the sufferings; he broke the tie between birth and death. The next seven days he sat down cross-legged under the Bodhitree and felt happiness. In the second week He stood in the North East quarter and gazed with motionless eyes at the Bodhitree.

In the third week, He strolled around the Bodhitree. In the fourth week He sat at Ratanaghara Cetiya and felt happiness of emancipation. In the fifth week He remained meditating sitting in Padmasana (lotus seat) under the Ajapala Banyan (Nagroda) tree. In the sixth week He meditated under the Mucalinda or Muckunda tree. In the seventh week He passed his hours meditating under the Rajayatana tree. Here he enjoyed the happiness of attaining Magga and Maggaphala, and happiness of emancipation. After seven weeks when Buddha’s meditation was broken, at that time two traders named Tapassu and Bhallika were going by that way. When they saw the enlightened greatman, absorbed in deep meditation at the root of Rajayatana, they worshipped him with honey and cake. Buddha whole heartedly received the traders’ gift that are given with due respect. This was his taking of food for the first time after forty nine days when he received Sujata’s porridge.
Life and Education of Gautama Buddha

While approving their respectable offerings, Buddha preached them about his new way of redemption from suffering. The traders were grateful and took refuge in Buddha and his religion. Tapassu and Bhallika became fortunate to be the first worshippers of Buddha. As there was no Sangha formed yet, they came to be known as ‘Dvi-vacika upasaka’. The seven places related to the memory of the attainment of Buddhahood such as: Root of Bodhi ((Bodhipallanka), Animesh Cetiya, Cankamana Cetiya, Ratanaghara Cetiya, Ajapala Bunyan tree, Root of Mucalinda, Rajayatana tree etc. are known as seven great places in the Buddhist Scripture. The Buddhists offer their heartfelt homage towards these seven great places with great respect.

Exercise work

What was king Bimbishara’s offer to Siddhartha?

What do you mean by middle path?

Who were the ‘Dvi vacika upasaka’?

Write the name of the seven great places.

Lesson: 7

Preaching of Religion

After the attainment of Buddhahood, Buddha decided to preach his newly found religion. For this, on the day of Ashari full-moon he arrived to Ishipatan Mriga daba, of Saranath. At that time His previous five discipules: Kondanya, Vappa, Bhaddiya, Mahanama and Assvajita were staying there. He preached his new religion to them. They were the first monks indoctrinated by Buddha. In the Buddhist religious history they are known as the first five discipules (panca Vaggiya Shisy). Through their initiation the Bhikkhu Sangh was formed. Buddha’s first preachings were known as ‘Dhamma Chakka Pavattana Sutta’. Buddha instructed newly discovered four noble truths, eight noble paths, theory of dependent origination (Paticca Samuppada), impermanence and non-soul etc. The five discipules listened to the bewitching sermons of this new religion throughout the night with rapt attention. Buddha started to observe rain-retreat (vassavasa) in that Tapavana with his first five discipules. At that time Yasa, son of a richman (setthi) along with his four friends getting annoyed with family life took the pabbajja (initiation) to Buddha. Following them fifty more youths also became (Bhikkhu) monks. After the end of rain-retreat (Vassavasa), Buddha sent the group of monks to different directions to preach this peerless religion. He said, ‘Muttaham Bhikkhave sabbapashi, ye dibba ye ca manusa, tumhe pi bhikkha ve mutta sabbapasehi ye dibba ye ca manusa, carratha Bhikkhave carikam bahu jana hitaya bahu kana sukhaya lokanukampaya, athaya hitaya sukhaya devamanussanam ma ekam dve agamittha, desatha bhikkha ve dhammam adi kalyanam, majjge kalyanam pariyosanan kalyanam.’

This means, ‘O bhikkhus! I am free from all types of attachments including god and human being. Monks! You also be free from all types of attachments including god and human being. Go ye, O bhikkhus and wander forth for the gain of the many, for the welfare of the many. Do not go two together to the same direction. Preach that religion at the beginning, middle and end of which there is welfare.’ Directing them as such Buddha himself started for Senani village of Uruvela.
On the way to Uruvela, there was a deep forest. Buddha was taking midday rest in that forest under the cool shadow of a large tree. At that time, a group of youths came to him with a hue and cry and asked, ‘Master! Did you see any woman going by this way?’ The Buddha said, ‘Youths! What is the use of a woman to you?’ The youths informed, ‘That woman is a harlot, came to enjoy with us. We all lost ourselves in enjoyment. On this opportunity, the harlot fled away with our valuable things. Now, we are looking for her.’ He now asked the youth, ‘Boys! Think, which one is better on your part - searching for the harlot or your own self?’ Searching for self? What is that!’ the boys asked in astonishment. Buddha told them to sit down peacefully. Paying homage they also sat in the front of Buddha. Then Buddha explained the youths about what searching for self is. He preached them religious sermons. At this, the youths’ knowledge opened up. They took the initiation from Buddha.

On his way to Uruvela, he preached many people of this religion of welfare. Among these, fire worshipper three Kassapa brothers are mentionable. As per his promise, he went to the Rajageha and accepted the invitation of king Bimbhisara. The king gifted him the Venuvana Vihara. In this Vihara, Sariputra (Sariputta) and Moggalana accepted Buddha’s along with fifty disciples. Right here, Buddha introduced the Vinaya rules for the Bhikkhu Sangha. From the Rajageha He went to Kapilavatthu. There He met with His father Suddhodana and mother Mahapajapati Gautami. Then He preached to Gopa Devi. That time the Sakya boys like Ananda, Devadatta, Aniruddha, Bhigu, Kimbila, Bhaddiya etc. took the initiation under Buddha. At the same time, their companion barbar son Upali also took the initiation. Buddha gave initiation (pabbajja) also to his step brother Sundaranda. He gave pabbajja to his son Rahula and made heir of Buddhhasasana (regime of Buddha). King Suddhodan, out of love for his son, requested to receive the kingship of the kingdom. In reply, Buddha said to the king like this, ‘His highness’ fathomless love for son is not unknown to me. But the tie of your love has now been broken. Look to your subjects with that eye of love for your son. Love each of them as your own son and love all human beings, even all creatures on earth. In that case you will find innumerable sons like Siddhartha and in the long run you will be endowed with the happiness of Nibbana.’ Thus, the emancipated man Lord-Buddha made aware His loving father about the duties to be an ideal and pious leader to his subjects.

Once there was a conflict between the Sakya and Kalya regarding the water of Rohini River. To settle the conflict, Buddha went to Kapilavatthu from Vesali. At that time five hundred Sakya boys joined in the Bhikkhu Sangha. Their wives, under the leadership of Mahapajapati Gautami, came to Buddha and sought permission to receive pabbajia to lead the life of a nun. But Buddha rejected their request and went back to Vesali. Mahaprajapati and her attendants did not give up, they cut their hair and wearing yellow robe followed Buddha up to Vesali. They reached Vihara with their wounded legs and requested Buddha for the second time. At the end, Ananda Thera prayed to Buddha to initiate them as nun. At last, Buddha accepted their prayer and the desire of Mahaprajapati were fulfilled. Then Bhikkhuni Sangha was established with Gopa Devi and other Sakya women under the leadership of Mahapajapati Gautami. Thus the women became the member of the Bhikkhuni Sangha.

Regarding the establishment of the Bhikkhu Sangha, Buddha said to his dear disciple Ananda, ‘O Ananda! like men, women also can be endowed with Samannaphala (fruits of monkhood).’ He also said, ‘the women are capable of being endowed with higher Samannaphala and if the number of nuns like Khema, Uppalavanna, Dhammapinna and Bhaddakapiplane are increased there would be no ill omen other than goodness for my promulgated religion.’ He also said, ‘In the attainment of Magga phala, women are equal to men, there is no difference.’

Once Buddha was staying at Savatthi. The only baby son of a helpless woman named Kisa Gautami died. She turned almost like a mad out of sorrows for her son and came to Buddha and requested Him to bring her son back to life. Buddha was well aware that a dead can not be brought back to life. But the sorrows of that willful woman were to be mitigated. She was to be made understand the reality. Buddha said to Kisa Gautami in a calm and slow voice, ‘Bring me a handful of mustard from a house where never a father, mother, brother, sister, son, daughter or any body else died.’ The wailing mother moved all day long from door to door of Savatthi in search of a handful of mastered with her dead son in her lap. But though she could find mustard, she could not find any house where nobody died. Tired and exhausted Kisa Gautami realized at the end of the day, all men are subject to death. Death is the inevitable end of man. Her son is no exception. Then she returned to Buddha. Buddha said, ‘the person who is attacked with death, he can in no way be saved. Every living human being is liable to death. Hearing these words, sorrows of Krisha Gautami was appeased; she came to understand the fact. She received the pabbajia and entered into the Bhikkhuni Sangha. In this way Buddha helped the shelter seekers to realize the truth through real experience.

At the time of Buddha the system of racial antagonism reached to its severe form. But Buddha opened up the entrance of people from all professions, race and caste to his Bhikkhu Sangha. In Buddhist religion there is no place of discrimination among classes, races or colours. The religion of Buddha attained fulfillment through the assemblage of many like Brahmin Bharadvaja, Magadhi’s king Bimbisara, Kosal’s king Prasenjit along with his courtiers, princes, Amrapali, untouchable Sunit, Srethi (richman) Anatha Pindika, slave Purna, goldsmith son Chunda etc. They contributed a lot to the development of religion, Sangha, Vinaya and Buddhaasasana (religion of Buddha) not through their birth but by dint of their activities. Buddhist religion invigorated with the ideology of equality, friendship and pity, created a Renaissance to the then India stricken with diverse discriminations. For long forty five years he preached religion in different cities and localities. Among these Buddhagaya, Savatthi, Saranath, Kosambi, Vesali, Rajagaha, Vajji, Malla, Pava, Kusinara, Cunar, Kanauj. Mathura, Alavi etc. are noteworthy.

Exercise Work
Who are called first five disciples?
Why is Venuvana Vihara famous?
What advice did Buddha impart to king Suddhadana regarding the protection of his subject?

---

Lesson : 8

Mahaparinibbana

Gautama Buddha, for long forty five years, trode to different directions and preached that religion at the beginning, middle and end of which there is welfare. Then, on a Maghi full moon day, he was staying in a garden name Capala Cetiya of Vesali. That day he annouced in front of the Bhikkhu Sangha, gods and people that in the next Vesaka full moon day he will leave the span of his life. Gautama Buddha, the light of the world would attain Mahaparinibbana. Then after three months, on the eve of the full moon of Vesaka he arrived at Kusinara with the group of monks. When He reached at a place called Pava of Kushinara, He became a guest of goldsmith son Chunda. After taking meal, He felt sick. Retuning from Pava, Buddha lay down for rest under the twin shal tree in the shal grove of Mall. On the sky there was the full moon of Vesaka. Attendant and dear disciple Ananda and the other monks were sitting around Buddha. At the last hour of Buddha, Ananda became very anxious. Addressing Ananda, Buddha said, ‘Ananda! attadipa viharatha, atta sarana annasarana, dhammadipa viharatha dhamma sarana annasaran.’ This means ‘O Ananda, Move, being a light of yourself, refuge in religion is the best refuge.’ He also said, ‘O Ananda! In my absence it may seem to you that the advice of Master (Buddha) has come to an end, we have no more Master. Ananda! Do not think like this. Ananda! The Religion and vinaya preached by the great that will be your master in my absence.’ Then, at the last moment He gave ahiitation to ‘Subhadra’. Buddha, for the last time, asked the Bhikkhu Sangha who were present there, ‘Does anybody of you have any doubt to Buddha, to religion, to Sangha, or about the ways directed by me?’ The gathering bhikkhus remained silent. At that time, He delivered His last words of instruction, ‘O monks, all beings are subject to decay. Do carefully all your duties with the vigilance. The last sermons of Buddha have been narrated in the ‘Mahaparinibbana Sutta’. With the utterance of His last words, Buddha absorbed in deep meditation’ Passing the stages of meditation one after another, He absorbed himself in Nirodha Samadhi and in the third quarter of the night He attained the very peaceful Mahaparinibbana. Then He was eighty.
Buddha laid on the bed of Mahaparinibbana

His dead body was preserved for a week. Ven Mahakassapa set His funeral pyre on fire. The Brahmin Drona divided his relics into eight parts. Ajatasattu, Licchavis, Sakiyans, Buliyans, Koliyans, the inhabitants of Betadvipa, Mallas of Pava, and the Mallas of Kusinara received a part of the relics. The relics of Buddha are known as ‘Buddha Dhatu’. Still now the Buddhists offer their prayer and homage towards the Buddha’s relics.

Exercise Work

When and where did Buddha declare of His Mahaparinibbana?
What was the last advice of Buddha?
Who are the ones that received the relics of Buddha?

Exercise

Fill in the blanks

1. His life was soaked in the essence of ..................
2. The queen was overwhelmed with a ................. pleasure.
3. A ............... will emerge in the Sakya clan.
4. The ..................... engrossed themselves in great festivity.
5. Through the world he is known as .......................
Short questions

1. Write in brief the happenings at the birth of Siddhartha.
2. Narrate the story of Saint Ashit.
3. What do you mean by Mahabhinikkamana?
4. Who are the first five disciples (Panca Vaggiya Sisya)?
5. What was the last advice of Buddha?

Essay type Questions

1. Describe what you know about Gautama Buddha’s preaching of religion.
2. Narrate about the childhood of Siddhartha.
3. Discuss the Mahaparinibbana of Gautama Buddha.

Multiple choice Questions

1. On which day of full moon the queen Mayadevi desired to go to her father’s house?
   a) Vesaka b) Ashari
   c) Ashvini d) Kartika

2. The extraordinary talent of Siddhartha was revealed in His boyhood through
   i. The realization of Saint Ashits’ fore telling
   ii. Moving the fallen tree on Rohini river.
   iii. Clearing the flow of water.

Which one is correct below?

a) i b) i and iii
   c) ii and iii d) i, ii and iii
3. ‘?’ marked place refers to what event?
   (a) Family life of Siddhartha
   (b) Life history of Siddhartha
   (c) Siddhartha saw a group of people carrying a dead body
   (d) Attainment of Buddhahood of Siddhartha.

4. In that event Siddhartha took a vow to-
   i. Search for the ways of redemption of human being.
   ii. Employ himself to the observance of ascetic life.
   iii. Go on exile.

Which one below is correct?
   a) i and ii  b) ii and iii
   c) i and iii  d) i, ii and iii
Creative questions

1. Information chart

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Sl. No.</th>
<th>Subject</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1.</td>
<td>birth</td>
<td>under the Sal tree</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.</td>
<td>father's land</td>
<td>Kapilavastu</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.</td>
<td>marriage</td>
<td>at the age of sixteen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.</td>
<td>meditation</td>
<td>six years</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

a. Who arrowed the swan?
b. What was the foretelling of Saint Ashit? Explain.
c. To whom does the given information chart apply? Explain.
d. The great man described in the information chart 'was able to attain knowledge after six years of meditation adopting the middle path'. Do you agree with this statement? Show reason for your answer.

2. Suvarthi is a beautiful girl of a philanthropist family. She completed her education at the right time. So her father wanted to get her married. All her marital formalities were completed with a young man who is educated and adept in horse riding and other things. The happiness of their conjugal life did not last long. Rather, to fulfil the mental desire and to lead a ascetic life, Suvarthi's husband went away and vowed to attain supreme knowledge.

a. In which full moon did the queen Mahamaya dream?
b. Why did the great saint Kaldeval become happy at first and then cried seeing the prince? Explain.
c. Which incident of the text has been accompanied with the incident of Uddipak? Explain.
d. How did the husband of Suvarthi follow Gautama Buddha to fulfill the desires of his mind? Analyse in the light of religion.
Chapter Two

Buddha and Bodhisattva

Buddha and Bodhisattva are the titles. The person who becomes the owner of all round knowledge attaining the highest perfection of his character is known as Buddha. On the other side, the person who observes the regulations to attain Buddhahood is called Bodhisattva. Buddha and Bodhisattva is the essence of Buddhist religion. The whole Buddhist literature centers on these two beings (Sattvas). These two titles are not given by anybody. Nobody can award this name to anybody. These two stages is to be attained through rapt meditation and hard perseverance. These two are the most respectable states of human career. We will study about Buddha and Bodhisattva in this chapter.

At the end of this chapter we will be able to -

- describe the identity of Buddha and Bodhisattva;
- narrate the types of Buddha and Bodhisattva;
- Differentiate the qualities of Buddha and Bodhisattva.

Lesson: 1

Introduction to Buddha and Bodhisattva

Buddha and Bodhisattva are two proper names. One is complementary two the other. It is a must for the followers of Buddhism to have knowledge about Buddha and Bodhisattva. Here Buddha does not mean only Guatama Buddha. According to the scripture, there had been many Buddhas before him. Their ideals and characteristics had been almost same. They were endowed with peerless virtues. Like Buddhas, Bodhisattvas are also so many in number. They are striving to attain Buddhahood. The introduction to Buddha and Bodhisattva are presented here under

Introduction to Buddha

The word ‘Bodhi’ means supreme knowledge. The word ‘Bodhi’ evolved from the word ‘Bodh’. The person who attains fulfilment in knowledge, turns a Buddha in the long run. So the plain meaning of the word Buddha is the wise one. But this wisdom is not the general wisdom or only the mundane wisdom. This wisdom is the combination of a multidiscipline. Especially the wisdom attained through the study of four noble truths. This wisdom may also be called absolute or highest knowledge. The knowledge of one’s previous births and knowledge of understanding the mental notions of others are subject to it. The knowledge of one’s previous birth means the capability to commemorate one’s previous birth history and understanding the hearts of others means the capacity to foresee the mental state of others. To attain such kind of super human knowledge is very difficult. Prince Siddhartha Gautama’s attainment of such wisdom is the aftermath of His immense sacrifice and deep contemplation. For this reason, He could achieve the name Buddha in this world. Buddha is a kind of title meaning the best of human beings. One can attain this title only if one can ensure fulfilment in the practice of perfect knowledge annihilating all kinds of cravings. So, despite the general meaning of the word Buddha being a wise man, its underlying meaning is much deeper. So, all the wise men of the world are not the Buddhas. Buddha is the magnimous man devoid of anger, jealousy and greed. Buddha could foresee His own and others’ past present and future. He did know whom, when and how he should advice. The knowledge of Buddhahood is matchless and extraordinary. This knowledge is peerless. This gets expressed in one’s activities. He is the owner of infinite knowledge; the circumference of His knowledge is also limitless. This is not measurable by the limited knowledge of the general human beings.

The appearance of a Buddha in the world is very rare. Buddhahood can be attained through the rapt meditation for life beyond life. The way to gain Buddhahood is open to all. But, it is not possible for everybody to gain Buddhahood. There is mention in the scripture that long after the passing away of one Buddha there another Buddha will arrive in the world. Until the new Buddha appears, the Buddhists abide by the rules of the previous Buddha. For example, now it is the reign of Gautama Buddha. He appeared in the 6th Century B.C.

The practice for attaining Buddhahood is like a determination to reach a certain goal. This may also be called the cycle of the perfections of fulfilment. The person who can completely realize the three symptoms i.e. impermanence, Sorrows and non-soul, goes forward to the attainment of Buddhahood. He absorbs himself in the meditation of eight noble paths realizing the four noble truths. Besides this, one is to complete the ten perfections for the attainment of Buddhahood. Parami means fulfilment. Ten perfections are: charity (dana), precepts (sila), renunciation (nekkhamma), forgiveness (khanti), vigour (viriya), truth (sacca), self determination (adhittahan), loving-kindness (metta), uppekha (neither attachment nor aversion) and wisdom (panna). These perfections have been again divided into thirty types in accordance with perfection (parami) sub-perfection (upa-parami) and absolute perfection (paramattha parami). It is not very easy to attain fulfillment in all these. To fulfil all these perfections, the influence of too many good deeds of many births is required. To attain this influence, one has to take so many births. Not only among the human beings, may he have to take birth as other creatures also. In those innumerable lives, one has to accumulate virtues and full perfections accomplishing good deeds. Thus many Buddhas emerged and will emerge in the world after fulfilling all perfections in their various births.

Introduction to Bodhisattva

Bodhisattva means a being who is determined to search for the ways to emancipation from sufferings. The words ‘Bodhisattva’ comprises of the two words Bodhi and Satva. Here Bodhi means knowledge or wisdom. And Satva means the person who is absorbed in attaining wisdom. He has been able to dedicate himself to the way of attaining knowledge or in search of attaining emancipation from sufferings. He always strives to attain this great objective. So in the simple sense Bodhisattva means that wise satva inspired to attain Buddhahood, or the Satva that rears up Bodhi is called Bodhisattva.

The inspiration for consciousness of Bodhisattva grows from the spontaneous willfulness of the ascetic. But the code of manners becomes determined. This is not a matter of emotion or inquisitiveness. This a matter of conscious exercise based on thoughtful decision. According to Buddhists religion and philosophy, the consciousness for Bodhisattva does not arise if there is not accumulation of good deeds of many births. The practice of Bodhisattva life is fulfilled through the attainment of Buddhahood. So, Bodhisattva is called the sprout of Buddha (Buddhangkura). This kind of consciousness is very rare and hard-earned.

Exercise Work

How is the wisdom of Buddha?

What is the meaning of the word Bodhisattva?
Lesson: 2

The Virtues of Buddha

The virtues of Buddha are infinite. It is hardly possible to express this sea of virtues at a time. If we classify these virtues, it can be divided into nine categories. From that sense, it can be said that there are nine virtues of Buddha; these nine virtues are as follows:

1. He is Arhata: a great man free from all enemies (Ori);
2. He is Sammaka Sambuddha: He is omniscient in all subjects;
3. He is Vijacarana-asampanna: endowed with knowledge of theory that should be practiced and proper behavioural manners;
4. He is Sugata: He has beautifully reached to a nicer place like Nibbana;
5. He is Lokavidi: He has perfect knowledge about three worlds.
6. He is Anuttar: He occupies the highest place in the virtues of Sila (precepts), Samadhi, and wisdom;
7. He is Purisadamma-saratithi: He is the Subduer of all evil powers.
8. He is Satthadevamanussanam: He is the teacher and guide of all Devas (gods) and human beings;
9. He is Buddhabhagava: He is the Buddha attaining fulfilment in all kinds of knowledge, He is the bhagavat in respect of that all-out supreme knowledge.

It is not possible for the commoners to attain these virtues of Buddha. It is also very difficult even to realize the importance of these sea of virtues. Only one, who can attain any one of the qualities of Buddha, is able to realize the importance of these virtues. For this reason, it is said that the Buddha’s virtues are unthinkable.

Each of the steps of the nine virtues described above is combined and enriched with manifold aspects. For example, Arahat or being free from all kinds of enemies means the upliftment to the eight fold Samadhicarya. These are to exercise gradually, completely forsaking anger, jealousy, illusion and cravings. The positive output attained at every step of this gradual method of practice should be well preserved consciously. If one can keep steady the improved state of mind caused by Sadhanacarya and Cary, he can practice for the next step. Thus, through long practice it becomes possible to cross one step after another. In Buddhist literature, these are called the practice for the attainment of Magga or Phala (result). These are: 1) Sotapatti Magga 2) Sotapattiphalā 3) Sakkidagamimaṅga 4) Sakkidagamiṇīpāla 5) Anagami Magga 6) Anagami phala, 7) Arahat Magga 8) Arahatapāla. So, Arahat means the fulfilment of the eight fold higher level methods of practice. The person who is uplifted to this level he is a worshipper victorious over everything.

Sammaka Sambuddha means to be totally self-informed of Noble truth at one’s own initiative. For this, one has to attain fulfilment in the three levels of wisdom. These are: 1) He has attained knowledge on what is essential to know, such as knowledge on Noble truth; 2) He has thought what is worth thinking, according to that he has attained knowledge by his ownself performing all the necessary works by himself; and 3) He carefully forsakes what is to be abandoned. Thus He has become a pure great man without any craving. In the same way, all the levels of Buddha’s virtues are highly significant. So, it is said that the virtues of Buddha are indescribable, unthinkable.

Exercise Work

What are the nine virtues of Buddha?

Name the stages of practice for attaining Magga and Phala.
Lesson: 3
Types of Buddha

In Buddhist religious books, there is mention of three kinds of Buddha. Viz:

1. Samma Sambuddha or Sammaka Sambuddha.
2. Pacceka Buddha or Protteka Buddha.
3. Savaka Buddha or Sravaka Buddha.

Now we will know about these three types of Buddha.

Sammaka Sambuddha

Among the Buddhas, Sammaka Sambuddha is the best. Sammaka Sambuddha means the person who attains Buddhahood by the ceaseless efforts and his own ideals and activities, without the help of any master. He is endowed with the best knowledge. The Sammaka Sambuddhas fulfil the ten perfections by the practice of many births. In his last birth, he takes birth in a suitable family of human beings. As the influence of good deeds in many births before, he becomes the Buddha in this birth attaining Arahathaphala or omniscience.

Sammaka Sambuddhas do not become Buddha only for their own sake. They become the Buddha with the aim of opening the door of allout emancipation for all beings of the world. So for the welfare of all creatures they preach the way of emancipation from sorrows and means of attaining Nibbana.

According to Buddha, the arrival of Sammaka Sambuddha is very rare in this world. No two Sammaka Sambuddha appear at a time in this world. Thousands of years after a Sammaka Sambuddha’s Parinibbana, another Sammaka Sambuddha appears. According to that there are twenty eight Buddha apperaed in this world till now. These 28 Sammaka Buddhhas are

1. Trisankara Buddha
2. Medhankara Buddha
3. Saranankara Buddha
4. Dipankara Buddha
5. Kondanna Buddha
6. Mangala Buddha
7. Sumana Buddha
8. Revata Buddha
9. Sobhita Buddha
10. Anomadarsi Buddha
11. Paduma Buddha
12. Narada Buddha
13. Padumuttara Buddha
14. Sumedha Buddha
15. Sujata Buddha
16. Priyadarsi Buddha
17. Arthadarsi Buddha
18. Dharmadarsi Buddha
19. Siddhartha Buddha
20. Tissa Buddha
21. Phussa Buddha
22. Vipassi Buddha
23. Shikhi Buddha
24. Vessabhu Buddha
25. Kakusadha Buddha
26. Konagamana Buddha
27. Kassapa Buddha
28. Gautama Buddha
Buddha and Bodhisattva

From the study of the book ‘Buddhavamsa’, we can know about 28 Buddhas. According to the description in this book, Gautama Buddha is the last Sammaka Sambuddha. The followers of Buddhism have been practicing this religion preached by Gautama Buddha for more than 2500 years before. The Buddhists worship keeping in front of them the effigy or the portrait of Him. Because He showed people the way to liberation from sufferings and relief from craving as the last Sammaka Sambuddha and directed them the means of attaining Nibbana. He foretold that there a Sammaka Buddha will emerge in this world in the name of Arya Mitra. Thus, with the passage of time after completing the ten perfections, there appears each Buddha with a gap of infinite periods.

Pacceka Buddha

The Pacceka Buddha is an emancipated great man who has attained fulfilment in the practice of self liberation. Following the methods of practice instructed by Sammaka Sambuddha, they destroy all kinds of cravings. Thus they become Buddha attaining Arhataphala by dint of self efforts. The Pacceka Buddha attains Nibbana after their death protecting rebirth. The wisdom of Pacceka Buddha, acquired by meditation is confined to themselves only. They do not unveil the way to the emancipation for others.

Pacceka Buddhas are basically the followers of Sammaka Sambuddha. Innumerable Pacceka Buddhas as such who acquired Arhataphala (fruits of Arhantship) and on the way to Nibbana have been produced in this world and will be produced in future. For this reason the Buddhists believe that the world is not Arhataless or Buddhaless. Like the Sammak Buddhhas, the Pacceka Buddhas are not vocal. They meditate in silence and solitariness.

Savaka Buddha

Savaka Buddha is the virtuous man who is expert in practicing the rules of Sammaka Sambuddha. There are a lot of disciples of a Sammaka Sambuddha. These disciples also have a lot of disciples. These disciples and sub-disciples remain absorbed in meditation for emancipation following the way instructed by Sammaka Sambuddha. Among them many gain Arhataphala. They will not suffer taking birth any more. They are on the way to Nibbana. This kind of emancipated man is called Sravakabuddha.

The Savaka Buddhas stand in the highest position in the practice of religion and philosophy of Sammaka Sambuddha. There are Savaka Buddhas in the followers of each Sammaka Sambuddha. Many of the disciples of Gautama Buddha were Savaka Buddha. Among them the name of Aggasavaka Sariputta and Moggallana, Mahakassapa, Vinayadhara Upali, Dhamma Bhadariya Ananda, Labhisethti Sivali etc. are noteworthy. Besides this, there had been many Savak Buddha at the time of Buddha. They keep themselves involved in the welfare of all beings of the world and help others to attain Nibbana.

Exercise Work

Into which category does Gautama Buddha include among the three types of Buddha?
Describe the qualities of a Pacceka Buddha.
Name some Savaka Buddha.
Lesson: 4
The Virtues of Bodhisattva

The supreme virtue of Bodhisattva is to be determined to fulfil the ten perfections. This is the main factor of Bodhisattva to exercise. The practice of these perfections naturally brings about a lot of changes in the life style of Bodhisattva which make Bodhisattva matchless and extraordinary from other people. These extraordinary characteristic features are the virtues of Bodhisattva.

The virtue of Bodhisattva does not create all on a sudden. These virtues are attained gradually, step by step, in the practice of Bodhisattvahood. For example, the consciousness of Bodhisattva prevails in everybody’s mind but everybody is not termed as Bodhisattva. The person who has become determined to attain Buddhahood and has been determined to meditate for the fulfilment of perfections; he is a Bodhisattva in the real sense of the term. The characteristic features that one earns with the intention of attaining fulfilment of perfections are the virtues of Bodhisattva.

The practice of worship of Bodhisattva is a long term process. This is to be practiced life after life. One must earn some virtues for the attainment of the Bodhisattva career. These cannot be attained through the efforts of one life. It requires continuous efforts of many lives. One can be the owner of the virtues of Bodhisattva through such ceaseless efforts. The virtues of Bodhisattva are as follows:

1. Impermanence in everything - a Bodhisattva accepts this idea as the highest truth of his life style.
2. The Bodhisattvas become the well wisher of all creatures accepting the philosophy of Lord Buddha as the only way.
3. The Bodhisattvas accepts the self doings as the companions of their many births. So, the unselfish, greedless activities is the main characteristic of Bodhisattva.
4. The only aim of Bodhisattva is the attainment of Buddhahood. They never think of name and fame.
5. The Bodhisattvas can sacrifice their lives. But they never get derailed from the practice of truth.
6. The Bodhisattvas, being inspired with the ideals of truth, justice and sacrifice get determined to practice the Sīla (precepts), Samadhi and wisdom.
7. The Bodhisattvas always wish well of all creatures. They do not discriminate between a close relation and a distant one.
8. The Bodhisattvas become the best followers of Metta (loving-kindness) Karuana (compassion), Mudita (sympathy) and Upekkha (neither attachment nor aversion).
9. The Bodhisattvas get determined to practice ten perfections.
10. The Bodhisattvahood is a spontaneous practice. The Bodhisattvas become able to control their minds being enforced with their own consciousness.

Only the notable and the rarest virtues of Bodhisattva are mentioned above.

Exercise Work
Mention the qualities by which we can recognize the Bodhisattva.
Lesson: 5

Types of Bodhisattva

The practice of Bodhisattvahood is very difficult. This sort of practice requires hard contemplation and extreme self-sacrifice determined with firm consciousness. Human beings cannot exercise the Bodhisattvahood easily. Because, the instinct and the self interest lead the human beings towards easy getting things. Human beings cannot think of supreme emancipation. According to Buddhist religion, Bodhisattva is of three types. Such as:

a) Savaka Bodhisattva
b) Pacceka Bodhisattva
c) Sammamaka Sambodhisattva.

a. Savaka Bodhisattva: Here Savaka means listener, audience, disciple or the one who has acquired the knowledge of Bodhi inspired with respect and desire. Though the intention of practice of such Bodhisattvahood originates from listening or seeing, it is not driven by emotion. It is produced from firm determination. The disciples or semi disciples of Gautama Buddha who were engaged in this sort of practice of the path of knowledge (gyana marga) were called Savaka Bodhisattva. Through the fulfillment of practice (Sadhana), the Savaka Bodhisattvas are uplifted to Savaka Buddha. Savaka Bodhisattva Sariputta and Mogallana etc. became the Savakabuddha during the period of Buddha.

b. Pacceka Bodhisattva: The worshipper who is involved in attaining perfect knowledge in the way showed by Buddha, at his own initiative and independently without being under any master, is called Pacceka Bodhisattva. The Pacceka Bodhisattvas, though endowed with all the virtues of perfect knowledge, can not influence other by the light of their own virtues. Many of the disciples of Buddha belonged to this stage.

c. Sammamaka Sambodhisattva: This is the best process to practice the Bodhisattvahood. The followers of Bodhicitta-sadhana who are engaged to the welfare of all creatures are called Sammaka Sambodhisattva. With the fulfilment of their practice they become Sammaka Sambuddha. For example Gautama Buddha is a Sammaka Sambuddha. The Sammaka Sambudhisattvas hopes for the liberation of his own self through the liberation of all creatures. In this way they practice perfections.

Again the Bodhisattva can be divided into three parts according to the method of practice. The Bodhisattva can be divided into three parts on the basis of the source of context or how the inspiration for the practice of Bodhisattvahood arose. Viz:

1. Pannadhika Bodhisattva (Pragyadhika Bodhisattva)
2. Saddadhika Bodhisattva

1) Proggyadhik Bodhisattva: The Bodhisattva that gives the highest importance to the practice of knowledge for attaining the desired goal is called the Pannadhika Bodhisattva. The Bodhisattvas of this stage control their own mind through the practice of perfection of wisdom and gradually attains fulfilment of other perfections.

Thus the Bodhisattvas become analytical in all aspects. They assess and analyze each matter in the light of their wisdom. They go forward to their self directions according to the decision taken in the light of their attained knowledge and experience.

2) Saddadhika Badhisattva: The Bodhisattva that renders highest importance to Saddha (faith) for the attainment of a goal is called Saddadhika Bodhisattva. The Bodhisattvas of this stage faithfully and gradually attain the fulfilment of all perfections. The Saddadhika Bodhisattvas are usually devout worshippers. They are determined to make the practice perfect till their death if they once accept an ideal with a faithfull mind.
3) Viriyadhika Bodhisattva: The Bodhisattva that gives the highest importance to the efforts of doing works for the attainment of the goal is called the Viriyadhika Bodhisattva. The Bodhisattvas of this stage bring their minds in control through the practice of Viriya Parami (viriya Perfection) and gradually attains fulfilment of other perfections. The Viriyadhika Bodhisattvas are fascinated to hard practice. They are involved in hard worship. They remain unmoved in their practice being endowed with the influence of Viriya Parami.

Exercise Work
Describe the characteristic of Savaka Bodhisattva.
Who is Pannadhika (Praggyadhika) Bodhisattva?

Lesson: 6
Difference between Buddha and Bodhisattva

The person who strives to attain perfect knowledge (Bodhiyana) is called Bodhisattva. Bodhisattva is not Buddha. They are called the future Buddha or the sprout of Buddha. He will be a Buddha in some future birth. For becoming a Buddha, he has to be born in different clans for innumerable births and he has to fulfil ten upa-parami, ten parami and ten paramattho parami. It means one has to attain self purification through the practice of each three stages of ten perfections (dasa parami) which is a continuation of the deeds of many births. The main aim of Bodhisattva is to liberate oneself from the desires of all kinds.

Before attainment of Budhahood Gautama Buddha took many birth. This can be known from the study of Buddhist religious texts. Though He was termed in different names in these births, His main identity is Bodhisattva. As Bodhisattva once He was blessed by the previous Buddha Dipankara. Dipankara Sammaka Sambuddho appeared in this world innumerable years ago. At that time Gautama Buddha was leading the life of Bodhisattva. Then He lived in the city of Amaravati in the name of Bodhisattva Sumedha Tapasa. Dipankara Buddha was invited to this Amaravati city along with his disciples.

The city of Amaravati was not so developed in its communication system though it repleted with wealth and paddy. It was rainy season then. The road was muddy because of rainfall. The city dwellers were busy in repairing the road for the communication of Budha. Sumadh Tapasha also took part in this activity. Here the time for the arrival of Buddha neared. But the repair work was yet to be finished. Now, Dipankara Buddha has almost reached near the incomplete road along with His disciples. Only a few yards of repair works was yet to be complete. The city dwellers fell into a deep thought. Sumedha Tapasa found that there was no other way. Throwing down the spade from his hand, he lay down on the muddy road with deep respect. He requested Dipankara Buddha very humbly to go on over his lain body. Dipankara Buddha realized his mental consciousness. In Sumedha Tapasa he foresaw a firmness to reach goal. Then Dipankara Buddha kept his request. To cross the road, he put his legs on the lain body of sumedh Tapasa. Just at that time Sumedha Tapasa desired, with a respectful mind, the blessing of Dipankar Buddha for the fulfilment of his expectation to be the future Sammaka Sambuddha. Dipankara Buddha found all the symptoms of a future Buddha in Sumedha Tapasa. Then he blessed Sumedha Tapasa for the fulfilment of his prayer. His blessings enforced Sumedha Tapasa’s desire for the practice of Bodhidattvahood. He was able to fulfil all perfections through the meditation of life after life. As a result of this good deed, he took his birth in the house of king Suddhadana in his last birth. At this time he was named Siddhartha. At a suitable time, Siddhartha left home and attained Buddhahood through rapt meditation and earned fame as ‘Buddha’.

Buddha, before being born as Siddhattha, was engrossed in the practice of Bodhisattva life in his innumerable births. His Bodhisattva life is described in Jataka literature. According to the description of Jataka, Gautama Buddha was born as Bodhisattva for 550 times. In the different stories of Jataka, there is mention that he fulfilled the perfections (parami) through the different activities like bountifulness (dana), practice of religion and serving others etc. As a part of fulfilment of these perfection activities he took birth as human being, bird and animal as well as various species. In the most beautiful Jataka, It is seen that Bodhisattva was born in Kusavati city as a king named Mahasudarshana. In Banarindra Jataka, he was born as monkey. He was born as king Makhadeva in Makhadeva Jataka and as king Mahajanaka in Mahajanaka Jataka. Besides this, Bodhisattva was also born in different clans like Candal, Sudra, Khattiya, peacock, pegion, and elephant etc.. The only aim of these births was to attain Buddhahood by fulfilling the perfections. From this discussion, it is clear that there is difference between Buddha and Bodhisattva. Among these some differences are given below:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Buddha</th>
<th>Bodhisattva</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1. Buddha-a title regarding the fulfilment of overall knowledge and virtues.</td>
<td>1. Bodhisattva – a title for the practiser of overall knowledge.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Buddhahood can be attained through the fulfilment of the ten perfections. As the Buddhas are liberated from craving of all kinds, they attain Parinibbana.</td>
<td>2. The practice of perfections of Bodhisattva’s is expedited through the efforts of many births. Nobody can attain Nibbana in the state of Bodhisattvahood.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. The Buddhas are endowed with knowledge of present past and future. So they are called the foreseer of Trikala.</td>
<td>3. The Bodhisattvas are not the foreseer of Trikal. They are more prompt to consciously accomplish the good deeds in the present birth in the present birth.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4. The Buddhas are omniscient. They have knowledge about everything-mundane or beyond mundane. They can foretell the present life and after life of all creatures along with human beings.</td>
<td>4. The Bodhisattvas are the practiser of attaining omniscient knowledge. They are ignorant of the present or after life of the creatures. It is impossible for them to foretell in this regard.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5. The Buddhas possess steady mind. They stand above greed, jealously, passion, antipathy, eulogy etc. They are emancipated greatman.</td>
<td>5. There might be a restlessness of mind among the Bodhisattvas. They are not the emancipated great man like the Buddhas.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6. The Buddhas can foreshadow the appearance of future Buddha.</td>
<td>6. The Bodhisattvas can not foretell about any future Buddha or Bodhisattva.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7. The Buddhas preach the religion and philosophy realized by them.</td>
<td>7. The Bodhisattvas themselves do not preach any philosophy. Always they are the followers of the religion and philosophy preached by Buddha.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Exercise

Fill in the blanks
1. The simple meaning of the word Buddha is ..................
2. Only after the fulfilment of the meditation for ten perfections .................. is attained.
3. The person who meditates for the attainment of Bodhigyan is called .................
4. There are ....................... in the followers of each Sammak Sambuddha.
5. The Bodhisattvas get determined to practice ..................... perfections.
6. According to the narration of Jataka, Gautama Buddha was born ............ times as Bodhisattva.
7. In the state of Bodhisattva, it is not possible for anybody to attain ..................

Short questions
1. How many types of Buddhas are there and what are they?
2. How many types of Bodhisattvas are there and what are they?
3. Why are the virtues of Buddha unthinkable?
4. Where is the life story of Bodhisattva narrated?

Essay type questions
1. Describe the process of attaining Buddhahood.
2. Differentiate between Buddha and Bodhisattva.
3. Analyze the importance of the virtues of Buddha.
4. Who is Sumedh Tapasa? Write how he became Buddha?

Multiple choice questions
1. What is the meaning of the word Bodhi?
   a) Supreme knowledge        b) The Knowledge about birth
   c) General knowledge        d) Knowledge about Brahma.

2. Which one is the main cause for calling Sammak Sambuddha the best Buddha?
   a) Having more than one disciple
   b) Attaining fulfilment in the practice of self-emancipation.
   c) Showing way to liberation from sufferings and decaying of cravings.
   d) For not coming in touch with the master.
Buddha and Bodhisattva

Read the following passage and answer question no. 3 and 4

The king of Vessantara was kind to all creatures. He could not tolerate the sufferings of anybody. With a view to liberating all creatures and with the hope of fulfilling the Dana Parami, he dedicated his life giving away all his wealth.

3. What kind of Bodhisattva is the king of Vessantara called?
   a) Pacceka Bodhisattva  b) Sammaka Sambodhisattva
   c) Savaka Bodhisattva  d) Saddhadhik Bodhisattva.

4. With a view to liberating all creatures, the kind of knowledge the king of Vessantara would attain of Buddha and Bodhisattva is –
   i. Knowledge on noble truths
   ii. Perfect knowledge
   iii. Omniscient knowledge

Which one is correct below?
   a) i and ii  b) ii and iii
   c) i and iii  d) i, ii and iii

Creative questions

Bijoy Barua was the follower of Tiratna. He was always involved in doing good deeds. He always listened to the religious instructions of the monk with great respect. He got to know that a monk who has attained Magga was going meditate in the deep jungle. Knowing this he reached there before the monk reaches there and cleaned the jungle with lot of hardship. He managed a nice seat for the purpose and going far away to the locality made the opportunity for Pindacarana.

a) What is Jatisvaragya (knowledge about birth)?

b) Briefly explain why practice of Bodhisattva life is very difficult.

c) With the characteristics of which worshipper there is a hint of Bijoy Borua’s characteristics – explain.

d) ‘Bijoy Barua is worthy of being a Savaka Buddha in any of his birth’ – do you agree with this statement? Give reasons in support of your answer.
2. Read the following and answer the questions below

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chart-1</th>
<th>Chart-2</th>
<th>Chart-3</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Practice of</td>
<td>Attains Arhattaphala through self practice</td>
<td>Labhi Setthi Sivali is the follower of Sammaka</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>perfections</td>
<td></td>
<td>Sambuddha</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>is speedy</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

a) Whose appearance in the world is very rare?

b) Why is the virtue of Buddha unthinkable? Explain in brief.

c) Whose characteristics do chart one hint? Explain.

d) Differentiate and analyze the comparative activities of those directed in chart 1 and 2.
Chapter Three
Tipitaka

The Tipitaka is the holy religious book of the Buddhists. The main basis of Tipitaka is the religion and philosophy of Buddha. Tipitaka is written in Pali language. Though it is a religious book, it contains important information about the religion, philosophy, society, culture, arts and literature, politics, economics, Geography, Archaeology etc. of ancient Indian sub-continent. For this reason, Tipitaka is also called the storehouse of historical information of the Indian Subcontinent. As the contents of Tipitaka enrich the religious knowledge, so does it develop the moral and humanistic qualities of the human beings. In this chapter we will study about the holy religious book Tipitaka.

At the end of this chapter we will be able to –

* Give idea about Tipitaka along with its background;
* Narrate the subject matter along with the names of the books included in Tipitaka
* Explain the necessity of the study of Tipitaka.

Lesson: 1
Background of Tipitaka

Buddha did not give any religious instruction in written form. His disciples memorized and preached the religious instructions given by Him on different occasions in different places. The disciples of Buddha were endowed with sharp memory. They could preserve the words of Buddha easily in their memory. Each of the disciples of Buddha was endowed with individual qualities. Some of them were expert in Vinaya, some in Sutta, some in explaining the religious words of Buddha, some in philosophy, and some in preaching religion. For this reason, the disciples of Buddha were endowed in different titles. Such as, Vinayadhara, Sutradhara, Abhidharmadhara, Dharmakathika, Aggsavaka, Mahasavaka etc. The monk Upali was Vinayadhara. He was efficient in the preservation observance and explanation of Buddhist Vinaya. In the same way Ananda was Sutradhara. He used to preserve the suttas preached by Buddha. For this reason, he was called Dharmabhandarika (storehouse of Dhamma). Mahakaccayana, Sariputta, Mahakotthita Thera were foremost in the explanation of Buddha’s religion and philosophy. Buddha had innumerable disciples like this. Endowed with sharp memory, these disciples were very careful in preserving, observance, and preaching the words of Buddha. Then none of them thought of writing down these precious words.

The disciples of Buddha did not always stay in one place. They used to go to different place to preach the words of Buddha. During the life time of Buddha, he used to solve any kind of problems created in the Sangha, sometimes the leading disciples of Buddha solved such problems with Buddha’s permission. As a result, there was no big problem during the life time of Buddha. But in the attainment of Mahaparinibbana of Buddha, some immodest Bhikkhu felt delighted because they would not have to abide by the rules of Vinaya anymore. After Buddha’s Mahaparinibbana, the disciples of Buddha began to cry. Then Subhadra, the last disciple of Buddha, forbade the Bhikkhus to mourn and said, ‘At the death of Mahasamanera we have become free from all sorts of disturbances and now we are at our own will.’ The disciples of Buddha became worried about the loss and distortion of the words of Buddha realizing the speech of Subhadra and the attitude of the immodest disciple. They apprehended, if the words of Buddha remain unwritten, at any time there might be a distortion to it. Then the disciples of Buddha led by Mahakassapa Thera arranged for the councils for the first time. They took initiative to collect the words of Buddha. After three months of the great passing away of Buddha, this council was held in the Saptapanni cave of Rajageha under the patronisation of king Ajatattu. In the council 500 Arhant Bhikkhu were present. In the council, Upali and Ananda, the foremost disciples of Buddha, recited dhamma-vinaya respectively. Their recitation of dhamma-vinaya was approved as the words of Buddha by the Bhikkhu.
Buddhist religion and moral education

Sangha present there. This council lasted for long seven months. Thus, with the heartfelt efforts of the Bhikkhu Sangha, the words of Buddha were given a written form in two parts - Dhamma and Vinaya in the first council.

The disciples of Buddha preserved and preached memorising the dhamma and Vinaya collected in the first council. But after hundred years of the great passing away of Buddha, the monks from Vajji clans (Vajaputtiriya) introduced ten rules which had no connection with the Vinaya created division in the Sangha and there arose a debate regarding the words of Buddha. Then, to get relief from this debate, the second council was arranged. The second council was held at the Balukarama of Vesali with the leadership of Yasha Thera and patronization of king Kalashoka. This council lasted for eight months. Seven hundred Arhant Bhikkhus attended this council.

In the second council the present Bhikkhus assessed and analysed the rules and regulations introduced by the monks of Vajji clans and gave their verdict against it as unlawful and after the re-recitation approved the dhamma and Vinaya collected in the first council as the true words of Buddha. The Bhikkhus went on preserving and preaching after getting it by heart. But during the time of Emperor Ashoka, Buddhism gained royal patronisation and the benefit and respect towards the Buddhist monks increased. As a result, the Tirthaks (ascetic) of other religion started to enter into the Buddhist Sangha in the guise of monk. They started preaching non-religion as religion and religion as non-religion. So, it created a chaos in Sangha and a doubt about the real words of Buddha. To solve this problem, it was decided to hold the third council. Then, at the patronization of Emperor Ashoka and under the presidency of Moggaliputta Tissa Thera the third council was held at Ashokarama Vihara of Patliputra. This council lasted for nine months. Imitating the first and second council, the words of Buddha were collected again in this council after re-recitation. In this council, the philosophical words of Buddha were collected separately giving a name Abhidhamma. The Buddhists believe that Abhidhamma was included in Dhamma. So, the words of Buddha were divided as only dhamma and vinaya in the first and second council. In the third council, the words of Buddha were divided into three parts and were collected as Sutra, Vinaya and Abhidhamma which are recognised as Tipitaka.

At the patronisation of Emperor Asoka, the words of Buddha collected in the third council spread beyond India. Mahinda Thera, son of Emperor Asoka, memorised Tipitaka along with some of his companions and carried it to Ceylon (Sinhal). There it was preached orally. Because of warfare, famine, and other reasons, there arose an apprehension of loss of Buddhadasana (the religion of Buddha) in Ceylon. To save the words of Buddha from distortion and extinction, initiatives were taken to give it a written form. Then in the first century B.C, at the patronization of the king of Ceylon Vattagamani, Tipitaka was written on the palm leaf and thus the words of Buddha were given a permanent form. In the course of time, to give Tipitaka a more permanent form it was engraved on the stone from palm leaf, written on paper and contained and preserved in tape recorder. To give it the form of a book, the Pali Text Society of London played an important role. Besides this, different organisations of different countries like Thailand, Sri Lanka, and Myanmar played important role in the publication of the words of Buddha as book. Thus, the words of Buddha took the form of Tipitaka overcoming a lot of Topsy-turvy.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Exercise Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Why and where were the words of Buddha collected first?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>When were the words of Buddha compiled in the form of Tipitaka?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where and when did the words of Buddha take the written form?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Lesson: 2

Introduction to Tipitaka

‘Tipitaka’ is the collection of unvaluable words uttered by the great Buddha. The word Tipitaka is the combination of the words ‘ti’ and ‘Pitaka’. ‘Ti’ means ‘three’ and ‘Pitaka’ means container, pot, basket, etc. The words of Buddha are divided into three streams according to its nature and kind and preserved in three Pitaka or baskets. So, it is called Tipitaka. Three Pitakas are: 1) Sutta Pitaka, 2) Vinaya Pitaka and 3) Abhidhamma Pitaka. The part that contains the religious works of Buddha as sutra is called sutta or sutra Pitaka. Suttapitaka is divided into five main parts. Such as: Digha Nikaya, Majjhima Nikaya, Samyutta Nikaya, Anguttara Nikaya, and Khuddaka Nikaya. The word Nikaya means group, part, community etc. The long discourses uttered by Buddha are collected in Digha Nikaya. So, this is called Digha Nikaya. The Nikaya or the part in which the discourses of middle length are collected is known as Majjhima Nikaya. The Nikaya which is smaller in comparison to the previous two and the Nikaya in which the discourses related to the subject matters of multifarious affairs is collected is called Samyutta Nikaya. The Nikaya which arranges the suttas in the gradual development of numbers is called Anguttara Nikaya. In this Nikaya the subject matters are collected as Ekakipata (one nipata), Dukanipata (two nipata), tikanipata (three bipata) analysing into such gradual development of numbers. The word Khuddhaka means small or little. The Nikaya in which the smaller discourses preached by Buddha is collected is called Khuddaka Nikaya. There are sixteen books in Khuddhaka Nikaya. Viz: Khuddaka Patha, Dhammapada, Udana, Itivuttaka, Suttanipata, Vimananavathu, Petavatthu, Thera-gatha, Theri-gatha, Jataka, Mahaniddesa, Cullaniddesa, and Cariya Pitaka.

The word Vinaya means rules, ethics, discipline or regulations. The Pitaka which contains the regulations instructed by Buddha is called Vinaya Pitaka. Buddha promulgated these Vinayas or regulations with a view to leading the Bhikkhu Sangha in a disciplined, righteous, mutual understanding and proper manner. Vinaya Pitaka is mainly divided into three parts. Viz: 1) Sutta Vibhaga, 2) Khandaka and 3) Parivara. Suttavibhanga is again divided into two: Mahavibhanga and Khuddak Vibhanga. In Mahavibhanga there are rules and regulations to be observed by the monks along with Parajika and Sanghadisesa. So, it is called Parajikakanda or Bhikkhu Vibhanga. In Khuddakvibhanga there are regulations to be observed by the nuns (bhikkhuni). It is also called Pacittiya or Bhikkhunivibhanga. The rules and regulations mentioned in the two books of Suttavibhanga are combinedly called Patimokkha. Khandaka is divided into two parts. Viz: Mahavagga and Cullavagga. In the book Mahavagga there is the continuous history of the life story of Buddha starting from the attainment of Buddhahood to the establishment of Sangha. In the book Cullavagga, there is the description of the first and second councils held after the great demise of Buddha along with the different rules of the Bhikkhu Sangha.

Abhidhamma is the minutest analysis of the philosophy of Buddha. Buddhist philosophy is the main point of discussion in the Abhidhamma Pitaka. Abhidamma Pitaka is divided into seven parts. Such as: 1) Dhammasangani, 2) Vibhanga, 3) Dhatukatha, 4) Puggalapannatti, 5) Kathavatthu, 6) Yamaka, 7) Patthana.
The decision of Tripitaka is shown in the chart below:

Exercise Work

In how many parts is Sutta Pitaka divided? Name the books of Khuddaka Nikaya.

In how many parts is the Suttavibhanga divided and what are they? Name the books of the Abhidhamma Pitaka.
Lesson: 3
Sutta Pitaka

Sutta Pitaka is divided into five parts. Such as: Digha Nikaya, Majjhima Nikaya, Samyutta Nikaya, Anguttara Nikaya and Khuddaka Nikaya.

The Nikayas are described below:

a) Digha Nikaya: Digha Nikaya is the first book of Sutta Pitaka. In Digha Nikaya there are 34 suttas in total. The Suttas are divided into three Vaggas. Viz: Silakhandavagga, Mahavagga, and Patikavagga. There are 13 Suttas in the first Vagga. The Suttas are composed in prose. There are 10 Suttas in the second Vagga and 11 Suttas in the third. Many suttas of the second and third vaggas are composed in prose and poetry. The main subjects of discussion in this book are: dana (charity), sila (precepts), samadhi (meditation), panna (wisdom), jhana (contemplation), salvation, impermanence, sorrow, non-soul (anatma), mind, psychic factors and Nibbana etc. But relevantly, important discussion about philosophy, politics, economics, geography, society, culture etc. of ancient Indian subcontinent are also found in this Nikaya. Especially there is found in Digha Nikaya discussion about 62 types of religious and philosophical tenet and racial system, and it delineates a clear cut conception about the ancient Indian religious and social conditions of Buddha’s contemporary period. Besides this, there is found a charming description of the biography of Buddha in the Mahaparinibbana Sutta of this Nikaya. In Digha Nikaya more importance is given to build up moral and humanitarian life rather than religious philosophy.

b) Majjhima Nikaya: This is the second chapter of Sutta Pitaka. Majjhima Nikaya is the best among the five Nikayas. Only the mediums type Suttas have been placed in this Nikaya. There are 152 Suttas here. The Suttas are divided into three Vaggas. Such as: Mula Pannasaka, Majjhima Pannasaka Vagga and Sela Pannasaka Vagga. There are 50 Suttas in the first and second Vaggas and 52 Suttas in the third. The main points of discussion in this Nikaya are: four noble truths, eight noble paths, dependent origination, meaninglessness of the enjoyment of mundane happiness, absolut truth, nibbana etc. This book also contains important information about the religious philosophy of six Tirthika Sangha of Buddha’s time. Besides this, description of the life styles of the Bhikkhus, the relationship between the laities, royal courtiers and the Bhikkhu Sangha; the social, economic, educational, and religious condition of India during the time of Buddha are also found here. This book especially reflects the quintessential behavioral aspect of day to day life and simple analysis of the same. So, Majjhima Nikaya is considered to be best among the five Nikayas. Famous Aciariya Buddhaghosa entitled Majjhima as the best book among the books included in the Tipitaka.

c) Samyutta Nikaya: There are 56 Samyuttas or chapters in Samyutta Nikaya. These are divided into five vaggas. There are 11 chapters in Sagatha vagg, 12 chapters in Nidana, 13 chapters in Khanda, 10 chapters Salayatana, and 12 chapters in Mahavagga. The total number of suttas in five vaggas is 2889. The suttas are composed in the combination of subjects related to morality, psychology, philosophy etc. Though the suttas in Majjhima Nikaya are smaller in comparison to the Digha and Majjhima Nikaya, these are very significant. The subject matters are presented here dividing it into three streams: 1) religion and philosophy, 2) incidents related to god, human beings etc. and 3) Religious personalities. In the first Vagga importance is given to observance of precepts, rites and rituals, leading ideal life and to build up moral character. The other Vaggas are enriched in the discussion of religion, philosophy and miscellaneous. In this Nikaya, there are some smaller poetry the literacy or philosophic value of which is immense. These poems are composed in the form of conversation. Besides this, there are excellent description about King Prasenjit of Kosala, Mahapajapati Gautami, defeat of Mars, instructions to the Brahmas by Buddha, the conversation between Buddha and yakka, taking refuge in Buddha, matters of hospitality and gains, five aggregates, three kinds of feelings (vedana) etc. It can be said that Samyutta Nikaya is very much enriched with the description of spiritual, ethical and philosophical issues.
d) Anguttar Nikaya: There are 2308 suttas in Anguttar Nikaya. The suttas are composed of prose and poetry and are divided into 11 nipat or chapters. The nipatas or chapters are named after the number of discussion points. Viz: in Ekanipata or chapter one, only one topic is discussed; similarly, in Dukanipat two topics are discussed. Each nipata or chapter is divided into some vaggas. There are suttas of both types: small and large. In this Nikaya topics of manifold importance are included. Like the other Nikayas, in Anguttar Nikaya there is description about sila (precepts), samadhi (meditation), panna (wisdom), sattva (respect), viriya (vigour) and vinaya. Besides this, valuable description, about how to control the restless mind, forsaking sin, three types of people, awareness about three things: controlling the sense organs, taking food, vigilence; consequence of Devadatta, Character of man and women, relationship between husband and wife, duties and responsibilities and etiquettes and manners of Buddhist devotees, Upasotha and the necessity of upasotha, sorrows and happiness, Sotapatti Magga and Phala (results), Sakkidagami Magga and Phala, Anagami Magga and Phala and Arhat Magga and Phala etc. are found here.

There is a fine description about the conviction system, geographical, social, and religious conditions of ancient India in Anguttar Nikaya. Besides this important information about the kings and Maharajas of that time, the monks and nuns, male and female devotees etc. are also found. So, the historical value of Anguttar Nikaya is immense.

e) Khuddaka Nikaya: Khuddaka Nikaya is the last part of Sutta Pitaka. The subject matters of this Nikaya have been presented dividing it into sixteen parts. In other words, Khuddaka Nikaya consists of 16 books. The subject matters of each of the books are different from each other. There is no continuation among the themes of the books. In Khuddhak Nikaya the diversities of topics are noticed. So, Khuddak Nikaya is also called Pakinnaka Sangaha (collection of miscellaneous). Though the books are small in size, the importance of the subject matter is boundless. The newly initiated bhikkhu Samaneras learn the books of Khuddak Nikaya before learning the other books. The books included under Khuddak Nikaya : 1) Khuddak Patha, 2) Dhammapada, 3) Udana, 4) Itivuttaka, 5) Sattanipata, 6) Vimavatthu, 7) Petavatthu 8) Theragatha, 9) Therigatha, 10) Jataka, 11) Mahaniddesa, 12) Cullaniddesa, 13) Patissambhidamagga, 14) Apadana, 15) Buddhavamsa, 16) Cariya Pitaka.

Exercise Work

Show the books of Tipitaka in a chart.

How are the subject matters arranged in Anguttara Nikaya?

Make a list of the books included in Khuddaka Nikaya.

Lesson: 4

Vinaya Pitaka

Vinaya is called the life of Buddhhasasana. Because, without Vinaya the stability of Buddhhasasana is unimaginable. The stability of Buddhhasasana depends on the stability of Vinaya. It is said that if Vinaya Pitaka is exercised with great careness, deep respect and pride, the Buddha’s religion will never be perished even if the Sutta and Abhidhamma are lost. Vinaya was collected first in the first council held after three months of the great demise of Buddha realising the importance of Vinaya. The other name of Vinaya is ‘rule’, ‘ethics’ or ‘discipline’ etc. In simple meaning Vinaya is called ‘Sila’. Everything in this word is led by rules and discipline. Planets, stars everything rotate by rule.
Tipitaka

The matchless beauty of the world, accumulation rainbow colours, sunrays, everything is tied by the rule of cause and effect. The need for rules and discipline in our daily life is most essential. Immodesty, laziness, cheer-monger, immorality, spend thriftiness, greed, jealousy, passion, lack of good manners are against the development of all kinds. On the other hand, rules, discipline, modesty, strength of character, precepts, meditation, enthusiasm, inspiration, efforts, punctuality, self sacrifice, respect, satisfaction, wisdom and good deeds are the key to all kinds of development. Buddha promulgated the rules of vinaya for the development of the Bhikkhu Sangha. The rules of Vinaya are a must for leading the day to day life and for the development of spiritual life. So Buddha said:

Satavassopi pabbajja sikkhanto pitakattayam
Ovadam nanuvattante nirayam so uppañjati.

Meaning: ‘If any Bhikkhu does not observe the precepts completely even after studying Tipitaka for hundred years then he is to go to the hell after death’

Moreover he said:

tassapasadhikang hoti pattacivaram dharanam
Pabbajja saphala tassa yassa sila sunimmalam.

Meaning: He, whose character is stainless, is worthy of civara and bowls. The life of pious man is the happiest.

Understanding the theme of the above mentioned gathas, any wise man should be well educated at Vinaya and should behave in a modest way. Vinaya is the basis of all good deeds. Though Vinaya is the compulsory rule to be observed by the bhikkhu samaneras, here there are beautiful directions about leading a pious family life. The practice of Vinaya arise the ethical and humane virtues. So, the practice of Vinaya is most essential.

Vinaya Pitaka is divided mainly into three parts. Viz:

a) Sutta vibhanga: It is divided into Bhikkhu Vibhanga and Bhikkhuni Vibhanga.

b) Khandaka: It is divided into Mahavagga and Cullavagga

c) Parivara or Parivara Patha.

a) Sutta Vibhanga: The first book of Viraya Pitaka is sutta vibhanga. The meaning of the word sutts is sutra, and Vibhanga means to ‘break down’ which means to break into the minutest parts to explain gist. So, the word ‘Sutta Vibhanga’ means to ‘explanation of the sutta’ which means the detailed explanation of the rules or basic teachings of Vinaya. In sutta Vibhanga there is found detailed explanation of 22 Patimokkha Sila. The main theme of sutta Vibhanga is the minutest analysis of how and where was Buddha assigned the rules? Who is the breacher of precepts? How to determine the crimes regarding the purification of the precepts? What ways of punishment can redeem the objected Bhikkhu from the objection of breaching the precepts? According to the importance, the rules of Sutta Vibhanga are divided into eight catagories. Viz: Parajika, Sanghadisesa, Aniyata, Nisaggiya, Pacittiya, Patidesaniya, Sekhiya, and Adhikarana Samatha. These principles are collected into two books Bhikkhu Vibhanga and Bhikkhuni Vibhanga. In these books there is found explanation of what crime is committed by breach of what principle and what is its panacea. So, Sutta Vibhanga is also called scripture of law or principles.

1. Bhikkhu Vibhanga: It is the first book of Vinaya pitaka. In this book the rules related to Vinaya of the Bhikkhus are written. Here it is mentioned where, how, to whom did Buddha address or directed this rules and principles, fault of the breaker of precepts and the ways to redeem from it. The rules to be observed by the Bhikkhus are narrated dividing it into eight parts. Such as, Parajika, Sanghadisesa, Aniyata, Nissaggiya, Pacittiya, Patidesaniya, Sekhiya and Adhikarana Samatha. There are explanations of 227 Silas (precepts) in total.

2. Bhikkhuni Vibhanga: The rules to be observed by the nuns are written in this book. This is composed as complementary to Bhikkhu Vibhanga. In this book, the rules to be observed by the Bhikkhunis are narrated dividing it into eight parts. Viz: Parajika, Sanghadisesa, Aniyata, Nissaggiya, Pacittiya, Patidesania Sekhiya and Adhikarana Samatha. The numbers of precepts for the nuns is 311. It may be mentioned that number of precepts for the nuns is 84 more than that of the monks.

The books Bhikkhu Vibhanga and Bhikkhuni Vibhanga included in Sutta Vibhanga are also known as Parajika and Pacittiya.

b) Khanddaka: Khanddaka is the name of the second book of Vinaya Pitaka. Here the incidents after the attainment of sambodhi of Buddha are mentioned. The especiality of khandaka is that here the rules and regulations of vinaya are given importance. Khandaka is enriched with the information like the religion society, culture, politics, economics, geography, traveling, construction and development and many such historical information and theory of ancient India. Khandaka is divided into two parts: Mahavagga and Cullavagga.

1. Mahavagga: The book Mahavagga is divided into ten chapters or Khandas. Viz.: 1. Mahakhanda 2. Upasath 3. Vaisupanayika 4. Pavarana 5. Camma 6. Vesajja 7. Kathina 8. Civara 9. Campeyya and 10. Kosambika. The book is called Mahavagga because each of the chapters is bigger in size. In this book, there is description about incidents after the attainment of Sambodhi of Gautama Buddha. Especially, the different stories of the life of Buddha starting from the attainment of Buddhahood to the establishment of the Sangha have been discussed in Mahavagga. The value of this book is great because of the sequential composition of the life of Buddha. Here it is found the sequential history of the code of Vanaya introduced by Buddha during the period starting from after the attainment of Buddhahood to the establishment of the Sangha. In the book there is description about many historical incidents of Buddha's time. The book repletes with many important historical information like the history of preaching of religion by Buddha, origin and development of Buddhist Sangha, Dhammaacakavattattana, initiation of first five disciples, the travelling of rich Yasa to meet with Buddha, meeting of Buddha with king Bimbisara etc. Besides this, the method of teaching, the relationship between master and disciple and proper instructions about building up an ideal life.

2. Cullavagga

There are 12 chapters or khandas in Cullavagga. Viz.: 1. Kammika khandha, 2. Parivasa khandha 3. Samuccaya khandha, 4. Samatha khandha, 5. Khuddavatthu khandha 6. Sayanaseana khandha 7. Sanghabhedakakkhandha 8. Brata khandha 9. Pratimokkha khandha 10. Bhikkhuni khandha 11. Pancasatika khandha and 12. Saptasatika khandha. The word 'Culla' mean 'small'. From the very tittle, it is understood that the scondas or chapters of the book are small. As the chapters are smaller than that of Mahavaggas so the book is named as Cullavagga. From chapter one to ten there is description about the purposes for which Buddha introduced rules and regulations at different stages of His life. In chapter eleven there is description about the first Buddhist council. In chapter twelve there is complete description about the 2nd council. In Chullavagga, there is also description about the entrance of womenfolk in the sangha; the initiation of Mahapajapati Gautami along with others; the rules and regulations for the nuns; on what conditions Buddha consented to the establishment of bhikkhuni sangha etc.
Tipitaka

c) Parivara or Parivara Patha

This is the last book of Vinaya Pitaka. This book describes the objectionable behavioral aspects of the bhikkhus and bhikkhunis during Buddha’s time. Especially, the complex and abstruse aspects are analysed in this book very minutely through the answers to questions. The book is very important for the new trainee Bhikkhus as an equipment of learning Vinaya. Including big and small there are 21 chapters in total. These are composed in prose and poetry. Each of the chapters is replete with the explanation of the vinaya rules. So, this book is called the gist of the Vinaya Pitaka.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Exercise Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Why Vinaya is called the life of Buddhhasasana?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why is Sutta Vibhanga also considered the scripture of law and principle?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why Parivara book is called the summary of Vinaya Pitaka?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Lesson : 5
Abhidhamma Pitaka

The third or the final part of Tripitaka is Abhidhamma Pitaka. The book repletes with the enriched discussion of Buddhist Religion and philosophy. The philosophical or ethical facts which are instructed to follow in Sutta Pitaka, that facts are presented in Abhidhamma Pitaka explaining in a detailed and minute way. The main point of discussion in the book is Buddhist philosophy and Paramartha truth. Viz.: khandha, Ayatana, Dhatu, Cuti, Patisandhi, bala (vigour), Nibbana and Pannatti etc. In Abhidhamma Pitaka there has noticed an extreme development of Buddhist mindfulness. Nobody can render better religious instructions without having sufficient knowledge in the subject of Abhidhamma. There is no scope of introducing any imaginary matter. Its main especiality is to analyse the main theme determining the cause and effect relationship. The main theme of Abhidhamma is the psychological instruction of Buddha. Especially citta (mind), cetasika (psychic factors), rupa (form) and nibbana etc. have been analysed in Abhidhamma Pitaka very minutely. So, Abhidhamma is also called higher religion.

1. Dhammasangani: Dhammasangani is the first book of Abhidhamma Pitaka. Dhammasangani means explanation or classification of religion. The book is so titled because religion as well as worldly and transcendental affairs are explained by classification here. Dhammasangani is called the main pillar of Abhidhamma Pitaka. All the factors, especially all smaller and bigger matters relating to the internal and external world are expressed through citta (mind), cetasika (psychic factors) and material things. Namarupa (name and form) has been classified according to the principle of cause and effect as bad-good and Avyakata dhamma has been discussed in this book.

The subject matter of Dhammasangani can be analysed dividing it into four parts. These are:

a. Introduction to citta and cetasika (mind and psychic factors).

b. Introduction to rupa (material substance).

c. Summary or Nikkhepa of matters mentioned earlier.

d. Attudara or Avyakatha dhamma.

In Citta ans cetasika there is discussion about Kamavacara, Rupavacara, Arupavacara and Lokattara citta -these four kinds of citta, five aggregates (panca khandha) Jivitendriya etc. In Rupa Paricaya part, there is explanation of Kamloka (hell), world of human beings or god etc. The word Nikkhepa means Summary. In this division, there is a summary of the things discussed in the earlier part related to mind and psychic factors. The word Attudara means analysis. Finding real meaning or discovery of truth is Attudara. In this part the causes of wholesome and unwholesome deeds are discovered. Besides, there is also discussion about unexplained things.

2. Vibhanga : The name of the second book of Abhidhamma Pitaka is ‘Vibhanga’. The word Vibhanga means detailed explanation. In this book higher or detailed explanation of the matters of Dhammasangani is found. There are eighteen chapters in this book. In the chapters, there is discussion about five aggregates (panca khandha), twelve Ayatana, eighteen kinds of Dhatu, four noble truths, twenty two sense organs, dependent origination, cari smritiprasthana, cari sammaka pradhana, Sapataboddhyanga eighth noble paths, Meditation, four immeasurable, vinaya rules, four patisambhida, gyana-vibhanga, Khuddavatthu Vibhanga etc.

3. Dhatukatha : This is the third book of Abhidhamma Pitaka. The word ‘Dhatukatha’ means discussion about ‘dhatu’. The book is replete with the discussion about mind and psychic matters. The main points of discussion of this book are: five aggregates (Rupa, vedana, sanna, samkara, vinnana), twelve Ayatana (Cakkhu, srotara, ghrana, jibha, Kayan, Rupa, sabda (sound), Gandhi, Rasa, phassa, mana and dhamma), eighteen types of Dhatu (Chakhu, Srotara, Ghrana, Jibha, Kayan, Rupa, sabda, Gandhi, Rasa, phassa, caakkhu-vinnan, srotara-vinnan, ghrana-vinnan, jibha-vinnan, kayan-vinnan, mana-vinnan dhamma), four types of meditation (first stage, second stage, third stage and dourth stage of meditation), pancabala (saddha, viriya, smiriti, samadhi and panna), eight noble paths (right understanding, right thought, right speech, right action, right livelihood, right effort, right mindfulness, right concentration) etc.

4. Puggala Pannatti : the word ‘puggal’ means person, entily or soul. ‘Pannatti’ means pointout, conception, introduction or ascertain something to be right. So ‘Puggalapannatti’ means the book which introduces the ‘puggal’ or certain person. The book is divided into ten chapters. In these ten chapters thee is description about different puggals or persons. The puggal in divided into different parts to show the nature and development of a puggal or individual. Such as: Sambaka Sambuddha, Pecceka Buddha, Ariya puggal and their classifications, Sotapanna, Sakkidagami, Anagami, sakkya and asakkyya and laities who are endowed with greed, athipathy and delusion etc. What are the Six conceptions mentioned first in the book. Then, there is the explanation of Ekabhidhapuggala, Dvibidha puggala, Tividha puggala, Catuvidha puggala, Pancavidha puggala, Saravidha puggala, Saptavidha puggala, Athavidha puggala, Nabavidha puggala and Dasavidha puggala. The language and presentation of subject matters of this book are different from the other books of Abhidhamma Pitaka.
5. Katha Vatthu: ‘Kathavatthu’ is the most valuable book of Abhidhamma Pitaka. Only the name of the compiler of the book Kathavatthu is found among all the books included in Tripitaka. The book was composed by Moggaliputta Tissa Thera at the end of the third great Buddhist council held during the reign of emperor Ashoka. There are twenty three chapters in this book. In each chapter of this book there are answers to eight to twelve questionnaires. In this question and answer session, an insight into the life styles of ancient India, in other words, mind and the thoughtfulness of the people of that time is found. This book was compiled by Moggaliputta Tissa Thera at the time of the third council held during the period of the great emperor Ashoka. This is called the Book of Debate (Tarka Sastra) related to Buddhist religion and philosophy. In this book there is reply and counter reply to various complex philosophical theories. In this book the difficult and inscrutable philosophical matters of Abhidhamma are simply presented with logic. In this book the other philosophical theories are refuted through the quotation of the words of Buddha and the book is included into Tipitaka because it reflects the gist of the Buddhist religion and philosophy.

6. Yamaka or Yammka Pakaran: The word ‘Yamaka’ is used to mean couple or double or joint. ‘Yamaka’ means to introduce two questions on same subject. In this two questions effort is made to find out the cause from the cause or the truth of the cause from the cause. The book is divided into ten parts. The main points of discussion in the book are : Mula yamaka, khamda yamaka, ayatana amaka, dhatu yamaka, sacca yamaka, samkara yamaka, anusaya yamaka, citta yamaka, dhamma yamaka, indriya yamaka etc. In Mula Yamaka, there is discussion about the good and bad and their root. In khandha Yamaka there is description about five khandhas. In Dhatu Jamaka, there is description about the forgotten meaning of eighteen types of Dhatu. In Sacca Yamaka, there is found description of four noble truths. In Samkara Yamaka the discussion about three types of samkara is found (kaya samkara, vaca samkara and mana samkara). In Anusaya Yamaka, the philosophical judgement (wartoneness, anger, doubt, conciet, ingerance etc) about different types of Anusaya are found.

In Citta Yama a conception about mind and psychic factors is found. In Dhamma Yamaka, there is a detailed analysis of the wholesome and unwholesome phenomenon. In Indriya Yamaka, there introduction to 22 types of sense organs.

7. Patthana: This is the last book of Abhidhamma Pitaka. The word ‘Patthana’ means ‘close connection’, cause or main cause, real cause, because etc. Which explaining the causes of ‘namarupa’, the theory of dependent origination is also discussed in the book. There are four divisions in the book. Such as : Anuloma Patthana, Pacchaniya Patthana, Anuloma Pacchaniya Patthana, and Pacchaniya Anuloma Patthana. Four divisions are again presented through 24 types of Paccaya. ‘Paccaya’ means cause ‘nidan’, ‘because’ etc. Paccaya is something through which any work is accomplished. The 24 types of paccayas mention in the book of Patthana are : Hetu, Arammana, Adhipati, Anantara, Samantara, Sahajata, Annamanna, Nissaya, Upanissaya, Purejjata, Pacchajata, Asevana, Kamma, vipaka, Ahara, Indriya, jhana, Magga, Samprayutta, viprayuttatta, Atthi, Natthi, Bigata, Abigata paccaya.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Exercise Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>How many books are there in Abhidhamma Pitaka and what are they?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What are the main points of discussion in Dhammasangani?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why is the book Kathavatthu included into Tipitaka?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Lesson: 6
Necessity of the Study of Tipitaka

The main theme of Tipitaka is the religious philosophy of Buddha. But in Tipitaka relavantly, about the condition of society, culture, religion, philosophy, politics, geography, economics etc. of Buddha’s contemporary are also discussed. So, there is a great importance of Tipitaka to know the ancient history of the India. Each of the words of Tipitaka inspires human beings to develop the ethical and humanistic qualities. It motivates to refrain from the bad works. It inspires to lead a life of religiosity avioding all kinds sin. It leads human beings to the path of sorrowless nibbana. Through the study of Tipitaka one can know about good or bad works, the real nature of minds characteristics of human beings, various conditions of mental world, sorrows, causes of sufferings, ways to emancipation from sufferings, impermanence, non-soul, nibbana ways to attain nibbana, the real nature of the world, observance of precepts, meditation, wisdom etc. Besides these, many important incidents of the life of Buddha are mentioned in Tipitaka. The priceless words of Tipitaka play role of create good relations among man and man, heartfelt feelings and unity among human beings removing the anger, jealousy and passion. The words of Buddha played important roles eradicate the prevalent atrocities in the name of racial and colour discrimination in India. Buddha preached His religion with the dream of establishing a society without racial or colour discrimination. His every word inspires to protect all creatures both great and small. With a view to developing that ideals he established the Bhikkhu and Bhikkhuni Sangha. The Sangha that to He established had entranc to all irrespective or raceo, colour and caste. In this way He spread the ideal of the principle of equality in the society and among his followers. Following the rules and regulation as directed by Buddha, human beings become modest, observer of precepts and endowed with good character. As a result, the life of an individual, a family or a society becomes happy. So, it can be said that the necessity of the study of Tipitaka is immense.

Exercise

Fill in the blanks
1. During the life time of Buddha nobody kept his words of religion in .................. form.
2. Diving the reign of ceylonese king Vattagamini ................ was written in the form of a book.
3. Sutta Pitaka is mainly divided into ................ nikaya or part.
4. In Khuddaka Nikaya there are ............ independent books.
5. ......................... is the first book of Abhidamma.

Short Questions
1. What does the word Tipitaka mean ?
2. How many books are there in Sutta Pitaka and What are they ?
3. What is the lesson of Vanaya Pitaka ?
Essay type Questions

1. Discuss the background of composition of the Tipitaka.

2. Give an idea about Sutta Pitaka.

3. What do you mean by Vinaya? How many books are there in Vinaya Pitaka? Give brief idea one each of them.

Multiple Choice Questions

1. What is the name of the main book of Abhidhamma Pitaka?
   a) Vibhanga       b) Dhammsangani
   c) Dhatukatha     d) Kathavatthu

2. Through the practice and exercise of Vanaya the Bhikkhus will –
   a) acquire sense of ethics
   b) attain meditation
   c) attain higher life style

   Which one below is correct?
   a) i               b) i and ii
   c) ii and iii      d) i, ii and iii

Read the passage below and answer to the question nos. 3 and 4

Reverend Bodhimitra Bhikkhu after attaining new Upasampada studied a book at the library to know about the rules, principles and discipline of the life of monkhood. In the book the complex and obscure aspects of Vinaya are explained in a simple and beautiful manner.

3. Which book of Vanaya did Reverend Bodhimitra Vikkhu study?
   a) Sutta Vibhanga  b) Khandaka
   c) Mahavagga      d) Parivara Patha

4. What of Vinaya Pitaka is that book called?
   a) Summary        b) Summary
   c) Perfect code of life  d) Important book
Creative Questions

1. Chart-1

   - There are 34 Suttas in Nikaya
   - There are 56 clusters (Guccha) in Nikaya
   - There are 2038 Suttas in Nikaya

   Chart-2

   - Dhatukatha
   - Kathavatthu
   - Yamaka

a. What is the other name of Cullavarga?

b. Explain the necessity of studying Tipitaka

c. Explain in the light of the textbook which Pitaka the hints in the 1st chart directs.

d. In the Pitaka mentioned in the 2nd chart ‘Buddhist Philosophy and ultimate truth have been analysed’ Do you agree with this statement? Give reasons.

2. Dharmankura Vihara is perfectly led combinedly by reverend Bhikkhu Sangha, Vihara management committee and the male and female devotees. Everybody tries sincerely to observe the precepts through the practice of instructions and advice rendered by Buddha. On the special day, while the male and female worshipper observe Upasatha Sila, remembering the part of Buddha’s quotation the principal of the Vihara Joys, ‘If any Bhikkhus, after studying Tipitaka for hundred years does not observe the precepts properly then he is to go to hell after death.

a. In which language is Tipitaka composed?

b. Briefly explain the background of Tipitaka.

c. In which pitaka of Tipitaka the statement of Uddipaka is found? Explain.

d. That pitaka is like the life of Buddhasasana – give your opinion from the religious point of view.
Chapter Four
Sutta and Moral Verses

The suttas and the moral verses are chanted by Lord Buddha himself. Buddha preached all these to his disciples and devotees in different places in different occasions. These are available in the various books of Suttapitaka included in Tipitaka. The suttas and the moral verses contain the basics of Buddha’s teaching and philosophy. These perform welfare in this life besides the development of moral and spiritual life. These are chanted in different occasions. These are chanted generally to be protected from the bad effects of natural calamities, accident, diseases, grief, and ghosts, evil spirits, yakkas etc. and to wish for all types of blessings. Each sutta is recited for the specific purpose. For example, the Ratana Sutta is recited to be saved from famine and epidemic, The Karaniya Metta Sutta is to be saved from the disturbance of ghost and yakkas, Su-pbbanha Sutta to protect from the bad effect of the misfortune, the Bhojjangha Sutta is recited to recover from all diseases, and the Angulimala Sutta is recited to recover from the labour pain. There are many more suttas in Tipitaka by reciting those we can be saved from different kinds of dangers. We shall read the Ratana Sutta and the Karaniya Metta Sutta in this Chapter.

At the end of this chapter we shall be able to-

* Describe the background of the Ratana Sutta and the Karaniya Metta
* Sutta. Explain the subject matter of the Ratana Sutta and the Karaniya Metta Sutta.

The devotees are listening the chanting of suttas from the Bhikkhus
Lesson 1

The Background of the Ratana Sutta

Vesali was a democratic state of the Licchavies in India. It is now known as Besar. At the time of Lord Buddha Vesali was a very prosperous city. The king, prince, richman (sasthiti), chief of Army, farmers, merchants etc. people from different class and caste were lived there. Vesali was enriched many kinds of food. The dwellers lived there with great happiness.

Once upon a time there was a severe draught in Vesali. All the fields, ponds, agricultural lands dried out. The farming and the production of crops were stopped. As a result there was a famine in the state. Large numbers of people died out of starving. The corpses were thrown out to the outskirts of the city. Many inhuman demons entered in the city attracted by the bad smell. Many more people were died by the disturbing of the demons. An epidemic started due to air pollution. Huge people and animals were died also for this.

At last the inhabitants of Vesali being tormented by the three kinds of disturbances, famine, demons and epidemic, went to the king and prayed to him, ‘O king! Three kinds of fears have developed in the city. Such adversities never happened before at the time of the reign of the seven dynasties. The royal astrologer was invited to find whether these adversities happened due to any irreligious actions by the king. The astrologer found by consulting horoscope that the king had no fault. Then all were thinking about how they could be the adversities be driven out. All of them decided after thinking that only the arrival of Lord Buddha, well wiser to everyone, merciful to all, accomplished with super power could drive the adversities. Therefore the king invited Lord Buddha to Vaishali for the welfare of the subjects. The king thought, the adversities of the people of Vesali would be passed away, the lives would be saved, would get back the mental strength and all the fear and misfortune would be passed away if the Buddha come.

Buddha was living in Rajgeha. The king of Vesali then sent messenger to bring Lord Buddha. Two princes of Licchavies went to bring Buddha with the Arm force and gifts. The princes of Licchabi reached to the Buddha and after showing respect to him said, ‘Bhante! There three kinds of fear created in our city. If your kindness Lord Buddha would visit Vesali only for once then that would be caused great welfare for us.’ Feeling pity for the people of Vesali Buddha accepted the invitation and decided to go to Vesali. The king and his ministers with the residence of Vesali received Buddha with offerings and service in a grand style. When Buddha reached to Vesali, Devaraja Indra came to receive him. After coming of the devas (gods) the demons fled away.

Then Buddha asked Ananda to learn the Ratana Sutta and said, ‘ recite this sutta moving around the cities of Vesali with the Licchavies. The famine, epidemic, and fear will go away from Vesali by the impact of the Sutta.’ According to the instruction of Buddha Ananda started to recite the Ratana sutta and sprinkled water from the begging bowl of Buddha. The three kinds of fear, the fear of disease, the fear of demons, the fear of famine, drove away by the recitation of the Ratana sutta. The rain of cats and dogs started. The fields were filled with corps again. The peace returned to the life of Vesali. The people of the city were happy. All of them were praising Buddha. All of them expressed gratitude to Buddha. This is the background of the Ratana sutta. This sutta is found in the book Khuddaka Patha included in Khuddaka Nikaya of Sutta Pitaka.

Exercise Work

- How was the country Vesali?
- How many kinds of disturbances there in Vesali? What are those?
- What did Thera Ananda do according to the instruction of Buddha?
Lesson: 2
Ratana Suttam (Pali)

1. Yāṇidha bhūtāni samāgatāni bhummāni vā yāni vā antalikkhe sabbe va bhūtā suamanā bhavantu atho pi sakkacca suṣaṇantu bhāsitaṁ

2. tasmā hi bhūtā niśāmētha sabbe mettaṁ karotha māṇuṣiśyā pajarāya divā ca ratto ca haranti ye baliṁ tasmā hi ne rakkhatha appamattā
divā ca ratto ca haranti ye baliṁ tasmā hi ne rakkhatha appamattā

3. yaṁ kiṃci vittam idha vā huraṁ vā sāggesu vā yaṁ ratanam pañitaṁ na no samaṁ atthi tathāgata na idampi buddhe ratanam pañitaṁ etena saccena suvatthi hotu

4. Khayaṁ virāgam amatam pañitaṁ yadajhagā sakyamuni samāhito na tena dhammena samatthi kiṃci idampi dhamme ratanaṁ pañitaṁ etena saccena suvatthi hotu

5. Yambuddāsāthto parivāṇṇayī sucīm samādhimānanantarikānāmāhu samādhiṁ na samaṁ na vijāti idampi dhamme ratanam pañita etena saccena suvatthi hotu

6. Ye puggalā aṭṭha satampasatthā cattāri etāni yugāni honti te dakkhiṇeyyā sugatassa sāvakā etesu dinnāni mahapphalāni idampi sanghe ratanaṁ pañitaṁ etena saccena suvatthi hotu

7. Ye suppayuttā manasā dāḷhana nikkāmino gotamasāsanambhi te pattipattā amatam vigayha laddhā mudhā nibbutim bhuujamānī idampi sanghe ratanaṁ pañitaṁ etena saccena suvatthi hotu

8. Yathindakhilo paṭhavim sito siyā catubbbhi vātehi asampakkampyo tathūpamaṁ sappurisam vadāmi yo ariyasaccāni avecca passati idampi sanghe ratanaṁ pañitaṁ etena saccena suvatthi hotu

9. Ye ariya saccāni vibhāvayanti gambhirapaṇṇena sudesitāni kiṃcāpi te honti bhussappamattā na te bhavaṁ aṭṭhamamādiyanti idampi sanghe ratanaṁ pañitaṁ etena saccena suvatthi hotu

10. sahā vassa dassanasampadāya tayassu dhamma jahita bhavanti sakkāyadīthi vicikicchāṇa silabbatam vā pi yadatthi kiṃci catūhpāyeyhi ca vippamutto cha cābhiṭṭhānāni abhabbo kātuṁ idampi sanghe ratanaṁ pañitaṁ etena saccena suvatthi hotu

11. Kiṃcāpi so kammaṁ karoti pāpakam kāyena vācā uda cetasā vā abhabbo so tassa paṭićchadāya abhabbatā diṭṭhapadassa vuttā idampi sanghe ratanaṁ pañitaṁ etena saccena suvatthi hotu
12. Vanappagumbe yathā phussitaggā gimhānamāse paṭhamasmiṃ gimhe tathūpamam dhammavaraṃ adesayi nibbānagāmiṃ paramaṃhitāya idampi buddhe ratanaṃ paṇītaṃ etena saccena suvatthi hotu

13. Varo varaṇīṇī varado varāharo anuttaro dhammavaraṃ adesayi idampi buddhe ratanaṃ paṇītaṃ etena saccena suvatthi hotu

14. Khīṇāṃ purāṇāṃ navamān naṭṭhi sambhavanāṃ virattattītāyatike bhavasmiṃ te khīṇabījā avirūḥichāndā nibbanti dhīrā yathāyampadipoidampi saṅghaṃ ratanaṃ paṇītaṃ etena saccena suvatthi hotu

15. Yāṇidha bhūtāni samāgatāni bhūmmānī vā yānī vā antalikkhe tathāgatāṃ devamanussapūjitaṃ buddhaḥ namassāma suvatthi hotu

16. Yāṇidha bhūtāni samāgatāni bhūmmānī vā yānī vā antalikkhe tathāgatāṃ devamanussapūjitaṃ dhammaṃ namassāma suvatthi hotu

17. Yāṇidha bhūtāni samāgatāni bhūmmānī vā yānī vā antalikkhe tathāgatāṃ devamanussapūjitaṃ saṅghaṃ namassāma suvatthi hotu

Exercise work

Read Ratan Sutta by correct pronunciation in group work.

Lesson: 3

Ratana Sutra (English)

1. "Whatever beings (non-humans) are assembled here, terrestrial or celestial, may they all have peace of mind, and may they listen attentively to these words:

2. "O beings, listen attentively. May you all radiate loving-kindness to those human beings who, by day and night, bring offerings to you (offer merit to you). Wherefore, protect them with diligence.

3. "Whatever treasure there be either here or in the world beyond, whatever precious jewel there be in the heavenly worlds, there is nought comparable to the Tathagata (the perfect One). This precious jewel is the Buddha. By this (asseveration of the) truth may there be happiness.

4. "That Cessation, that Detachment that Deathlessness (Nibbana) supreme, the calm and collected Sakya Sage (the Buddha) had realized. There is nought comparable to this (Nibbana) Dhamma. This precious jewel is the Dhamma. By this (asseveration of the) truth may there be happiness."
5. "The Supreme Buddha extolled a path of purity (the Noble Eightfold Path) calling it the path which unfailingly brings concentration. There is nought comparable to this concentration. This precious jewel is the Dhamma. By this (asseveration of the) truth may there be happiness.

6. "The eight persons extolled by virtuous men constitute four pairs. They are the disciples of the Buddha and are worthy of offerings. Gifts given to them yield rich results. This precious jewel is the Sangha. By this (asseveration of the) truth may there be happiness.

7. "With a steadfast mind, and applying themselves well in the dispensation of the Buddha Gautama, free from (defilements), they have attained to that which should be attained (arahantship) encountering the Deathless. They enjoy the Peace of Nibbana freely obtained. This precious jewel is the Sangha. By this (asseveration of the) truth may there be happiness.

8. "As a post deeply planted in the earth stands unshaken by the winds from the four quarters, so, too, I declare is the righteous man who comprehends with wisdom the Noble Truths. This precious jewel is the Sangha. By this (asseveration of the) truth may there be happiness.

9. "Those who realized the Noble Truths well taught by him who is profound in wisdom (the Buddha), even though they may be exceedingly heedless, they will not take an eighth existence (in the realm of sense spheres). This precious jewel is the Sangha. By this (asseveration of the) truth may there be happiness.

10. "With his gaining of insight he abandons three states of mind, namely self-illusion, doubt, and indulgence in meaningless rites and rituals, should there be any. He is also fully freed from the four states of woe, and therefore, incapable of committing the six major wrongdoings. This precious jewel is the Sangha. By this (asseveration of the) truth may there be happiness.

11. "Any evil action he may still do by deed, word or thought, he is incapable of concealing it; since it has been proclaimed that such concealing is impossible for one who has seen the Path (of Nibbana). This precious jewel is the Sangha. By this (asseveration of the) truth may there be happiness.

12. "As the woodland groves though in the early heat of the summer month are crowned with blossoming flowers even so is the sublime Dhamma leading to the (calm) of Nibbana which is taught (by the Buddha) for the highest good. This precious jewel is the Buddha. By this (asseveration of the) truth may there be happiness.

13. "The Peerless Excellent one (the Buddha) the Knower (of Nibbana), the Giver (of Nibbana), the Bringer (of the Noble Path), taught the excellent Dhamma. This precious jewel is the Buddha. By this (asseveration of the) truth may there be happiness.

14. "Their past (kamma) is spent, their new (kamma) no more arises, their mind to future becoming is unattached. Their germ (of rebirth-consciousness) has died; they have no more desire for re-living. Those wise men fade out (of existence) as the flame of this lamp (which has just faded away). This precious jewel is the Sangha. By this (asseveration of the) truth may there be happiness.

15. "Whatever beings (non-human) are assembled here, terrestrial or celestial, come let us salute the Buddha, the Tathagata (the perfect One), honored by gods and men. May there be happiness. The perfect Dhamma, honored by gods and men. May there be happiness.
16. "Whatever beings are assembled here, terrestrial or celestial, come let us salute the perfect dhamma, honored by gods and men. May there be happiness."

17. "Whatever beings are assembled here, terrestrial or celestial, come let us salute the perfect Sangha, honored by gods and men. May there be happiness."

Word meaning

Samāgatāni- assembled; bhummāni- terrestrial; antalikkhe- on sky; sumanā- happy; sakkacca-with attention; nīsāmetha-listen; mānusīyā pajāya-for the human being; huraṃ- next life; amatm- nectar; parīvanṇayi- described; samādhimānantarikaṇṭhamānu- the result of ṣamadhi what can be got immediately; Passattha- admire; dakkhineyyā- worthy of offerings; suppayuttā- truly appointed; dalhena- steady fastly; nikkāmino- niskham; patipatta-best achievement; Yathindakhilo- a post deep planted in the earth; ariyasaccāni- four noble truths; bhusappamattā- nonvagilent; dassanasampadāya- right view; vicikicchitaṅca- doubt; vippamutto- free; diṭṭhapadassa- having right view; varaṇāṇu- aware of nibbana; varado- the giver of happiness(nibbana); varāharo- the person who attained the best path or nibbana.

---

Lesson: 4

Background of Karaniya Mettasutta

Once upon a time Lord Buddha was living in Savatthi. The rainy season was coming. The Bhikkhus used to search the suitable place inside the mountain cave or in the forest for the Vassaavana. Thus the five hundred Bhikkhus started to live in the forest near the Himalayas. They used to practice meditation with great pleasure after collecting food from the neighbouring villages and having those. Their health and mind became fresh by the pollution free climate and good food.

There were many tree-gods in that forest. They were afraid by the pious life and the power of sila of the Bhikkhus. The tree-gods were fleeing away from the trees with their families by not able to bear the influence of sila. They were only thinking about when these Bhikkhus would leave this place. As soon as the Bhikkhus would leave the place they could come back to their dwelling place. But the tree-gods found that the Bhikkhus would not leave the place before the end of Vassavasa.

One night the tree-gods frightened the Bhikkhus appearing before them with a fearing terrible looks to drive them away. To this the Bhikkhus were terrified. Therefore they could not concentrate on meditation. Gradually they became very thine and weak. Later the tree-gods started to spread bad smells. To this the Bhikkhus suffered from severe headache. One day after discussing between them they went away to Lord Buddha in Savatthi leaving Vassavasa. To see the Bhikkhus Buddha reminded them that he instructed not to travel during Vassavasa. Then the Bhikkhus narrated all the facts about leaving the place of the Vassavasa.
Hearing everything Buddha said, ‘O bhikkhus go back to that place again. I am saying you the way of protecting from the tree-gods. Be friendly to the tree-gods or the demons, don’t be hostile to them. Show friendship and pity to them with patience. Saying this Buddha preached the Karaniya Metta Sutta to them and said, learn this sutta and go back to the forest. At the eighth day of upasatha in every month recite this sutta loudly. Discuss about religion, ask each other about the topic, and recommend them. Then the demons will never frighten you. They will be beneficiary and welwisher of you.

According to the advice of Buddha the bhikkhus went back to that place and involved in reciting Karaniya Metta Sutta and absorbed in the mettabhavana. The disturbance of the tree-gods was stopped by the impact of Karaniya Mettasuttam. Due to the influence of the friendship and pity the tree-gods did not harm the bhikkhus any more, moreover they engaged in serving them with content. Finally the bhikkhus were able to complete their Vassavasa. In this sutta, there is a guideline for the people who are wishing nibbana to practice mettabhavana as their duties. So, it is called the ‘Karaniya Metta Sutta’. The name of this sutta in Pali is ‘Karaniya Mettasutta’.

Exercise work
Why were the tree-gods afraid?
Why did the Bhikkhus leave the Vassavasa?
What did Buddha say after listening to the Bhikkhus?

Lesson: 5
Karaniya Mettasuttam (Pali)

1. Karanīyam athakusalena yan taṃ santam padaṃ abhisamecca:
Sakko ujī ca sūjī ca
suvaco c'assa mudu anatīmāni,

2. Santussako ca subharo ca appakicco ca sallahukavutti santidiyo ca nipako ca appagabbho kulesu ananugiddho,

3. Na ca khuddaṃ samācare kiñci yena viññū pare upavađeyyum Sukhino vā khemino hontu
sabbe sattā bhavantu sukhitattā:

4. Ye keci pāñabhūt' atthi tasā vā thāvarā vā anavasesā Dīgha vā ye mahāntā vā
majjhima rassakā anukathāīā
54

Buddhist religion and moral education

5. Diṭṭhā vā yē vā addiṭṭhā ye ca dūre vasanti avidūre Bhūtū vā sambhavesī vā
   sabbe sattā bhavantu sukhitattā

6. Na paro paraṃ nikubbetha nātipmaññetha katthacinarā kañci Vyāroṣanā patīghasaña nāññamaññassā dukkham iccheyya

7. mātā yathā niyam puttaṃ
   āyusā ekaputtam anurakkhe
   Evam pi sabbabhūtesu
   mānasam bhāvaye aparimāṇaṃ

8. Mettaḥ ca sabbalokasmīṃ
   Mānasam bhāvaye aparimāṇaṃ
   Uddham adho ca tiriyaṇ ca
   asambādham averaṃ asapattāṃ

9. Tiṭṭhaṃ caram nisinno vā sayāno vā yāvat’ asa vigatamiddho Etaṃ satīṃ adhiṭṭheyya brahmam etam vihāram idha-m-ahu

10. Diṭṭhiṇ ca anupagamma
    silavā dassanena sampanno Kāmesu vineyya gedham na hi jātu gabbhaseyyaṃ punar eti ti

Exercise work
Recite the ‘Karaniya Mettasuttam’ in correct pronunciation. (Group work)

Lesson: 6

Karaniya Metta Sutta (English)

1. This is what ought to be done by one skilled in the good Having understood the path to peace Able, straight forward and straight up, polite, they should be mild and not arrogant

2. Contented and frugal, with few responsibilities and easy going, grounded, and not impulsive; not chasing status

3. And not doing the slightest thing which is denounced by the Wise in others
   May they have happiness and peace; May all beings be happy in themselves

4. Whatever living beings there are fearful or fearless – without remainder Huge, large, medium, small. Fine or coarse.

5. Seen or unseen, Remote or living nearby, Born or seeking birth: May all beings be happy in themselves

6. Not humiliating or despising anyone anywhere Though anger or experiencing repugnance: [they] should not wish suffering for another.

7. Like a mother’s own child, [she will] protect that only child with her life Thus for all beings should the heart become infinite 8. And friendliness for all the world, [should] the heart become infinite In all the directions of space, unobstructed, peaceable, without enmity
9. Standing, walking, sitting or lying down, As far as possible without sluggishness
   This mindfulness should be undertaken; [It is like] dwelling with god here and now 10. Not falling into views, ethical and with perfect vision Having given up greed for sensory pleasures, freed without doubt from birth.

Word meaning: santāṃ -quiet; sakko-able; abhisamocca-to know fully; ujūstraight; sūjū ca-very straight; Santussako-satisfied person; subharo-easy to care; appakicco-easily satisfied; sallahukavutti-the person who is satisfied in few and who can fill the necessity easily if any; Santindriyo-one who can control his senses; nipako-wise; appagabbho- humble; not proud, conscientious, well behaved; ananugiddho-indifferent; upavadeyyuṃ-to speak ill; khemino-the person who enjoys safety or peace; pāṇabhūt' atthi-the animals of the world; thāvarā-steady; anavasesā completely; tiriyaṅ ca-curved; asambādham-devoid of division; averaṃ-absence of enemy; asapatattam-absence of hostility; Tīṭham- to stand; vigatamiddho- until sleeping; adhīṭheyya- taking possession; nikubbetha-deprive; mānasam bhāvase-to be friendly.

Exercise work:
Write the English translation of the Karaniya Metta Sutta (group work)

Lesson: 7

The Importance of the Ratana Sutta and the Karanya Metta Sutta

The impact of Ratana Sutta on human being and gods is infinite. There are praises about Buddha, Dharma and Sangha, three jewells, in the Ratana Sutra. These three jewells are called together Triratana. One can keep away his mind from any unwholesome deeds by recalling Tiratana. It can be controlled mind by this. There is said about the internal force inside the four noble truths in the Ratana Sutta. One who is able to realize the four noble truths he or she can save himself or herself from all the passion, desire, greed, jealousy and ignorance of the ocean like worldly life. The person free from passion and desire or craving can be compared with the post deeply rooted on the ground. As the post (Indrakhila) never shakes by the powerful wind so the person rightly aware of four noble truths does not shake or attach with greed or craving. He always remains determinend in his goal. Therefore it is said the Ratana Sutta by keeping us away from all the unwholesome deeds or actions inspire us to perform good deeds and guides us to the right path of true religion. The person guided to the true religion can attain nibbana by ending all the sufferings.

The moral teaching of the Karaniya Metta Sutta is, to nurture the friendly attitude for every living being, not to neglect any one, not to wish bad for any one. Every one should show loving-kindness for all the living beings always whether sleeping, awakening, and meditation. Because the meditation on metta (mattabhavana) make the mind peaceful and control the speech, body and mind. It drives the enemity, awakes love. It teaches us to be friendly with all the living being by comparing other's life with that of own. This sutta inspires us to be sympathetic and to wish good for all the living beings moving or still, long or large, middle or short, small or big, seen-unseen, near-far, born or will born; refrains from deprivation and disregard. Helps to give up violence and control anger. Inspire to follow the eight noble paths appropriately. The person who follows eight noble paths never does any sin by body, mind or speech. As a result it is not possible to do any unwholesome deed by him. Therefore he and the people live with him can lead life peacefully without any disturbance. Thus person who meditates on metta is able to achieve nibbana and stopped rebirth by controlling craving. So it can be said that, the importance of the Ratana Sutta and the Karaniya metta sutta is infinite to practice true religion.

Exercise work
Present the teachings of Ratana sutta (group work)
What are the moral teachings of Karaniya metta sutta?

Exercise

Fill in the gaps
1. Once upon a time there was a severe ------- in Vesali.
2. Etena saccena ------ hotu.
3. There were many ------- in that forest.
4. ------- yathā niyām puttaṁ
    āyusā ekaputtam anurakkhe
5. The impact of ------- on human being and gods is infinite.

Short Questions
1. Where was Buddha living during the draught in Vesali?
2. What happened when Buddha stepped in Vesali?
3. Why did the tree-gods escape away with their family?
4. What are the moral teachings of Karaniya metta sutta?
5. How did the bhikkhus finish the Vassavasa?

Essay type questions
1. Explain the background of Ratana Sutta and Karaniya Metta Sutta.
2. Write the English translation of the Karaniya Metta Sutta.
Multiple choice questions

1. Reciting which sutta one can save from the bad effects?
   a. Bhojjhanga Sutra   b. Su-pubbanha Sutta
   c. Angulimala Sutta   d. Karaniya Metta Sutta

2. Every one should practice mettabhavana for all the living beings always whether sleeping, awakening, and contemplating, because through this-
   i. body- mind- speech are controlled
   ii. drives away the enmity
   iii. protected from danger

Which one is correct below?
   a. i and ii   b. ii and iii
   c. i and iii   d. i, ii and iii

Read the passage below and answer questions 3 and 4

Venerable Bhikkhu Dharmasri realized the four noble truths in the right way through meditation. After achieving perfect knowledge the three types of wrong concept, sakkaya ditthi, doubt, and the disregard to Tiratana immediately have driven away.

3. To which Venerable Bhikkhu Dharmasri is compared with?
   a. Pillar   b. Dharma ratana
   c. Sangha ratana   d. Samadhi

4. due to driven away the four types of wrong concepts the Bhikkhui will be free from three kinds of hell ii will be restrained from matricide, patricide, and the murder of Arhant iii will born again and again

Which one is correct below?
   a. i   b. i and ii
   c. ii and iii   d. i, ii and iii
Creative questions

The Problems of the city of Bartika

- Epidemic
- Draught
- Air pollution

a. What is the moral teaching of Karaniya Metta Sutta?

b. Why did the bhikkhus leave the Vassavasa? Explain.

c. To which sutta of Buddha the problems described in the tables are connected? Explain.

d. Analyse the impact of that sutta to solve the problems of the city of Vartika from the religious point of view.

2. Paramita Barua is the brilliant student of class ten. She is the only child of her parents. She suddenly died of a road accident. Then various bad signs were visible in their house.

a. By which name Vesali is known at present?

b. Explain the aims of reciting Sutta.

c. To which sutta the subjectmatter of the related event is connected? Explain.

d. ‘This is not possible to settle the situation without the recitation of the above mentioned sutta’—discuss.
Chapter Five
Buddhist Kammavada

Kamma controls the world. So, it is called that the power of kamma is worldwide. The basic foundation of Buddhism is ‘Kammavada’. Human beings get result according to their deeds. If he does good deeds, he will enjoy good result and if he does bad deeds, he is bound to undergo bad result. Not only are human beings, all creatures are subject to their kammas. His origin lies in his kamma, his recognition comes through his kamma, kamma is his friend, and kamma is his shelter. It is through one’s kamma by which one can attain either a higher life or a lower life. In this chapter we will discuss about Buddhist kammavada.

At the end of this chapter we will be able to -
* tell about the idea, of kamma;
* explain the idea of Buddhist kammavada
* differentiate wholesome and unwholesome deeds
* give an idea about Buddhist kammavada in the light of cullakamma vibhanga sutta.

Lesson 1
Notion of the word kamma

‘Kamma’ means to hold a ceremony, to construct or accomplish etc. In Buddhism auspicious-inauspicious, good-bad will or tendencies are called kamma, In other words, what can be thought of, what can be uttered in sentences and what can be accomplished by the body is kamma. Kamma is accomplished by three doors: body, utterence and mind.

Thoughts, utterances and doing (physical) everything is subject to kamma. The unconscious activities of mind are not called kamma. In the book named Anguttar nikaya, Buddha says- ‘Cetanaham bhikkhave kammam vadami. Cetayita kammam karoti kayena, vacaya manasa’pi’.

Meaning : O bhikkhus! I call consciousness (intention) the kamma, because it is by consciousness that an individual accomplishes kamma by body, utterence and mind.

Mind or sense is the origin of kamma. Consciousness is the natural instinct of mind. The realization originated from the mind is consciousness. A consciousness of a moment is able to impart happiness or sorrow. Kamma, both physical or speech, everything is controlled by mind. According to Buddhism, every body has to enjoy the fruits of his deeds. Every kamma has its own aftermath. Like the fruits of a tree, result of kamma follows the kamma of human beings. If the kamma is good or bad, then the result would also be good or bad.

Classifications of Kamma
1. Kamma is of four types according to be done. Such as:
   a. Janaka Kamma
   b. Upastambhaka Kamma
c. Utpiraka or Upapiraka kamma
d. Upaghataka kamma

a. Janaka Kamma: The Kamma which causes rebirth, the Kamma which produces khanda and Kammajarupa during life time and is consciousness of goodness or badness is Janaka Kamma. Janaka Kamma is the after math of the past deeds.
b. Upastambhaka Kamma: The kamma which helps the Janaka Kamma is Upastambhaka Kamma. Upastambhaka Kamma helps the Janaka Kamma to impart a result. The birth is caused by the influence of Janaka Kamma and one life by the influence of Upastambhaka Kamma.

c. Utpiraka or Upapiraka Kamma: This kind of Kamma weakens or obstructs the distress of Janaka Kamma or Upastambhaka Kamma. The good Utpiraka Kamma hinders or weakens the bad Upastambhaka Kamma, the bad utpiraka Kamma hinders or weakens the good Upastambhaka kamma.

d. Upaghata kamma: The function of this Kamma is to impede. This kind of Kamma not only obstructs but also expends its own dominance completely destroying the Janaka Kamma. Its main function is to produce result.

2. The Kamma which gives result at the time of birth is of four kinds. Such as a) Guru Kamma b) Asanna Kamma c) Acarita Kamma d) Upacita Kamma

a. Guru Kamma: The Kamma which gives the first fruit at the time of new birth is called Guru Kamma.

b. Asanna Kamma: Asanna Kamma is also called Maranasanna Kamma. If the Guru Kamma is not accomplished earlier, then the Kamma done before death gives result. In other words, the Asanna Kamma becomes the Janaka Kamma. At this time, well wishers should remind the wholesome deeds to a man fallen down to death.

c. Acarita Kamma: In absence of Guru Kamma and Asanna Kamma, Acarita Kamma appears before the man going to die. It turns into Janaka Kamma. The Kamma which has been accomplished many times in life is Acarita Kamma.

d. Upacita Kamma: If the memory of the three kinds of Kamma mentioned above does not appear at the time of death, then the memory of the Kamma done in this life or in the previous life appears on the way of the soul and turns into Janaka Kamma.

3. Kamma is of four kinds according to the result given in this life. Such as: a) Dittha Dhamma Vedaniya Kamma b) Upapaddya Vedaniya Kamma c) Apara Pariyaya Vedaniya Kamma and d) Bhutapubba Vedaniya Kamma.

a. Dittha Dhamma Vedaniya Kamma: The Kamma which is able to give fruits in the present life is called Dittha Dhamma Vedaniya Kamma.

b. Upapaddya Vedaniya Kamma: The Kamma which gives result in the after life is called Upapaddya Vedaniya Kamma.

c. Apara Pariyaya Vedaniya Kamma: This Kamma is the given of result at any birth starting from next second birth until the attainment of Nibbana. In other words, the Kamma the fruits of which are a must is Apar Pariyaya Vedaniya Kamma. It must give fruits, if it just gets a chance.

d. Bhutapubba Vedaniya Kamma: The Kamma which had once the power to give results but now no more is called Bhutapubba Vedaniya Kamma. It is not able to impart result because of its own weakness.

4. Kamma is of four kinds according to the place of giving fruits. Such as: a) Akusala b) Kamavacara result oriented wholesome deed c) Rupavacara result oriented wholesome deed d) Arupavacara result oriented wholesome deed.

a) Akusala: The sinful activities which throw the creatures after death into four types of sensual ill states (Asura, Peta, Tiryyaka and Niraya) are called Akusala.
b) Kamavacara result oriented wholesome deed : After death at the influence of which Kamma the creatures can take birth at the land of Kama Sugati (six heavens and human beings) that good result giving Kammatas are called Kamavacara result oriented wholesome deed.

c) Rupavacara result oriented wholesome deed : After death the Kammatas which are able to give the creatures the result to take birth in the sixteen lands of Roopalok are called Rupavacara result oriented wholesome deed.

d) Arupavacara result oriented wholesome deed : The honest deeds or good deeds which are able to give the creatures the result to take birth in the four lands of Arooploka are known as Arupavacara result oriented wholesome deed.

Exercise work
What did Buddha say in Anguttar Nikaya?
According to materialisation how many types of Kammatas are there and tell what are they?

Lesson: 2

The Conception of Kammavada

‘Kammavada’ comprises of two meaningful words ‘Kamma’ and ‘vada’. ‘Kamma’ means the deed or action accomplished by body, utterance or mind. ‘Vada’ means the ‘Theory’ or the belief of a conception. So, Kammavada means the deep belief in the result of deeds.

There are differences among human beings in age, colours, enjoyment, riches, wisdom and pride. The main reason behind it is Kamma. All creatures are subject to their own Kammatas. It is Kamma which makes diverse division like bad, good or high low among the creatures. As, in the world the behaviours and manners of all human beings are not the same, in the same way again the habits or characters are not the same. In the book named “Milinda Question” during the conversation between Bhikkhu Nagasena and Greek King Milinda, Nagasena Thera said, “All men are not the same because their deeds are not same. In human beings various differences are noticed because there are differences in the result of doings of the men.” He also said, “All trees do not bear same fruits. Some are sour, some saline, some are sweet and juicy. This variation is because of the variation of seeds.” Thus because of the diversity of deeds, all men are not same because all creatures are subject of Kamma. The main cause of this kind of variation is Kamma.

It is Kamma which divides creatures in different ways. There is no one who is responsible for the happiness or sorrows of the creatures. These are the creations to Kamma. In the book named ‘Suttanipat’ Buddha said

“na jacca brahmino hoti, na jacca hoti abrahmino
Kammuna brahmono hoti kammuna hoti abrahmono.

Meaning: “Nobody is Brahmin by born, nobody is non-Brahmin by born, Brahmin is by Kamma non Brahmin is by Kamma.”

Kassako kammuna hoti, sippiko hoti kammuna
Banijo kammuna hoti, pessiko hoti kommuna.

Meaning: “Somebody is farmer by his deeds somebody is artisan by his deeds, it is by Kamma by which one becomes a businessman, and by Kamma one becomes servant.”

Kammuna vattati loko, kammuna vattati paja
Kamma nibandhan satta, ratthissaniva yayato.
Buddhist religion and moral education

Meaning: The whole world is active through the Kamma. The creation of the birth of human beings is through Kamma. As the carriage runs depending on its wheels so do all creatures depend on its own Kamas.

Human life has been tied up through the code of Kamma. Present life is determined by the past deeds. Again, the present Kamma determines the future life. In other words, as the present life depends on past, again future life depends on present deeds.

In Jataka there is a story of Dighayukumara. King of Varanasi murdered Dighayukumara’s parents. After long days, once Dighayukumara got a chance to kill the king. He expressed his identity to the king and being influenced by his wholesome deeds he told without killing the king. “Your Majesty! I will not do any harm to you. Further you kill me as you did my parents. Otherwise, your enemy will live on earth.” Then the king also said to Dighayukumara,” I also will not do harm to you” Thus they two became friends. Through this, it is understood that though there was scope of creation of bad deed, it is because of good thinking that it did not occur. Here, there was influence of the result of good fate on both of them.

Exercise work

What did Nagasena Thera say to the Grecian king Milinda about Kamma? Narrate.
Give an idea of Kamma as described in Suttanipata.

Lesson: 3

Explanation of the result of Kamma

According to Kammavada every human being has of undergo the result of his own deeds. As one will do, so will he enjoy the result of his deeds. If the Kamma is good or bad, the result will also be good or bad. As you will sow seeds, so will you reap. If anybody sows the seeds of paddy, he will get paddy, not wheat. If anybody sows the bad paddy seeds, he will get bad paddy, not good paddy. The same rule is applicable throughout the whole world. Buddha never said it nowhere: I will help you to emancipate. The deeds of the present moment give result at the next moment. This is the natural rule of the world. Man can change his own fate. In the book named ‘Dhamma pada’ under sutta pitaka it is seen:

\[
\text{Atta hi attano natho kohi natho paro siya} \\
\text{Attanahi sudantena natham labhahi dullabham.}
\]

Meaning: You yourself are your saviour or master, There is no other saviour or master. If you can moderate youself well, if is possible to attain anything rare.

If one does not be self dependent no kind of success comes to him. So, self establishing is the basis of all great deeds. Man undergoes happiness or sorrow as result of his good or bad deeds. Kamma begets result, result directs cause. Seeds give fruits and fruits describe the seeds. Here seed and fruit both are interrelated. In the same way, Kamma and result of kamma are deeply interrelated. The result exists from before in Kamma as sprout. In the “Sutra of Council” the code of Kamma is especially divided into four parts considering the result of Kamma. Such as:
Buddhist Kammavada

a. Akusala or sorrow giving sinful deeds: These are the deeds accomplished in greed, jealousy and delusioned mind. Regarding the result of such Kamma in the book named Dhammapada it is said:

   Diso disam yam tam kayira veri va pana verinam
   Micchapanihitam cittam papiyo nam tato kare.

   Meaning: The amount of harm a jealous person can do to another jealous person or an enemy, the mind led to the path of falsehood can do more harm than that. In the book named Dhammapada, it is also said:

   Idha socati pecca socati papakari ubhayattha socati
   So socati no vinnati disva kammakilithhamattano.

   Meaning: A sinner repents in both worlds present world and after world. Seeing his own sinful activities and its result, he starts repenting deeply.

b. Kusala or happiness giving virtuous deeds: Observance of precepts, practice of donating, doing well to others etc. wholesome deeds are good or happiness giving. Virtuous deeds beget happy result. Regrding the result of such Kammas, it is said in Dhammapada:

   na tam mata pita kayira anve va pi ca nataka samma panihitam cittam seyyaso nam tato kare.

   Meaning: The kind of help which the parents, kith and kin, friends can not do, the heart led to the right way can do more help.

c. Good or Bad result giving sinful or virtuous deeds: The kamma that is accomplished in good- bad mixed mind becomes sinful or virtuous and its result becomes full of joy or sorrow. An example of such Kamma is given below- A man earns money though mean ways like stealing, roguery, deception etc. If anybody asks for money from him, he donates in free hand. He always plays the pioneering role to remove the sorrows of the sufferers. In case of attaining result, as a consequence of his graciousness, generosity, and doing good to others, he can take birth as a rich man in the next life. But because of the misdeeds like stealing, roguery, and deception etc. he may face slanders. Despite having lot of wealth, he may be deprived of enjoying it. His life comes to an end through different pains- mental and physical.

d. Deed destroying all kinds of deeds by which attainment of emancipation is possible: When human beings are attracted to greed, antipathy and dilusion, then there creates different kinds of desires and passions in him. It is possible to control these through the control of eye, ear, and nose, tongue skin and mind. For that it requires rapt meditation, through which it is possible to attain supreme emancipation. Buddha said in “Samiddhi Sutta” of Samyutta Nikaya, “None should do any sinful deed in body, utterence or mind. Everybody should forsake desires and passions and being contemplation. Everybody should refrain from accepting sufferings unnecessarily.”

Good deeds or the result of good deeds lead on individual to the holding of virtuous deeds. Angulimal was a murderer dacoit. He murdered 999 persons in his own hand. But that Angulimal himself become the arhant in his last birth being free from all sinful deeds of the past. Alavaka Yakkha being subdued by Buddha forsook animal killing. Next time, he was able to attain Sotapatti by his efforts of Kamma. The harlot Amrapali attained Arhattaphala following the path showed by Buddha. Emperor Ashoka being deluded with the expansion of his kingdom became known as Candashoka. Later on Candashoka earned fame as Dhammashoka and accomplished many philanthrophic activities.
The patricide king Ajatasattu has been famous still today because of his religious feelings and respect to Buddha. But because of the deed of parriadal sin, he underwent the sufferings of hell after death. Despite being the son of a Brahmin, many can not be the owner of Brahmin like behavior. On the other hand taking birth in Sudra clan, many people can earn a lot of name and fame because of physical beauty. The person who believes in the result of Buddhist kammaphala or the result of deed of Buddha, he does not hate even the worst criminal. Because he knows that that man may become great if he finds on opportunity- Again, he can enjoy the fruits of his own deeds in this world by his good deeds.

Exercise work

In how many parts can the code of Kamma be divided in consideration of the result of Kamma?

Lesson: 4

Wholesome and Unwholesome Deeds

The synonymous words of the word ‘Kusal’ are perfect, auspicious, virtuous, honest, pious, faultless, sinless, praiseworthy, qualitative, welfare, wellbeing etc. The Kamma accomplished by consciousness without greed, antipathy and delusion are called Kusal Kamma or wholesome deeds. There is not touch of sinfulness in this type of activities. Bounty, silabhavana (thinking about precepts), service, donation of virtue, religiosity etc. are good deeds. To do wholesome deeds it requires good mind. It is possible of get good results doing good deeds in this way. In Buddhism, importance is given to wholesome or good deeds. The result of good deeds is good. Khema was born in the city of Hamsavati during the period of Padumuttar Buddha. She was a maid-servant by profession. One day she gifted three sweet cakes to the Sujata Bikkhu. Because of this good deed, Khema earned virtues and was born in the human world at the time of Vipassi Buddha. At the time of Kukshandha Buddha she was born in the house of a richman and donated a beautiful garden to Buddha Promukho Bhikkhu Sangha. At the time of Konagamana Buddha also she held such kind of bounteous ceremony. At the time of Kassapa Buddha she was born as the eldest daughter of king Kikira and built accommodation for the Sangha. Finally, at the time of Gautama Buddha she became the wife of king Bimbisara.

In this context another example of wholesome deed is given below:

Once upon a time Bodhisattva was born in a poor family. At that time he used to work for others to earn his livelihood. One day he went out in search of work and found it in the family of richman (Sesthi) of the Rajageha. He started working very sincerely. One day he returned home in the evening after his whole day's work in the field and saw that everybody was fasting on the eve of that full moon day. In other words, they were observed Atthangiko Upasath Sila. He said to richman (Seththi), 'Master! I have made mistake. I did not know that today is the day of Upasath. So, I could not observe Upasath in the morning. I want to observe it now'. According to the instruction of richman he fasted the whole night with Silamuuritiibhavana. Unfortunately, because of the hard labour of the whole day and fasting of the whole night, he died the next day. He was engrossed in good thoughts and meditation till the period before his death. As an influence of that good deeds and thoughts, he was bron as a prince after death. It is the result of good deeds.
Buddhist Kammavada

The meanings of the word ‘Akusala’ are: sin, fault, flaw, dishonest work, crime, inauspicious work, imperfect, unwelcome deed, non-virtuous work, unjust, unsuitable, against principle, unrighteous, worse etc. Greed, antipathy and delusion prevail in unwholesome deeds. The result of unwholesome deeds is always bad. Man gets mortified in the society because of unwholesome deeds. There occurs loss of honour and respect. In the whole slander is spread everywhere against him. Everybody has to face the result of unwholesome deeds. Moggallana had to tolerate ridicule physically in his last age. Moggallana was an Arhat. In his previous birth he caused sufferings to his loving mother. As a result of that suffering he had to stand slanders despire being an Arhat. Through this it is understood that one has to suffer the result of unwholesome deeds in many lives.

Devadatta once tried to murder Buddha. At that time he tried to murder Buddha throwing stones from the hill. That time there was bleeding from the body of the great wise man like Buddha. Because of this unwholesome deed, Devadatta had to suffer the pains of hell.

It is mentioned in ‘Mahavaccha sutta’ of Majjhima Nikaya - Once Buddha said while telling about the wholesome and unwholesome deeds to Paribrajaka (traveller) Vacchagotta ‘Greed is bad and non-greed is good. Antipathy is bad; sympathy (Audes) is good. Delusion is bad, anti delusion is good.’ He also said, ‘Jealousy is bad, refraining from jealousy is good. Stealing is bad, refraining from stealing is good. Sensuality is bad, refraining from sensuality is good. Words of jealousy is bad, refraining from words of jealousy is good. Harsh words are bad; refraining from telling harsh words is good. Telling useless words are bad, refraining from uttering useless words is good. Greed is bad, non-greed is good. Pitilessness is bad, pitifulness is good. Wrong conception is bad, true conception is good.’ Here Buddha has called these ten kinds of dhammas as Akusala and refraining from ten types of dhammas (behaviours) as Kusala.

The works done maybe good or bad but at the time of death it gives special result. Despite having the dominance of good deeds throughout one’s life, one’s destination becomes downward if there arises the thought of bad deeds at the time of death. On the other side, despite the amount of bad deeds having more, one’s destination becomes upward because of the creation of good heart at the time of death. One’s direction becomes honest and happy if there originates the thought of good deed at the time of death. So, one should produce good thoughts.

Exercise Work
Differentiate between wholesome and unwholesome deeds.

Lesson: 5

English Translation of Cullakamma Vibhanga Sutta

Culla Kamma Vibhanga Sutta or Khudra Kamma Vibhanga Sutta is 135 number of Sutta of Majjhima Nikaya. In it, there is detailed description of Kamma and result of Kamma. It is mentioned below:

I have heard like this that once Lord Buddha lived in monastery of Anathapindika at Jetavana. At that time, Subha Manavaka, son of Todeya Brahmin, appeared before Buddha and sat down beside him after a joyful discussion with him. Then Subha Manavaka, son of Todeya, said to Buddha, ‘O Gautama! why among human beings of the world some are seen low and some better, some live a short life and some long, some are patient and some without any disease, some are ugly and some beautiful, some are poor and some rich, some are less-powerful and some with massive power, some are born in lower caste and some higher, some are wise and some unwise? O Gautama! what is the cause of human being' being such meanest and the best?' Then Buddha said in reply, 'O Manavaka! In this world all beings are subject to their deeds. Kamma is the only friend of all creatures. Kamma is their only shelter. Kamma is the only protector of all beings. It is Kamma which divides the beings as the meanest and the best.'

Subha Manavaka said, 'O Gautama! I could not well understand the thing you instructed. You are omniscient. So, give me detailed instruction about Kamma so that I can understand easily.'

Then Buddha said, 'O Subha Manavaka! Then listen. Try to understand mindfully.'

Subha Manavaka said, 'Yes Lord, please tell.'

Then Buddha said, 'O Manavaka! Some women and men in this world become killers of creatures and greedy. They always stain their hands with the blood of creatures. Thus they behave cruelly with the creatures either killing or Wounding it. Because of such kind of behaviour they obtain Apaya Duggati, go to Asuraloka or hell. If they take birth among human beings, they live a short life.'

'O Manavaka! The main cause of getting a short life is showing cruelty to the creatures and being cruel to the dead or wounded beings.'

'O Manabak! Some women or men refrain from killing any creature. They throw away the weapons; feel ashamed to kill any creature. They lead life showing mercy to all creatures. Thus they do good deeds and they their lead life through good livelihood. For this reason, they go to heaven after death. Instead of going to heaven, if they take birth again as human beings, they get a long life. For being pitiful and helpful to the creatures and for refraining from killing of beings they get a long life.'

'O Manavaka! Some women or men in this world unleash torture on animals. They unleash torture on creatures through stones, sticks or arms. No one should torture the creatures in such a way. For giving such pains they obtain Apaya Duggati, take birth in Asuraloka or hell. And if they take birth among human beings they are always attacked with difficult diseases.'

'O Manavaka! Some women or men in this world are quick-tempered. They become angry for a simple word. Utter foul words. They nurture anger, malice for a long time in their minds and later they again express it. For this kind of deeds, they obtain Apaya Duggati, take birth in Asuralok or hell. And if they take birth among human beings, their complexion become very ugly. It is this which is the cause of their being ugly.'

'O Manavaka! There are some women or men in the world who ae without any anger. They do not get angry even if they are told hundreds of things; they do not spring up or utter loud words. For this reason, they go to heaven after death. Instead of going to heaven ever if they take birth as human beings, they get a long life. They get a long life for refraining from killing of beings and being pitiful and helpful to the creatures. O Manavaka! It is the main cause of their being beautiful.'

'O Manavaka! Some owmen or men become envious. They are envious of the people who attain fame, pride, honour, respect, and worship. Theyu make them guilty. For such kind of deeds, they obtain Apaya, Duggati, take birth in Asuraloka or hell. Even if they are born among human being, they take birth in poor family. O Manavaka! It is this which is the cause of their birth in a poor family.'
Buddhist Kammavada

'O Manavaka! Some women or men do not become envious. They do not be envious of the people who attain fame, pride, honour, respect, and worship. They do not express their anger to anybody out of malice. They do not make them guilty. For this they go to heaven. If they take birth as human beings, they are born in great families. This is the cause of getting birth in great families.'

'O Manavaka! Some women or men in this world do not become bounleous. They do not donate food, water, clothes, nothing to a Samanera and Brahmin. For such kind of deeds they obtain Apaya, Duggati, take birth in Asuraloka or hell. And even if they take birth among human beings, they become very poor this is the cause of their being poor.

'O Manavaka! Some women or men in this world become Uppish. They do not salute the man worthy of being saluted. They do not honour the man worthy of standing ovation. They do not give seat to the person worthy of getting seat. They do not worship the person worthy of being worshipped. They do not obey the person worthy of being obeyed. For such deeds they obtain Apaya, Duggati, take birth in Asuraloka or hell. And even if they take birth among human beings, they are born in lower caste. This is the cause of their getting birth in lower caste.'

'O Manavaka! Some women or men in this world do not become proud. Salute the person worthy of being saluted. Besides, show honour to the person worthy of being honoured, assign seat to the person worthy of getting seat, worship the person worthy of being worshipped, obey the person to be obeyed. For this, they go to heaven. And if they take birth among human beings, they are born in high clans. This is the cause of being born in high clans.'

'O Manavaka! There are some women and men in this world who appear before Samanera or Brahmin and ask, 'Bhante, what is good? What is bad? What is not a fault? What should be served? What should not be served? What deeds mine will cause me harm and suffering for a long time and what deeds of mine will bring about happiness for me for a long time? For deeds of such kinds they obtain Apaya, Duggati, born in Asuraloka or hell. And even if they are born among human beings then they become unwise. This is the cause of being born as unwise.'

'O Manavaka! There are some women or men in this world who appearing before Samanera or Brahmin ask, 'What is good? What is bad? What are not faults? Of what should be served? Of what should not be served? Which works will cause pains, sufferings and sorrows for a long time? What deeds of mine will bring about happiness for me for a long time? For deeds of such kind, they go to heaven? And if they take birth as human beings, they are born with great wisdom. This is the cause of being born with great wisdom.'

'O Manavaka! thus different people with short life, long life, attacked with severe diseases, diseaseless, ugly, beautiful, unhappy family, happy family, poor, rich, less powerful, greatly powerful, high caste, low caste, unwise, greatly wise are seen.'

'O Manavaka! It is Kamma which is the companion of beings. All beings are subject to Kamma. It is Kamma for which human beings are born in different clans. In other words, they obtain Apaya Duggati, take birth in Asuraloka hell or among human beings. It is Kamma which is friend. It is Kamma which is Pratikarana. So, it is Kamma which leads human beings to lower cast. It is Kamma again which takes human beings to higher clan. Helps to take birth in higher clan, makes them great.

When Buddha explained Kammavada in this way, Subha Manavaka, son of Toddeya, told Buddha, 'very good, very beautiful, and very excellent'. He discovered the physical entity of a covered thing; showed path to the pathless people. Thus, there is no end of the religious instructions that Buddha imparted. 'O Buddha! Now, I am taking refuge in you, the religion introduced by you and the Sangha established by you. From today think me as a devotee who took refuge in you.'

Exercise Work
Write down the key theme of Cullakamma Vibhanga Sutta.

Lesson: 6
Importance of Kammavada

Kammavada is an important matter in Buddhism. According to Buddhist Kammavada Citta (mind) itself is the source of wholesome and unwholesome deeds. According to this Kammavada even thinking bad is a sin. Good deeds are accomplished through good thinking. By the inevitable process of the principle of cause and effect present life is formed of the result of deeds done in the past life, future life is formed of the result of deeds done at the present life. From heaven to the lowest hell all creatures are tied by the law of Kamma. All are controlled by the same rule of Kamma. If a Kamma is done once, it continues to give result for an infinite period. Thus the result of Kamma is indivisible. Everybody must have to undergo it. So, for doing good deeds it requires the controlling of mind. Regarding this it is found in Dhammapada:

Manopubbangama dhamma manosettha manomaya
Manasa ce pasannena bhasati va karoti va
Tato nam sukhamanveti chaya'va anapayini.

Meaning: Mind is fast among all dharmas. Mind is the chief. Mind-made are they. If anybody preforms a task with a gracious heart then happiness follows him like a shadow.

There are three doors of Kamma. Viz: body door, speech door, and mind door. Everyday deeds are accomplished through these three doors. In some Kamma all the three doors remain together. Some deeds are accomplished by two doors and some by only one. The deeds we are doing through these three doors, some of them are honest, some dishonest, again some are neutral. Whether a Kamma is honest or dishonest is judged by the result of the Kamma. The Kamma whose result is bountiful and pleasure giving to the doer himself and to the world of beings around him is called honest deed. The Kamma that is harmful or brings sorrow to the doer himself and to the world of beings around him is dishonest deed. The Kamma which though accomplished, but is not result orientated is neutral deed. By Kamma the position of men in the society becomes absolutely firm or it is possible to be established, which is not possible by birth. If one beautifully accomplishes ones everyday’s work, his life becomes happy, but it requires having a good thinking in the accomplished deeds. If deeds are done in this way, good result is a must. For this reason, importance is given to Buddhist Kammavada. A man can beautifully construct his life through Kamma only. It is Kamma which places man to the highest seat. The good result of Kamma flows in all directions. It is Kamma which is the driving force of human beings. Man himself bears the fruits of his own deeds. He does not leave it behind. As per Buddhist Kammavada, there are rules for not killing any creature, not stealing not being involved into fornication, not telling lies, not taking things like drugs along with not to speak useless or harsh words. To earn the livelihood in a fair manner, no one should do any unjust or unsocial deed; everybody neglects them in the society. Look with a hateful eye. So, everybody should do beneficient deed keeping in mind the Kammavada of Buddha. The result that is earned through the accomplishment of good deeds, even flood can never destroy that. Such deeds are to be accomplished through which family, society and on the whole the good will of state increases.
Buddhist Kammavada

Exercise

Fill in the gaps
1. Man undergoes ............... according to his own Kamma.
2. Because of the diversity of ................. all men are not equal.
3. In Buddhist religion importance is given on .................
4. ............... divides the beings as the meanest and the best.
5. Future life is formed on the ................. of present life.

Short questions
1. What do you mean by Kammavada?
2. Who are subject to Kamma?
3. What do you mean by wholesome deeds?
4. What do you mean by unwholesome deeds?
5. How many door of Kamma are there and what are they?

Essay type Questions
1. Write a short essay on Buddhist Kammavada.
2. Write what you know about wholesome and unwholesome deeds.
3. Write a summary of Cullakamma Vibhanga Sutta.

Multiple Choice Question
1. During the time of which Buddha, Khema was born in the city of Hamsavati?
   a. Kukusandha     b. Kssapa
   c. Konagamana     d. Padumuttara

2. What does Kammavada mean?
   a. belief of an idea.
   b. the deep belief of the result of Kamma.
   c. the belief in the previous birth.
   d. The belief in the result of Kamma of the present life.

Read the passage below and answer to the question no. 3 and 4

Conversation between devotee and bhikkhu

Devotee: Going to Vihara, after completion of the praise of Tiratana and adoring the Bhikkhu, devotee sat beside Bhikkhu and asked, ‘Why do
Buddhist religion and moral education

Bhikkhu: Quoting Buddha in his instruction, Bhikkhu said, ‘All living beings are subject to Kamma. Kamma is the only friend of life. Kamma is their only shelter. It is Kamma which divides the creatures as the meanest and the best.’

3. To whom of the textbook does the matter of questioning of Devotee apply?
   a. To Subhadra
   b. To Brahmin
   c. To Subha Manavaka
   d. to Upali.

4. Of what is expressed in the quotation of Buddha in Bhikkhus’s instruction?
   a. Of Dhammapada
   b. Of Materialism
   c. Of Kammavada
   d. Idealism.

Creative Question

Two neighbours of Natunpara stay side by side. Among them the family members of Dipannita Chakma are quiet and gentle. They do not envy the people who get fame, pride, honour, respect, and worship. Rather they invite the Bhikkhus to the Vihara or their house and donate them food water, daily necessities according to their ability. So, the members of the other family cause their annoyance through their expression of jealousy or utterance of wrathful words.

   a. In ‘Sangiti Sutta’ how many parts is the code of Kamma divided in consideration of the result of Kamma?

   b. Why had Devadatta to undergo the sufferings of hell? Describe briefly.

   c. With what sutta do you find semilarity with the activities of the family of Dipannita Chakma? Explain.

   d. In the stem what would be the impact of the behaviour of the two families from familial or social point? Assess and analyse from the religious point of view?

2. Chart-1

   Service ← Kamma → Listening to religion Precepts

   Chart-2

   Greed ← Kamma → Kamma Malice

a. What does the word ‘Vada’ mean?

b. What is Utpiraka Kamma? Explain.

c. Which deed does chart-1 hint? Explain.

d. What might be difference between the result of Kamma described in chart-1 and chart-2? Analyse in the light of religion.
Chapter Six

Atthakatha

To explain the subject-matter of Tipitaka in a simple and easy way a kind of literary work is composed in Pali language which in the annals of Pali literature is known as Atthakatha. Though Atthakatha is written on the basis of the subject-matter of Tipitaka, it is not included in Pali Tipitaka. It is recognised as a literary work of an independent stream. Atthakatha literature explains the religion and philosophy of Buddha, side by side, it also relevantly discusses the different things like religion, philosophy, society, literature, culture, politics, economies, geography etc. of ancient India and Sri Lanka. For this reason, Atthakatha literature is considered as a great source of history of ancient India and Sri Lanka. In this chapter we will study about Atthakatha.

At the end of this chapter we will be able to –

* Describe the idea of Atthakatha and the background of its composition;
* Explain the subject-matter of Atthakatha;
* Give an idea about the life and works of the writers of Atthakatha;
* Narrate the importance and teachings of Atthakatha.

Lesson: 1

Idea of Atthakatha and Background of Its Composition

Pali ‘Atthakatha’ is formed with the combination of the two words ‘Attha’ and ‘Katha’ the word ‘Attha’ indicates ‘meaning’, ‘Katha’ means utterance, description, explanation etc. Atthakatha is called ‘Arthakatha’ in Sanskrit and ‘Commentary’ in English. So, generally, Atthakatha comes to mean Arthakatha, commentary, description of meaning, semantics, explanation etc. The book that describes or explains the meanings of words is called Atthakatha. In the book named ‘Saratthadipani’, it said about Atthakatha as such: ‘Attho Kathiyati Etayati Atthakatha’ which means it is Atthakatha because it describes the meaning.

In Tipitaka, there are so many complex, inscrutable, equivocal and silent terms or things which are not easily comprehensible to the readers of all class. That very terms or things are presented in Atthakatha in a simple and easy way with the help of using synonymous words, examples, similar stories, explanations etc. Thus, the literary work which is composed in Pali language and explanatory to the religion and philosophy of Buddha is called Atthakatha.

In response to the call of amiable words of Buddha for the emancipation of sufferings, innumerable people from different races, different clans, and different classes from all over India took refuge in Buddha Sangha that day. As in Buddha Sangha there were wise Bhikkhus and Bhikkhunis so also was there less wise people. So, it was possible for all to understand properly the religious instructions of Buddha. As a result, it required to explain the meanings of many things of religious instructions of Buddha during his life time. It required explanation and direction of on various matters for different reasons in the Sangha. Such as; If anybody spoke ill of Buddha, his religion or Sangha, broke the codes of Sangha, misexplained the words of Buddha, made indecent behavior in the Sangha, discussed anything being mad with anger, if there raised doubt or debate regarding any matters of religion and philosophy, if anything of the words of Buddha became incomprehensible then the Bhikkhu Sangha gathered together to try to find a solution of the matter. In this case, sometimes Buddha and sometimes his leading disciples used to solve this kind of problems giving proper explanations. In Tipitaka, a lot of examples are found in this regard. Viz. once there was a conversation going on between Supriya, a wandering religious mendicant and a young disciple of Buddha on the matters of Buddha, his religion and sangha. On the one side the wandering religious mendicant Supriya was criticizing Buddha, his religion and sangha. On the other hand the young disciple was praising highly of Buddha. At this the Bhikkhus felt hesitated and Buddha gave explanations of the do’s and don’t in this regard of which mention is found in Silakkhandhavagga of Digha Nikaya. In the same way, once the young wandering religious mendicant Potaliputta wrongly explained the words of Buddha to Bhikkhu Sammiddhi, : ‘Friend Potaliputta! Don’t tell like that. It is not good to criticize Lord, Lord will never tell like that.’ After telling like this the wanderer Potaliputta went away and Bhikkhu Sammiddhi informed the matter to Ananda Thera. Ananda Thera informed the same to Buddha. With a view to clarifying the matter, Buddha gave the minutest explanation of Kamma along with examples and meanings which are mentioned in the Mahakammavibhanga Sutta.

Thus at the primary stage of the formation of Buddhist Sangha, Buddha himself used to solve the problems giving explanations and decisions. But with the course of time, the Buddhist Sangha spread and it was not possible for him to solve all the problems. From the study of history, it is known that within few years of the start of Buddha’s preaching in the important localities or towns of ancient India viz. Saranatha, Rajageha, Vesali, Nalanda, Paca, Ujjayani, Campa, Mathura, Avanti etc. regions, Buddhist Sangha was formed and that places became the great centres for the practice of Buddhist religion and philosophy. It was not possible for Buddha to always live in these places, so, these centres began to run by the leadership of one leading disciples of Buddha. Among them the mentionable names were: Ananda, Mahakassapa, Mahakaccayana, Mahakottitha, Sariputta and Moggallana. In absence of Buddha, they used to solve all the problems regarding the activities of Sangha along with the explanation of Buddha’s religion and philosophy. The leading disciples used to make the Bhikkhus understand the instructions of Buddha explaining the meanings of the same. Buddha felt that many of his leading disciples are able to properly explain his religious instructions, in other words religious philosophy. In this case, Mahakaccayana, Sariputta and Mahakottitha Thera were in the front line. Mahakaccayana was an expert in presenting the brief instructions of Buddha in a clear, simple and easy way to the audience. He earned a great fame in explaining the religious philosophy and Buddha places Mahakaccayana above all in explaining religious philosophy. Besides this, there had been discussion among the Bhikkhus of the centres on various matters including religion and philosophy. The directions or the explanations that the leading disciples gave in the context of there discussions were informed to Buddha in due time. Of leading disciples’ explanations and directions Buddha approved the ones which he thought right and instructed the Bhikkhus to accept, contain and observe that. At the time of collection of the words of Buddha, these explanations also received approval in the first council which is found in the different books of Tipitaka. These explanations of Buddha and the disciples of Buddha can be recognized as the beginning of Atthakatha, which later getting development prepared the background for the composition of Atthakatha.

In the first council held three months after the Mahaparinibbana of Buddha, the sermons of Buddha were collected. Upto the first century B.C. the Bhikkhus used to memorise the compiled words of Buddha and preached it orally. If the oral speeches get changed, the meaning of any word changes. The meanings of the words of Buddha also got changed as it was propagated orally. Besides this, because of the evolution of time and the difference in explanations many aspects of the words of Buddha got unintelligible and controversial. For these reasons, the necessity arose for explaining the words of Buddha in a time befitting manner. The wise Bhikkhus were used to explain the meaning of incomprehensible, ambiguous, silent and complex aspects of the words of Buddha for the understanding of all. Perhaps that meanings and explanations being compiled took the form of Atthakatha. Thus, the literary work that was composed as the time befitting, simple, easy and meaningful explanations of the words of Buddha came to be known as Atthakatha. Generally, Atthakatha or commentary means providing the new, time befitting, and comprehensible meaning and explanations of the main texts according to one’s wisdom and point of view which properly contains the proper meaning and theme of the main texts. In Atthakatha literature, there is found the explanations with proper meanings of the words of Buddha. The scholar Bhikkhus of various Nikayas used to provide meanings and explanations of the words of Buddha on the basis of the ideals and philosophy of their own Nikayas. So, there is found mention of Atthakatha of different names. It is understood from it that the Atthakathas are not composed by any individual or Nikaya, it is the aftermath of the sequential composition of different scholars of multifarious Nikayas and regions. Thus, Mahinda Thera carried the compiled Atthakatha ceylon after the third council and preached translating it into ceylonese language. There the Atthakatha literature attained even more enrichment by the Ceylonese scholars. In the first century B.C., under the patronization of the Ceylonese king Battagamini, the Atthakathas were preserved writing it down on palm leaf in ceylonese language. For this reason it can be said, Atthakatha literature attained fulfillment even before the first century B.C. The Atthakathas written on palm leaf were preserved in the Mahavihara of Anuradhipura in Ceylon. In the course of time that became known as Sihalatthakatha (Ceylonese Atthakatha). The Sihalatthakathas were known as Maha-atthakatha, Mahapaccari-attakatha, Kurundi-ttakatha, Andhaka-attakatha, Samkhepa-attakatha etc. Though the composition of Atthakatha started in India, it was not found in India. As a result, the Indians and the people of other countries could not understand the words of Buddha easily. For that reason, in around 5th century B.C. the scholars like Buddhaghosa, Buddhadatta, Dhammapala, Mahanama and Upasena etc. composed the Atthakathas of the present time in Pali language taken from Sihalatthakatha preserved in Ceylon in Ceylonese language. Thus, passing through the different stages of evolution, the Atthakathas took the form of the present time.

At first the Atthakathas were composed with the subject-matter of Tipitaka or the religion and philosophy of Buddha, but later on, different types of Atthakathas are also composed with diverse aspects like the religion and philosophy, poetry, grammar, geography and politics etc. of ancient India and Sri Lanka. So, Atthakatha took the form of a vast and diverse storehouse of literature.

Atthakatha can be divided into four parts in consideration of the nature and importance of subject-matter. Viz.:

a. First class or Basic Atthakatha : the Atthakatha of the books of Tipitaka is included in this class.

b. Second class Atthakatha : The Atthakathas of post canonical texts, such as Nettipakarana, Milindapanaha, Petakopadesa etc. are included in this class.

c. Third class Atthakatha : The Atthakathas written on historical tradition like Mahavamsa, Dipavamsaa, Cullavangsha, Vamsaadipani etc. are included in this class.

d. Fourth class Atthakatha : The Atthakathas written on the notes and annotations like Vinayavimuccaya, Uttaravimuccaya, Ruparupvibhaga etc. are included in this class.
Exercise Work
What do you mean by Atthakatha?
Make a list of the names of the leading disciples of Buddha.
Tell the names of some disciples of Buddha who are expert in explaining religion and philosophy.
In what names were the Sihalatthakhathas known? Who and on what basis composed the Pali Atthakathas of the present time?

Lesson: 2

Introduction to Atthakatha of Sutta Pitaka

Sutta Pitaka is divided into five parts. Such as: Digha Nikaya, Majjhima Nikaya, Samyutta Nikaya, Anguttar Nikaya and Khuddaka Nikaya. Atthakathas are written independently on each Nikaya. There are sixteen books in Khuddaka Nikaya. Though the Atthakathas of the first four Nikayas are known in various names, the Atthakathas of the many books of Khuddaka Nikaya are called by the same name, viz: Udana, Itivuttaka, Vimanvatthu, Petavatthu, Thagatha, Theragatha, and Ciya Pitaka – the Atthakathas of these seven books are known as Paramatthadipani. On the other side, the Atthakatha of the books of Mahaniddesa and Cullaniddes is known as Saddammapajotika.

Acariya Upasena composed the Saddammapajotika as the Atthakatha of the two books Mahaniddesa and Cullaniddes. So, the names and introduction of the Atthakathas of the first four Nikayas are differently mentioned here:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Main book</th>
<th>Name of the Atthakatha</th>
<th>Writer</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Digha Nikaya</td>
<td>Sumangalavilasini</td>
<td>Achariya Buddhaghosh</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maddhyam Nikaya</td>
<td>Papancusudani</td>
<td>Achariya Buddhaghosh</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sangijukta Nikaya</td>
<td>Saratthappakasini</td>
<td>Achariya Buddhaghosh</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anguttar Nikaya</td>
<td>Manorathapurani</td>
<td>Achariya Buddhaghosh</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sumangalavilasini: This is the Atthakatha of Digha Nikaya. It is known that Acariya Buddhaghosa composed the book at the request of Datha Thera. The book is divided mainly in three parts. Viz: Silakkhandavagga, Mahavagga and Patheya or Patakavagga. In these books there is a detailed discussion about Buddhist philosophy, Arhant, Samanadhamma, ideals of the life of Buddha and Gih Vinaya (Vinaya of laities). Buddhaghosa made the subject matter of the Majjhima Nikaya very easy, simple and heart touching through story, synonyms, proverbs, examples etc.

Papancusudani: This is the Atthakatha of Majjhima Nikaya. Acariya Buddhaghosa composed this book at the request of Buddhimitta Thera. The book is divided into parts.

In the book, a fine conception is found about Dhamma Cakkapavattana, Nibbana, the world, Tathagata, Abhiombo, wholesome and unwholesome, wrong view, respect, belief, different kinds of Puggala (person), decrepitude, disease, death, impermanence, sorrow, non-soul etc.

Atthakatha

Manorathapurani: Acariya Buddhaghosa composed the book at the request of Bhadanta Thera. It is divided into eleven chapters or Nipata. In it, the life and ideals of Buddha, the lives and ideal of the disciples of Buddha, citta, cetasika (psychic factors), emancipation, right view, wisdom, Sattabojjhangha, 32 types of symptoms of Buddha, Patissambhidamagga, doubt etc. are presented in a simple and lucid language.

The names and brief introduction to the Atthakathas of sixteen books of Khuddaka Nikaya are given below:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Main Book</th>
<th>Name of the Atthakatha</th>
<th>Writer</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Khuddaka Patha</td>
<td>Paramatthajotika (1)</td>
<td>Acariya Buddhaghosa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dhammapada</td>
<td>Dhammapadathakatha</td>
<td>Acariya Buddhaghosa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Udana</td>
<td>Paramatthadipani (1)</td>
<td>Acariya Dhammapala</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Itivuttaka</td>
<td>Paramatthadipani (2)</td>
<td>Acariya Dhammapala</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Suttanipata</td>
<td>Paramatthajotika (2)</td>
<td>Acariya Buddhaghosa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vimanavatthu</td>
<td>Paramatthadipani (3)</td>
<td>Acariya Dhammapala</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Petavatthu</td>
<td>Paramatthadipani (4)</td>
<td>Acariya Dhammapala</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Theragatha</td>
<td>Paramatthadipani (5)</td>
<td>Acariya Dhammapala</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Therigatha</td>
<td>Paramatthadipani (6)</td>
<td>Acariya Dhammapala</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jataka</td>
<td>Jatakathakatha</td>
<td>Acariya Buddhaghosa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mahaniddesa and Cullaniddesa</td>
<td>Saddammapajjotika</td>
<td>Achariya Upasen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Potisambida marga or Potisambida Maggo</td>
<td>Saddammapakkasini</td>
<td>Acariya Mahanama</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Apadana</td>
<td>Visuddhajanavilasini</td>
<td>Acariya Buddhaghosa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buddhavamsa</td>
<td>Madhuratthavilasini</td>
<td>Acariya Buddhaddatta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cariya Pitaka</td>
<td>Paramatthadipani (7)</td>
<td>Acariya Dhammapala</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Paramatthajotika (1): The Athakatha of the book khuddapatha is known as Paramatthajotika (1). The book is also known as khuddakapadathakatha, Acariya Buddhaghosa composed this Athakatha. This book is compulsory to be read by the Bhikkhu Samaneras. Here, a conception is found about Tisarana, Pancasila, dasasila (ten-precepts), Kumarapannya (questions of Kumara) along with 32 types of profane materials.

Dhammapadathakatha: It is the Athakatha of the book Dhammapada. Acariya Buddhaghosa composed it. Here the explanation of all the 423 gathas of Dhammapada is given. According to the method of structure, each of the stories of Dhammapadathakatha is divided into eight parts. Here discussion has been made about precepts, meditation, wisdom, Nibbana, mind, sin and virtue, good and bad, scholar, Arhat decrepitude, soul etc. Besides, the book abounds with the information of politics sociology, economics, stories and fairy tales etc. of ancient India.

Paramatthadipani: This is the Athakatha of the book Udana. The book is also known as Udanathakatha. This Athakatha was composed by Acariya Dhammapala. In this book, description is found about the incidents that happened after Buddha’s enlightenment, story of Meghiya Thera, Eight fold Wonderful dhamma, the incident of the Parinibbana of Buddha, four types of satipatthana, four kinds of right efforts, four kinds of psychic power (iddhipada), five sense organs, Pancabala, eight noble paths and Nibbana etc.
Paramatthadipani (2): It is the Atthakatha of the book named Itivuttaka. The book is also called Itivuttakatthakatha. This Atthakatha was composed by Acariya Dhammapala. In this book each of the story is presented in a simple and easy language. Here there is conception about honest deed, dishonest deed and the deed that do by body, utterance and mind. Here it is said malicious or sinful person may sometime come in touch with an ascetic or a saint. A wise fellow always becomes grateful coming in touch with a wise fellow. Because the wise people always get engaged in honest deeds.

Paramatthajotika (2): This is the Atthakatha of the book Suttanipata included in Sutta Pitaka. The book is also known as Suttanipatathakatha. Acariya Buddhaghoza composed this Atthakatha. Here, there is discussion about anger, apathy, delusion, kusala-akusala, sati (mindfulness), brahma-loka, uposatha, thoughts, meditation, wisdom. There is mention of Savatthi, Kosala, Kapilavatthu, Varanasi and different rivers. Besides, there is also found a lot of discussion about the social, economic and political matters of ancient India of Buddha’s time.

Paramatthadipani (3): This is the Atthakatha of the book Vimavatthu. This is also called Vimavatthu-Atthakatha. Acariya Dhammapala composed this Atthakatha. In the book, an idea is found about heaven. The gods who live in Tavatimsa heaven, devine Aircraft (Biman), happiness and pleasures of heaven, the sufferings and pains of hell, sin and virtue, consequence of sin etc. are excellently presented here. There is an idea of sin and virtue in each story.

Paramatthadipani (4): This is the Atthakatha of the book Petavatthu. The book is also known as Petavatthu-attakhakatha. Acariya Dhammapala composed this book. Here the stories about ghosts are narrated in a very beautiful way. In the world of apparition there is no such thing like agriculture, trade, cow-boy, purchase and sale. The cry of mourning or the distress is of no use to the apparitions. An idea is given here to hold the ceremony for virtue donation (Punanammodana) in the way showed by Buddha leaving the cry or mourning.

Paramatthadipani (5): This is the Atthakatha of the book Theragatha. The book is also called Theragatha-attakhakatha. Acariya Dhammapala composed the book. In this book there are the descriptions of the careers of the famous Theras (Bhikkhus) of Buddha’s time. From the study of this book, it is known that there was no kind of racial difference among the Bhikkhus. People from all class had the entrance to the Sangha.

Paramatthadipani (6): This is the Atthakatha of the book Therigatha. The book is also called Therigatha-attakhakatha. Acariya Dhammapala composed the book. An elaborate explanation of the gathas composed and written by Theri's are found in this book. In the spiritual development of ancient India the Bhikkhunis also used to contribute equally side by side with the Bhikkhus. Attaining Arhantship through meditation the gatha that they delivered, contained direction towards construction of an ethical and humanitarian life.

Jatakathakatha: The Atthakatha of Jataka is called ‘Jatakathakkath’. Acariya Buddhaghoza composed the book. According to Jatakathakatha the number of Jataka is 550. In Jataka, there is beautiful description about the story of the previous various births of Buddha. Through its study, anybody can be able to construct an honest character.

Saddammapajjotika: This is the Atthakatha of the books Mahanidesea and Cullanidesea. This is also called Niddesatthakatha. Acariya Upasena composed one Atthakatha of these two books. Here, there is explanation about aggregates (khandha), sphere (ayatana), dependent origination (paticcasamuppada) right efforts (Sammaka Padhana), psychic power (iddhipada), organs (indriya), path or way of nibbana (Manna) and the fruit of the path (maggaphala), desires, real ascetic, education, wisdom, greed, malice, delusion, thirst, mara, four kinds of friends, different types of diseases, and different matters of religion.
Atthakatha

Saddammappakasini: This is the Atthakatha of the Patisambhidamagga. The book is also known as Patisambhidamagga-atthakatha. Acariya Mahanama composed this book. The book repletes with the discussion about impermanence, sorrows, non-soul, four noble truths, eight noble paths, wholesome and unwholesome deeds, four right efforts, sphere, meditation, fruits of ascetic life (Samannadhamma) and nibbana.

Visuddhajananivilasini: This is the Atthakatha of the book called Apadana. It is also called Apadanathakatha. Acariya Buddhaghosa composed this book. Here the biographies of the Buddha’s disciples, both man and women, are narrated through stories. Here worship, charity (dana), recitation of prayer verses, explanation of festival and ceremonies are beautifully narrated rather religious matters like the four noble truths, eight noble paths, dependent origination, five aggregates (pancakhandha) etc.

Madhuratthavilasini: This is the Atthakatha of the book named Buddhavamsa. The book is also named as Buddhavamsa-atthakatha. Acariya Buddhaddatta composed the book. In this book the history of the Buddhas before Gautama Buddha is narrated. Besides, the identity of the past Buddhas are presented separately in a simple and lucid language in this book.

Paramatthadipani (7): This is the Atthakatha of the book named Cariya Pitaka of Suttapitaka. The book is also called Cariyapitaka-atthakatha. Acariya Dhammapala composed the book. The stories of Cariya Pitaka are similar to the stories narrated in Jataka. There is a detailed description of how Gautama Buddha became able to attain the enlightenment fulfilling the ten perfections in his previous births. In these stories a complete conception is given on matters like the donation of Buddha and the Bodhisattvas, precepts, renunciation (abhinikkhhamana), vigour (viriya), wisdom, forgiveness (khanti), truthfulness, resolution (adhisthana), loving-kindness (metta) and discerning rightly or neither attachment nor aversion) upekkha).

Exercise Work

What books is the Paramatthadipani the Atthakatha of?
Make a list of the Atthakathas of Suttapitaka composed by Buddhaghosa.

Lesson: 3

Introduction to Atthakatha of Vinaya Pitaka

Vinaya Pitaka is divided mainly into three parts. Viz. Sutta-Vibhanga, Khandhaka and Parivara or Parivara Patha. Two Atthakaths are composed on the subject-matter of Vinaya Pitaka. Viz: Samantapadasika and Kankhavitarani. Samantapadasika is known as the Atthakatha of the whole Vinaya Pitaka. The codes of Vinaya for the Bhikkhus and Bhikkhunis described in the book suttavibhanga are known as ‘Patimokkha’. The Atthakatha composed in the light of Patimokkha is called Kankhavitarani.

Samantapadasika: This is the Atthakatha of the books named Mahavagga and Cullavagga included in Vinaya Pitaka. Acariya Buddhaghosa composed it. Especially, the daily life styles of Bhikkhus and rules for the formation of moral character are the main discussion point of this book.

Here there is discussion about the first, second and third council, spread and development of Buddhism, the role of emperor Asoka, happiness of jhana, mindfulness (samadhi), wisdom, patisambhida, mind, viJana (consciousness), and the sense organs. Besides, the book abounds with the discussion on matters like the politics of ancient India, sociology and economics etc.
Kankhavitarani: Acariya Buddhaghosa composed this book. This is the Atthakatha of the books named Pacittiya and Parajika or Bhikkhu Vibhanga and Bhikkhuni Vibhanga. This is also called the Atthakatha of Patimokkha. Here, there is detailed explanation of 227 silas (precepts) of the Buddhist monks. Besides, a clear conception about Buddhist Vinaya is also found here.

Exercise Work
What is the subject matter of Kankhavitarani?

Lesson: 4
Introduction to Atthakatha of Abhidhamma Pitaka

Abhidhamma Pitaka is divided into seven parts. Viz: Dhammasangani, Vibhanga, Dhatukatha, Pugalapannatti, Kathavatthu, Yamaka and Patthan. Atthakatha has been composed for each of the books of Abhidhamma Pitaka. Excepting the Atthakatha of Dhammasangani and Vibhanga, the Atthakatha of the other five books of Abhidhammapitaka is known as Pancapakarana Atthakatha. Abhidhamma is known as the Buddhist philosophy. The subject-matter of the Abhidhamma Pitaka is complex. In the Atthakatha of Abhidhamma Pitaka, the deep philosophical matters of Buddhism are presented in a simple and lucid language. Mentioned below are the names and identity of the Atthakhathas of Abhidhamma Pitaka:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Main Book</th>
<th>Name of the Atthakatha</th>
<th>Writer of Atthakatha</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Dhammasangani</td>
<td>Atthasalini</td>
<td>Acariya Buddhaghosa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vibhanga</td>
<td>Sammohavinodani</td>
<td>Acariya Buddhaghosa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dhatukatha</td>
<td>Pancapakaranatthakatha (1)</td>
<td>Acariya Buddhaghosa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pugalapannatti</td>
<td>Pancapakaranatthakatha (2)</td>
<td>Acariya Buddhaghosa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kathavatthu</td>
<td>Pancapakaranatthakatha (3)</td>
<td>Acariya Buddhaghosa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yamaka</td>
<td>Pancapakaranatthakatha (4)</td>
<td>Achariya Buddhaghosh</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patthan</td>
<td>Pancapakaranatthakatha (5)</td>
<td>Acariya Buddhaghosa</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Atthasalini: This is the Atthakatha of Dhammasangani included in Abhidhamma Pitaka. The abstruse matters of Dhammasangani are presented in a simple language in this book through stories and resemblances. The book is divided into four chapters. The important aspects of Buddhist philosophy such as – mind and psychic factors (citta-cetasika), individuality (nama-rupa), soul and non-soul, eternal and non-eternal, self egotism, five aggregates, Sarabhlnna, Patisambhida etc. are discussed in this book.

Sammohavinodani: This is the Atthakatha of Vibhanga. The book is composed in 18 chapters. Acariya Buddhaghosa composed this book. In this book aggregates (khandha, sphere (ayatana), elements (dhatu), sense organs (indria), earnest thought (satipatthana), right efforts (Sammakapadhana), psychic power (iddhipada), seven factors of knowledge (Sattabojjhanga), consciousness, meditation, rules, the sublime states (Brahmavihara), Patisambhida, wisdom, four noble truths, dependent origination, individuality, ignorance, birth-old age-death-disease etc. are discussed minutely.
Atthakatha

Pancapakaranatthakatha (1): This is the Atthakatha of the book named ‘Dhatukatha’ included in Abhidhamma Pitaka. This is also called the Dhatukatha-attakatha. Acariya Buddhaghosa composed the book. In the book important discussion is noticed about five aggregates (pancakhandha), 12 types of spheres (ayatana), and 16 types of elements (dhatu).

Pancapakaranatthakatha (2): This is the Atthakatha of the book puggalapannatti. The book is also known as puggalapannatti-attakatha. In the book, a conception is given about different kinds of puggala or person through examples and similer.

Pancapakaranatthakatha (3): This is the Atthakatha of the book named Kathavatthu. This is also called Kathavatthu Atthakatha. Acariya Buddhaghosa composed this book. Here, analysis has been made about mundane and spiritual truth, ten kinds of senses, eight types of Samapatti, emancipation, three kinds of knowledge (tivijja), Sarabhinna etc.

Pancapakaranatthakatha (4): This is the Atthakatha of the book Yamaka included in Abhidhamma Pitaka. The book is also called the Yamaka-attakatha, Acariya Buddhaghosa composed the book. In this book, an elaborate discussion is found about mula yamaka, khandha yamaka, ayatana yamaka, dhatu yamaka, sacca yamaka, sankhara yamaka, anussaya yamaka, ciitta yamaka, dhamma yamaka, and indriya yamaka etc.

Pancapakaramatthakatha (5): This is the Atthakatha of the book ‘Patthana’ of Abhidhamma Pitaka. The book is also known as Patthana-attakatha. Acariya Buddhaghosa composed the book. In the book there is discussion about 24 types of hetu paccaya.

Exercise Work
Atthakathas of which book are known as Pancapakarana-attakatha?

Lesson: 5
Atthakathacariya Buddhadatta

Among the Atthakatha composers of Buddhaghosa’s contemporary, another time winning composer of Atthakatha is Buddhadatta. But this time winning writer did not express himself in his immortal literary works. Besides, though the biography of Buddhaghosa is available, the biography of Buddhadatta is not found. So, the birth, chilhood, initiation, education, and life style, etc. of this great writer are covered with mist. In this passage we will study about Buddhadatta, the famous Atthaktha writer.

Birthplace and time:

In the book Gandhavamsa, Buddhadatta is termed as the Acariya of India. In the books Vinayavinicchaya and Uttaravinicchaya, he has been mentioned as the inhabitant of Uragapura. Mention is found that he composed the book Vinaya-vinicchaya during the time of king Acchuta at the monastery of Vishnudasa of the village Bhutamangala of the kingdom of Cola. According to the book Abhidhammavatara, Uragapura was located on the bank of the river Kaveri. The scholars are unanimous that Uragapura was the ancient name of the place Urayura near to Tricinapoli of South India of the present time. He was born between the periods from the last part of 4th century B.C. to the first part of 5th century B.C.
According to the books Buddhaghosuppati and Vinayavicchaya Tika, Buddhaghosa and Buddhaddatta were contemporary. It is known from the book Buddhaghosuppati that the day on which Buddhaddatta started to return to Jambudipa from Ceylonese, that day Buddhaghosa also started for Ceylon to compose Athakathaya. The ships of both stopped on the midway because of a collision. Then Buddhaddatta addressed Buddhaghosa as ‘Avuso’ and asked where and on what purpose he was going. In reply Buddhaghosa said, ‘I am going to translate the words of Buddha from Ceylonese to Magadhi language.’ Buddhaddatta said, ‘I also went to Ceylon to write down the words of Buddha in Magadhi language. I have just finished writing Jinalangkara, Dantavamsa, Dhatuvamsa, and Bodhivamsa. I could not yet compose the Athakathaya and Tika (sub-commentary). If you are willing to translate the words of Buddha from Ceylonese of Magadhi language, then you will compose the Athakathaya and Tika first’ Telling thus, he inspired Buddhaghosa. Some scholars think that Buddhaddatta was senior as he addressed Buddhaghosa as ‘Avuso’. Buddhaghosuppati and Vinayavicchaya were composed much after Buddhaddatta. Besides, the scholars doubt about the meeting of both as nothing of their meeting is found in the books of Buddhaghosa and Buddhaddatta. Yet, in respect of time we can assume that Buddhaddatta and Buddhaghosa were contemporary.

Initiation into Buddhist Religion or Pabbajja:

No detail is known about the initiation of Buddhaddatta. It is known from the books Abhidhammavatara and Ruparupavibhaga that, he received initiation to a Bhikkhu who was the follower of Mahavihara Nikaya of Ceylon. According to the rules of Mahavihara Nikaya, he attained efficiency in learning Dhamma and Vinaya from the Bhikkhus. He was a life long follower of this Nikaya. But nothing is known about his preceptor and vihara, the place of his initiation.

Poet and other Reputations:

The main identity of Buddhaddatta was that he was a Buddhist monk and composer of Athakathaya or commentator. His fame as an Acariya spread far and wide. He was treated with special reverence by the contemporary scholars. The scholars used to accept a lot of quotations from the books composed by him. He was also an expert in Samatha and Vipassana. Besides the expertise of Buddhism and its philosophy, this great man was also known as a poet. Most of the books of Buddhaddatta were composed in verse. Such as, the book Vinayavicchaya was composed in 3183 verses, the book Uttarvinicchaya in 969 verses, and the book Abhidhammavatara in 1415 verses. If he was not endowed with an infinite poetic power, he would not have been able to explain the religion and philosophy of Buddha in poetry or verses in an easy and simple way. He also used to be called by the name Great Commentator.

Literary works:

The writers of the ancient time would not mention their names and write anything about them in their books. Buddhaddatta also did the same. So, there is debate among the scholars regarding the literary works of Buddhaddatta. According to the tradition, Buddhaddatta composed the following books:

1. Madhuratthavilasini (Buddhavamsa-atthakatha)
2. Vinayavicchaya
3. Uttarvinicchaya
4. Abhidhammavatara
Atthakatha

5. Ruparupvibhaga
6. Jinalankara
7. Dantavamsa or Dathavamsa
8. Dhatuvamsa

Among the books mentioned above, the scholars recognize Vinayavinicchaya, Uttarvinicchaya, Abhidhammavatara, and Madhuratthavilasini - these five books as the real composition of Buddhadatta.

There is doubt among the scholars regarding the remaining books. It is known that he composed the books Vinayavinicchaya, Madhuratthavilasini, Abhidhammavatara at Cola State of south India.

Death:

Not that much is known about the death of Buddhaghosa. It is mentioned in the book Bhuddaghosuppati that he died a few years after his return from Ceylon. But nothing is known about the cause or place of his death. As he was the inhabitant of South India and composed his books in South India, so it is assumed that it is South India where he died.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Exercise Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Where is the birthplace of Buddhadatta?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assess Buddhadatta as a poet.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Identify the true compositions of Buddhadatta making a list of the books composed by him according to tradition.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Lesson: 6
Atthakathacariya Dhammapala

Dhammapala was a very famous Atthakathacariya. His place is next to Buddhaghosa. He has enriched the store house of Pali literature by writing commentary, sub-commentary and annotation. Still now, the Buddhists remember him with due reverence for his composition of immortal literary works. But, very little is known about the biography of this great writer endowed with an infinite talents.

Birthplace and time:

In the book Gandhavamsa, Dhammapala has been mentioned as the Acariya of Jambudvipa or India. There is no specific mention of his birthplace in this book. According to the book Sasana, he was the inhabitant of Padarittha of the kingdom of Damila near Ceylon. According to the Atthakatha of the book Nettipakarama, he was the inhabitant of Badarittha Vihara. The scholars think that ‘Padarittha’ and ‘Badarittha’ are one and the same place. According to Hiuen Tsang, Dhammapala was born in Kanicipura. This place locates at 43 miles south from the the Madag town of South India and is marked as the Kanjevaran town of the present time. On the other side, the scholars opine that the place ‘Padarittha’ or ‘Badarittha’ locates at Nagapattana of South India. Nagapattana is situated at the Tenjore district of South India and he was a Tamil by birth. Though mention is found about different places, he was born in ‘Padaritthta’ of ‘Badarittha’. Because, the books he composed support this fact. The names of the places, which were mentioned as his birth place, were all located in south India. Perhaps, the place was known in different names in different times. So, the names of different places have been mentioned as his birth place. The scholars are unanimous that it was south India which was the birth place of Dhammapala. He was born in the last part of Sixth century B.C.

Childhood and Initiation

Nothing is known about the childhood or initiation of Dhammapala. In the travelogue of Hiuen Tsang, such description about his childhood is found:

Dhammapala was born in Kancipura. He had been endowed with a nice and honest habit since his childhood which played a vital role to build up a developed and higher life. When he got matured it was finalised that he would be married to the princes of that kingdom. There arose a feeling of sadness in his mind on the night before his marriage. When he prayed for emancipation in front of the effigy of Buddhas, his prayer was accepted. A god came and took him away from there to a distant hilly Vihara. In that Vihara, the Bhikkhus initiated him. No mention is found of this matter in the book of Dhammapala or other books. So, a kind of doubt arose regarding how far is the matter true. It is known from the book Nettipakarana composed by him that he used to live in ‘Padaritthta’ or ‘Badarittha’ Vihara of South India. As a result, it is assumed that he was initiated or took pabbajja in south India. But the name of his preceptor is not known. He composed his books on the basis of the materials of Mahavihara Nikaya. So, it is thought that he was the follower of Mahavihara Nikaya or a follower of Theravada.

Acariya Buddhaghosa and Acariya Dhammapala

The writing style of both Buddhaghosa and Dhammapala was same. Both of them followed the same principle in the application of words and resemblances, in planning and presentation of the theme and in the use of diction. Both of them explained the religion and philosophy of Buddha almost in the same way. So, it is thought that they studied in the same school. Buddhaghosa composed Atthakatha on the first four Nikayas of Sutta Pitaka. On the otherside, Dhammapala composed Atthakatha on the fifth Nikaya or Khuddaka Nikaya. As the Atthakathas of the first four Nikayas of Sutta Pitaka were composed earlier so he composed the Atthakatha of the last Nikaya. So, it is thought that Buddhaghosa preceeded Dhammapala.

Literary Works of Dhammapala:

In the book named Gandhavamsa, it is mentioned that the following books are composed by Dhammapala:
a) The Atthakathas:
1. Nettipakaranatthakatha - Atthakatha of the book Nettipakarana
2. Itivuttakatthakatha - Atthakatha of the book Itivuttaka
3. Udanatthakatha - Atthakatha of the book Udana
4. Cariyapatatthakatha - Atthakatha of the book Cariyapitaka
5. Theragathatthakatha - Atthakatha of the book Theragatha
6. Therigathatthakatha - Atthakatha of the book Therigatha
7. Vimalavilasini - Atthakatha of the book Vimanavatthu

Except Nettipakaranatthakatha, the remaining seven books are known as Paramatthadipani.

b) Sub-Commentary or Tika:
1. Paramatthamanjusa - Sub-commentary of the book Visuddhimagga
2. Linathapakasini - Dighanikayatthakathadinam Catunnam Atthakatha Tika
3. Linathapakasini - Sub-commentary of Jatakathakatha
4. Nettitthakatha Tika - sub-commentary of Nettithakatha
5. Paramatthadipani - sub-commentary of Buddhavamsatthakatha

Though mention is found that the above 14 books were composed by Dhammapala, the scholars are divided in their opinion in this respect. Among the Atthakathas Itivuttakatthakatha, Udanatthakatha, Cariyapatatthakatha, Theragathatthakatha, Therigathatthakatha, Vimalavilasini (Atthakatha of Vimanavatthu) and Vimalavilasini (Atthakatha of Petavatthu)-in other words in the introduction of these seven books known as Paramatthadipani, it is mentioned that Dhammapala composed these books. As a result, the scholars recognise these seven books as the composition of Dhammapala. But in Sasanavamsa, though it is recognised that the Atthakathas are composed by Dhammapala, it is not recognised that Dhammapala composed the sub-commentaries.

Death of Dhammapala:
Nothing is known about the death of Dhammapala. As he was the inhabitant of South India it is natural that he died surely in South India. So, it is deemed that he died in South India.

Exercise Work
When and where was Atthagathacariya Dhammapala born?
Make a list of the books composed by Atthagathacariya Dhammapala.
Lesson 7

Importance of Atthakatha

Though the main point of Atthakatha literature is the theme of Tipitaka, here the religion and philosophy, society, literature, culture, economics, politics, geography etc. of ancient India and Sri Lanka, have been relevantly discussed. So, Atthakatha is considered as an important source for the composition of ancient history. It is the theme of Tipitaka which is generally explained in Atthakathas. So, the words of Buddha can be easily and properly understood through Atthakatha. Besides, whether with the evolution of time or for any other causes any addition subtraction or change-development occured to the subject matter of Tipitaka or not can be easily identified. Atthakatha is also very important in case of translating the Tipitaka.

There are so many incomprehensible and complex matters in Tipitaka which cause problem in case of translation. Along with the change of time, many words of Tipitaka took an obscure form. But in Atthakatha, we find the proper explanation of that complex and unintelligible words. For this reason, Tipitaka and Pali literature can be properly translated with the help of Atthakatha.

In Atthakatha, mention is found about the names of a lot of books composed after Tipitaka. So, the debate that is noticed in Pali literature about the composition period of the books can be solved with the help of Atthakatha. Through the study of Atthakatha, important information is found about the political history of ancient India and Srilanka starting from the time of Buddha to 5th century B.C. Through it, the prevalent debate or the problems regarding the period of reigns of the ancient kings and their ideology can be solved. In the post Atthakatha period, a lot of books have been composed regarding the biography of Buddha, religion and philosophy, spread and development of Buddhism, and the history of Buddhist Sangha. Through Atthakatha the historicity of the information narrated in that books can be determined. Quoting sentences is a fundamental characteristic of modern dictionaries. In Atthakatha a lot of word meanings along with quotations are found. With the help of the word meanings of Atthakatha, it is possible to compose a modern dictionary. Atthakatha literature is composed in Pali language. Pali is a kind of Prakrit which originates from the Middle Indo Ariyan language. Through the composition of Tipitaka, Pali language achieves the status of the language of literature. Pali language contains the history of more than two thousands years. The diction used in Atthakatha is rich. Accepting the language of Atthakatha literature as a model and through philological analysis, the nature and form of language and literary style of other Pali literature can be determined. Besides this, it is also possible to know the history of the evolution of Pali language. For this reason it can be said, in linguistic research the importance of Atthakatha literature is immense.

In literature of Atthakatha important information is found about different religious sangha and religious tenent prevalent during the time of Buddha which provides an idea about the form of religious opinion prevalent during Buddha’s time. In Atthakatha literature, important information is also found about the anthropological aspects of ancient India. Especially, the description that is given about the origin of races like Sakiya, Koliya, Malla, Licchhavi etc. with the help of folktales is very enchanting. In Atthakatha literature, a lot of information is found about the political condition of ancient India and Sri Lanka which is very essential to the composition of political history of the ancient time. In Atthakatha information is found about the races like Sakiya, Licchavi, Koliya, Vajji, Malla etc. and the states like Kasi, Kosala, Malla, Pava, Anga, Magadha, Gandhara, Komboja etc. These races and states played an important role in the political and religious history of ancient India. In Atthakatha literature a lot of information is found about the socio-economic condition of ancient
Atthakatha

India and Sri Lanka. It is known from the study of Atthakatha that the custom of racial discrimination prevailed in the social system of ancient India and Sri Lanka and people used to live in groups according to their races and activities. The villages and the roads became known by the names of the races or professional people that used to live in that village. Such as, Brahmanagama (village of Brahmin), Candalagama (village of Candala), Kammakaragama (village of Blacksmith), Kevattagama (village of fisherman), Rajakavitthi (road of cleaner), Pesakaravithi (road of weaver) etc. It may be assumed from the description above that Pali Atthakatha literature contains not only the religion and philosophy of Buddha but also the general history of ancient India and Sri Lanka. So, it can be said that the importance of Atthakatha literature is boundless to know the history of religion and philosophy, society, literature, culture, politics, economics, geography etc. of ancient India and Sri Lanka.

Exercise Work
Why is Atthakatha considered as an important source for the composition of ancient history?
Of which countries information is found in Atthakatha?
How were the villages or roads named in ancient time?

Exercise

Fill in the gaps
1. The literary work that is composed in Pali language as explanatory to religion and philosophy of Buddha is called .................
2. The Atthakatha of Samyutta Nikaya is .................
3. He was a subject of respect to the contemporary .................
4. In the book Gandhavamsa, Buddhadatta is entitled as the ............... of India.
5. Dhammapala was born in ......................

Short Questions
1. Tell the meaning of the word ‘Atthakatha’.
2. In how many parts is the Atthakatha divided and what are they?
3. Write down the names of the Atthakatha of Panca Nikaya and the composers of Atthakatha.
4. Write down the names of the Atthakatha of Abhidhamma Pitaka.
5. Where was Dhammapala born?

Essay type Question
1. Explain the background for the composition of Atthakatha.
2. Give a clearcut conception about the Atthakatha of Sutta and Abhidhamma Pitaka.
3. Write what do you know about the life and works of Atthakathacariya Buddhadatta.
4. Write a short essay on the life and works of Atthakathacariya Dhammapala.

Multiple Choice Questions
1. What is the Bengali of the word ‘Attha’?
   a. Past b. Meaning
   c. Asta  d. Athai
2. The custom of racial discrimination is not noticed among the Buddhist Bhikkhus, because -
   i. Observance of religion was open for all
   ii. Access to their Sangha was open for all.
   iii. For all the advantages and opportunities were same.

Which one below is correct?
   a. i and ii
   b. ii and iii
   c. i and iii
   d. i, ii and iii.

Read the following passage and answer to question no. 3 and 4

Reading a book of Tipitaka, Ramesh Talukder came to know the explanations of the Silas (precepts.) to be observed by the Buddhist monks. In it the rules for the Bhikkhus starting from maintaining the daily life to construction of moral character were incorporated.

3. In which book were the matters that Ramesh Talukder read incorporated?
   a. Parivara Patha
   b. Khandhaka
   c. Sutta Vibhanga
   d. Bhikkuni Vibhanga.

4. Reading that book one can know –
   i. Rules and Regulation for the Bhikkhus and the Bhikkunis.
   ii. Regular life styles of the Bhikkhus.
   iii. Introduction to Tipitaka.

Which one below is correct?
   a. i
   b. i and ii
   c. ii and iii
   d. i, ii and iii.
Creative Questions

1.

- Birth - Uragpura
- Identity - was a Buddhist Bhikkhu
- composed book - Bodhivamsa

a. In how many parts is Atthakatha divided according to the assessment of Guru?
b. What is meant by Atthakatha? Explain.
c. Which Atthakathacariya of the textbook does the ‘?’ marked place apply to? Explain.
d. ‘That Acariya was able to put an immense contribution to the literary works of Buddhist religion’ – do you agree with this statement? Analyse with logical arguments.

2. Amal Chakma was a book writer. He has earned a lot of fame in his personal life through the composition of books. The contribution of his literary works is unthinkable. But he was indifferent to the observance of family life and accepted the monastic life with deep meditation.

a. Who composed the book ‘Kankhavitarani’?
b. Briefly explain the importance of Atthakatha in Buddhism.
c. With whose activities of the textbook hint is found of the literary activities of Amal Chakma? Explain.
d. Assess the story of religious intitiation of that Acariya in the light of religion.
Chapter Seven

Nibbana

The life of being is confined to the chain of birth and death and closely tied to the relationship of cause and effect. Where there is a relation of birth and death or cause and effect sorrows affect over there again and again. Nibbana is free from the chain of birth and death, and a flawless state of the cause and effect and a pleasing state liberated from pains. Nibbana is a transcendental condition which is difficult to express in language. As Nibbana does not come out of a cause so it is indestructable. After the attainment of Nibbana nobody has to take birth any more. As a result, he does not have to suffer from pains. So, the supreme aim of the Buddhists is to attain Nibbana. Nibbana is the best theory invented by Lord Buddha. This theory of Buddha created a massive commotion in the society of the scholars and the philosophers. The way a lamp drives out the darkness and illuminates all directions, in the same way, the theory of Nibbana of Lord Buddha has been enlightening innumerable people with the light of knowledge driving out the darkness of their minds for years. It has been quenching the cravings of innumerable people and has been eradicating sufferings.

So, it may be said that the importance of Nibbana is unlimited. In this chapter we will study about Nibbana.

At the end of this chapter we will be able to

* Explain the idea of Nibbana and its classification

* Explain the necessity of Nibbana Sadhana.
Lesson: 1

Conception of Nibbana

The word Nibbana means ‘to extinguish’. The word ‘Nibbana’ derives from the combination of the word ‘Bana’ with the prefix ‘Ni’. The prefix ‘Ni’ is used to denote want, negation, decay, end etc. The dictionary meaning of the word ‘Bana’ is the arrow of a bow. In Buddhist scriptures, the word ‘Bana’ is used to mean craving. So, Nibbana means decay or extinction of craving. The cause of the origin of harmful inclinations in our mind such as anger, jealousy, delusion, greed etc. is craving or desire. It is craving for which human beings suffer from pains taking birth again and again. The person who obtains ‘Nibbana’ becomes free from craving. The fire of his longer, antipathy and delusion that originated from craving get extinguished, the flow of his birth and death is stopped. As a result he becomes free from all types of sufferings. So, the religion embracing by which craving is destroyed, the fire of anger, antipathy and delusion is extinguished, the flow of birth and death or the cause and effect are stopped and all kinds of suffering are ceased is called Nibbana. In short, the cessation of all kinds of sufferings is called Nibbana. So, it is called, ‘Nibbanam Paramam Sukham’ which means ‘Nibbana is the highest bliss.’

Nibbana is an experience beyond human senses. It is not possible to understand the ‘highest bliss’ the achievement of Nibbana, with a common feeling or language. Suppose, a person has never taken ‘sweetmeat’ in his life is it possible to make him realize the taste of ‘sweetmeat’ only through description? In the same way, the real state of Nibbana is difficult for the commoners to understand. Such as, it is possible for an individual to climb the Himalayas on his own efforts but it is impossible to bring the Himalayas to show it to others. In the same way, it is possible to meet the highest achievement Nibbana following through meditation the way directed by Buddha, but it is not possible to make the commoners understand it in expressible taste. It is mentioned in the scripture that the true nature of Nibbana cannot be known if one does not attain at least Sotapatti phala.

Though Nibbana is not easily understandable, Buddha has shown the way to attain Nibbana. He has explined the significance of Nibbana through the religious instructions to his disciples at different times. He said,

Viññanassa nirodheya tanhakkhaya vimuttino
Pajjotassa nibbanam vimokkha hoti cetaso.

Meaning: There is decay of craving like the extinction of a burning fire. With the cessation of consciousness of an emancipated man, his mind attains the feelings of emancipation. For this the rebirth of that emancipated man ceased completely. In Mahaparinibbana Sutta, Buddha also said, yo imasmiñ dhamma vinaye appamatto vihessati pahaya jati samsaram dukkhasantat karissati, ti.

Meaning: He, who will wander with vigilance in dhamma-vinaya admonished by Buddha, will be able to seek the end of suffering passing beyond the birth and life circle.

A simple example is give here for the realization of the Nibbana: A lamp requires the ingredients like oil, wax, wick etc. to burn. As long as the supply of the ingredients continues so long will the lamp go on burning. One lamp to another lamp, thus innumerable lamps may be lit up. But, if the ingredients of burning the lamp perish or run out, the lamp will be extinguished. In the same way, human life can be compared to a lamp. Human being takes birth repeatedly because of the propensities originated from craving like greed, antipathy, delusion, desire, longing, anger, passion and illusion. If these elements can be perished it is possible to cease the birth, the cause of sufferings and to attain Nibbana.

Exercise Work
What does the word Nibbana mean?
Who can attain nibbana?

Lesson: 2
Types and description of Nibbana

Types of Nibbana:
Nibbana is of two types, viz:
1. Sopadisesa Nibbana
2. Anupadisesa Nibbana.

1. Sopadisesa Nibbana: Rupa (form), Vedana (feeling), Sangha (sense), Samkhara (volitional formations) and ViJana (consciousness) - these five elements, according to Buddhist terminology, are called five panca khandha (five aggregates). If a meditating man feels the knowledge of Nibbana destroying the sorrows amidst the existence of five aggregates, it is called sopadisesa Nibbana. A living Arhat attains the Sopadisesa Nibbana. He visualizes Nibbana, becomes free from craving, but as he remains alive, he is not free from decrepitude, disease, pleasure and pain. But the present birth is his last birth. He has properly realized the four noble truths, and attained Maggaphala following the eight noble paths and through practicing jhana and samadhi.

For example, it may be mentioned that the knowledge of Nibbana that Gautama Buddha attained perishing the sorrows and craving after hard meditation of six years at the foot of Bo-tree at Gaya is Sopadisesa Nibbana.

2. Anupadisesa Nibbana: The man, who obtained Nibbana and emancipated, attains Parinibbana destroying the five aggregates, then it is termed as Anupadisesa Nibbana. This Nibbana means to be completely extinguished. The person who has attained this kind of Nibbana will not be lit-up again which means he will not be born again. He has been entirely redeemed from the chain of birth and death. There is no aftermath of this kind of Nibbana, this state is beyond description. It mitigates the feeling of happiness or sufferings. The mitigation of happiness and sufferings itself is the highest bliss.

The unlimited flow of life circle ends up here. That is why Buddha declared; ‘Nibbanam Paramam Sukham’ which means Nibbana is the highest bliss.

Acarya Nagarjuna has explained Nibbana in the following way:

apratitam asamprattam anicchinnam asashvatam aniruddham anutpannam eva nibbanam ucyate.
Nibbana 91

Meaning: The condition the mind falls in after the cessation of highest ViJjana (consciousness) is beyond ascertainment. It is obtainable in no way. It is not an evicition of an eternal thing. Or, it is not the achievement of the feeling of perpetuity in a vulnerable state. It has no annihilation as it is not born. The state having these symptoms is called Anupadisesa Nibbana.

For example, after attainment of Buddhahood Gautama Buddha preached for long 45 years, then at the age of eighty he attained this Anupadisesa Nibbana at Kusinara at the foot of the Yamaka Sal (twin-Sal) tree.

Description of Nibbana:

If one wants to understand the nature of the Nibbana, it requires having a clear conception about all kinds of living and non-living things in the entire universe because, every living and non-living things display different qualities. Again, these qualities are not motionless or eternal, they are continually changing. The viciisitude is never blissful, rather full of sufferings. Human body or mind-nothing is everlasting. For this the eternal existence of soul can not be confessed. Hence Buddha has said, ‘the earthly life is temporary, full of sufferings and anatta (no soul or non-self)’. So he advised to control the fickle and diverted mind from this sorrowful wheel of life. How is it possible? The main path for controlling the mind is the practice of eight noble path, Brahmachariya ( chastity), and meditation as directed by Buddha. About the nature of Nibbana it is mentioned in the book Milinda Panhha that Nibbana is unexpressable, matchless. Nibbana is not identifiable with location, time, object, argument, evidence or resemblance. Nibbana is calm and blissful. In the book Dhammapada, it is mentioned about Nibbana as such:

ārogya paramā lābhā santuṭṭhi paramaṁ dhammaṁ vissāsa paramāṇānī, nibbhānaṁ paramaṁ sukhāmaṁ.

Meaning: Cure is the highest gain, contentment is the greatest wealth, trust is the best kinsman and Nibbana is the supremme bliss.

This supreme bliss described in the verses is the expection of all human being. But suffering must be uprooted to gain the bliss. What is the way to uproot suffering? It is the attainment of Nibbana which is its only way. Because, in Nibbana suffering is entirely annihilated, brings liberty. It is for this emancipation for which Siddhartha Gautama meditated austerity. After meditation he attained the success and obtain Nibbana.

Now, we will try to understand the meaning of the sentance ‘nibbAnaM paramaM sukhaM or Nibbana is the higsth bliss’ narrated by Gautama Buddha. Buddha advised his disciples in the ‘Ariya pariyesana sutta’ of Majjhima Nikaya, ‘I myself have felt the bad consequences of birth, decrepitude, disease, lamentation etc. From this I have learned birthlessness, diseaselessness, death lessness, grieflessness and painlessness etc. and attained Nibbana.’ It means he put an end to all sufferings through the attainment of Nibbana. So, Nibbana is the end-state of all sufferings. Nibbana is the greatest good.

All the things of the world are of two kinds: Sankhata (conditioned) and Asankhata (unconditioned). The things which have cause and effect and are subject to change are Sankhata (conditioned). The things which have no causality or cause and effect are Asankhata (unconditioned), Nibbana also is Asankhata which means free from cause and effect. It has no change. Nibbana is calm and eternal. The imperperpetuilty or inconstancy of all mundane things is sorrowful. But the permanence of the pleasure of Nibbana is indestructible. That is why Buddha said, ‘Nibbana is the highest bliss.’ Nibbana is cause and effect less. It has neither origin nor extinction. Nibbana is constant, Nibbana is the most pleasing. So, Nibbana is the best among what is visible or invisible or beyond emajination. There is no other better desirable thing in human expectation than this. For this, the meditative and wise man concentrates on uniting meditation to attain Nibbana.
Buddhist religion and moral education

Buddhism is the religion of logic, religion of wisdom and religion of the wise. Nibbana can be attained only by the wise. For this, it is necessary to know the qualities completely of the things by perfect knowledge. The Sankharas (disposition) are to be destroyed following the path directed by Buddha. It is possible to attain Nibbana if only one can gain true knowledge about qualities and true natures of the things. It is not possible to obtain Nibbana without wisdom and meditation. It is mentioned in the book Dhammapada:

\[
\begin{align*}
& \text{natthi jhanaṃ apaṇānassa paññā natthi ajhaya} \\
& \text{yamhi jhānāṃ paññā ca sa ve nibbāna santike.} \end{align*}
\]

Meaning: He who does not have wisdom cannot meditate. He who does not have meditation cannot attain wisdom. He, who has both wisdom and meditation, remains near the Nibbana.

So, the virtuous and wise wise Bhikkhu or the learned man has to be free from antipathy and delusion first by meditation. After that, by meditation, he will be unattached, distressless, fearless and well wisher. As a result, it would be possible for him to attain Nibbana.

Exercise Work
Discuss the classification of Nibbana (Group work)

Lesson: 3

Necessity of attaining Nibbana

The necessity of attaining Nibbana is undeniable for the construction of a peaceful world through the accomplishment of wholesome deeds and abstaining from unwholesome deeds caused by lust, malice, desire and passion and for the emancipation from the sorrowful flow of life confined to the chain of birth-death, decrepitude and disease. The world is sorrowful. The sufferings derive from craving. The cause of craving is ignorance. Because of ignorance, human beings attached with bad thinking involve in different types of misdeeds. Through this, as the unwise human being does harm to his own self so he does to others. As a result, the peace of the life and the world is disrupted. The person who is engaged in attaining Nibbana is to always do wholesome deeds. He is to completely realize the four noble truths and is to follow the eight noble paths to be emancipated from craving, the cause of suffering. Ignorance can be removed being free from lust, malice and delusion through the uniting meditation. He becomes fearless and well wishing in the uninterrupted meditation of Nibbana. So, he does well to himself to all and becomes the cause of all kinds of welfare to the world. He leaves any intention to do harm to others, pride etc. He practises self-control. He becomes friendly to all. In this way the practice for attaining Nibbana plays a helpful role to the development of moral and humanistic qualities. So, everybody should practice for attaining Nibbana. It is not possible to attain Nibbana within a short time or small effort. It requires austere practice.

Though it is difficult to understand Nibbana and to make others understand it, yet it is possible to attain Nibbana by human beings. Buddha said, born as a human is rare, because human beings have conscience. Man can judge good and bad. Human life is to be earned through the accomplishment of wholesome deeds. The gods only enjoy happiness. The devils only suffer from sorrows. The animals and birds are led by the instincts. Only the human beings in this world experience both sorrows and happiness. It is possible for human beings to do wholesome deeds in this world. The life style of the animals is more difficult and uncertain than that of human beings. If one does unwholesome deeds, one will have to be born as animals. Arising the aspiration and intention of attaining nibbana if one accomplishes wholesome deeds, his possibility to take birth in the animal clan is obstructed. For this reason, one should try for attaining Nibbana.

Nibbana is the most desired thing to the Buddhists. To attain the highest bliss Nibbana one has to earn the fruition of virtue doing wholesome deeds for the life after life. One has to be endowed with the perfect knowledge of Four Noble Truths. One has to follow eight noble paths. It is possible to enter the path of Nibbana following the eight noble paths. Eight noble paths give direction to men to move towards right path. It has been said that Buddhism is the religion of wisdom, religion of the wise. So, it is the wise man who can really realize that the world is sorrowful. It is craving which is the cause of suffering. It is for craving for which one has to take birth repeatedly. If one takes birth, one has to undergo different kinds of sufferings, such as decrepitude, disease, separation from the dear ones, attachment to the disliked ones, death etc. To be liberated from craving should be the aim of all. For this reason, Wiseman requires to endeavor for attaining Nibbana.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Exercise Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>What are the practices one should do to attain Nibbana?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>How can one build a beautiful life through attaining Nibbana? Analyze your answer with arguments. (Assignment).</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Exercise

Fill in the blanks

1. Nibbana is a ................. state.
3. Nibbana is a on ..................... experience.
4. From one lamp to another lamp this way innumerable ............. can be lit up.
5. He, who does not have meditation, does not attain .................

Short Questions

1. What is the meaning of the word Nibbana?
2. What do you mean by Anupadisesa Nibbana?
3. What are the characteristics of Sopadisesa Nibbana?
4. What is said about Nibbana in the book ‘Milinda Panha’?

Essay type Questions

1. Discuss your idea about Nibbana.
2. ‘Nibbana is the most desired thing for the Buddhist’ – Explain.
Multiple Choice Questions

1. What is Nibbana?
   a. Worldly knowledge
   b. prevention of desires
   c. Happiness of the mind
   d. Decay of craving

2. What is the cause of entire prevention of rebirth of an emancipated man?
   i. to destroy craving
   ii. to attain emancipation of mind
   iii. to destroy lust, malice and delusion.

   Which one below is correct?
   a. i and ii
   b. ii and iii
   c. i and iii
   d. i, ii and iii

Answer question nos. 3 and 4 reading the following passage

The fame of the Kallyansree Mahastavira, the Principal of Ariya Vihara of Dhammapura spreads all arround as he leads the Vihara in a well planned way. Through meditation, he wonders being heedful in Dhamma and Vinaya as shown by Sammaka Sambuddha and at one point he becomes able to realize the ways of emancipation from sufferings while the Five Aggregates Still remain.

3. Which Nibbana knowledge of Gautama Buddha did kallyansree Mahastavira realize?
   a. Attainment of Nibbana in this life ?
   b. Sopadisesa Nibbana knowledge
   c. Anupadisesa Nibbana knowledge
   d. Sopadisesa and Anupadisesa Nibbana.
4. Through the attainment of that Nibbana knowledge it is possible to –
   i. Cease the flow of birth and death
   ii. Control the five senses
   iii. Destroy sufferings and craving.

   Which one below is correct?
   a. i
   b. i and ii
   c. ii and iii
   d. i, ii and iii.

Creative Questions

1. Anil Bikash Chakma was a retired officer. He gained a comprehensive understanding on Sutta, Vinaya and principal of religion instructed by Buddha studying different religious books in his life as layman. So, he took initiation at monastery under a monk leaving the illusion for family life. First he attained worldly knowledge about the decay of craving, putting out of the anger, malice and delusion, cessation of the flow of birth and death etc. by observing the religion. He initiated as Bhikkhu from Samenerahood and through acquiring the knowledge of the books of Tipitaka, he was able to understand this speech of Buddha-‘Nibbanam Paramam Sukham.’

   a. What originates from craving?
   b. Why has somebody to follow eight noble paths? Explain briefly.
   c. Which theory of Buddha could Anil Chakma understand when he was a Sramanera? Explain.
   d. Explain in the light of the textbook the lesson gathered earned by Anik Chakma after initiated as Bhikkhu.

2. Reverent Dhammakirti Sthavira said in a preaching at Bhikkhu congregation, ‘Primarily it is mentioned about Nibbana in the book Dhammapada as such’ – ārogaya paramā lābhā santutṭhi paramā dhanam vissāsa paramāñātī, nibbānam paramām sukham.

   Buddha said, ‘Human life is rare. Human beings have conscience. One takes birth as a human being accomplishing wholesome deeds and judging the the good and bad.

   a. For how many years did Gautama Buddha preach?
   b. Why does not one have to take birth any more after attaining Nibbana?
   c. What kind of Nibbana does Dhamma Kirti Sthavira hint in his instruction? Explain.
   d. To what extent is the necessity of Nibbana in Buddha’s instruction narrated in Uddipaka logical? Analyse in the light of the textbook.
Chapter Eight
The Councils

The history of Budhism is closely related with the Budhist’s Councils. It is not possible to know the real history of Budhism without the knowledge of the Councils. The Budha did never render his doctrine in the written form. He delivered His teachings in different places in different occasions. His disciples got the teachings by heart and spread them orally. After the Great Passing Away (Mahaparinibbana) of the Buddha, his disciples held the Councils and compiled its teachings of the Budha. Through books and in many other ways the Mahakarunika Bhikkhus, followers of the true religion, managed to preserve and propagate by holding the Councils and in this way they preserved the purity of the teachings of the Buddha. So in the history of the Budhism the role of the councils is unique. In this chapter we will study about the Budhist’s Councils.

At the end of this chapter we will be able to –

* Describe about the idea and the background of the Council;
* Give idea about how the words or teachings of the Buddha were compiled through the Councils;
* Describe the causes and results of holding the first, second and third Councils.
* Analyze the contributions of the Councils in preserving the teachings of the Buddha in written form (in the form of books);
* Analyze the importance of the Councils.

Lesson: 1
The idea of the Councils

The word ‘Council’ has different meanings in the dictionary such as music, song, chirping, publicity, declaration, rehearsal, meeting or assembly and to pronounce together, recitation, to sing, to hear again or to consider etc. In spite of its’ having different meanings, in the Buddhist Literature it is used to mean meeting or assembly. If there arose any debate or problem regarding the Buddha’s religion and philosophy or rules and regulations of the Sangha in the life time of the Buddha, Buddha himself or his leading disciples according to his direction, solved it. But after the Mahaparinibbana of Buddha, the wise Bhikkhu Sangha solved these problems by holding meeting or assembly. It is known that, after the Mahaparinibbana of Buddha many important Councils were held to solve the question related with the Buddhism, to decide the real sermons of the Buddha, to compile, to preserve, to keep the purity and to propagate. In the history of the Buddhism this is known as Councils. Briefly, Council is the highest decision making meeting or assembly. In these meetings hundreds of aged, wise and Arhant Bhikkhus were present. The Councils continued for several months according to the importance of the matters to be discussed. After the three months of Great Passing Away (Mahaparinibbana) of the Buddha, the wise disciples of the
The Councils

Buddha held a Council and compiled together all the scattered sermons of the Buddha. In the history of the Buddhism it is known as the first Council. After the compilation of the sermons or words of Buddha in the first Council, bhikkhus propagated them orally through keeping it in memory. This continued till the first century BC. Sometimes controversies arose regarding the sermons of the Buddha as they were transmitted orally and were not preserved in the form of book or in written form. Besides this, for many reasons the sermons and words of the Buddha got corrupted and anachories were created in the Sanghas. By holding the Councils the Bhikkhu Sangha solved these problems and preserved the sermons and words of the Buddha accurately. So the importance of the Councils in the history of the Buddhism is immeasurable. According to the legend, nine Councils were held. There are controversies about the number, time and place of the Councils. The Buddhists of the South-East Asia believe that six councils were held altogether of these the first three Councils were held in the Ancient India, the fourth in Ceylon, fifth and sixth Council in Burma (present day Myanmar). According to Sinhalese (present day Sri Lanka) tradition the fifth, sixth and seventh Councils were held in Ceylon. Besides this, there are controversies about the second and third Councils. It is known that after the second Council another Council was held under the guidance of the Mahasangikas. But there is no reference of it in the books of Theravada. Again there is no reference of the third Council held under the patronage of Emperor Asoka in the Mahayana Sutta. According to the Mahayana Sutta, the third Council was held at Jalandhara in Kashmir under the patronage of Emperor Kaniska. According to the legend of Thailand the first three Councils were held in India; the fourth, the fifth, the sixth and the seventh Council in Ceylon and the eighth and the ninth were held in Thailand. In the midst of many controversies the Theravada Buddhists believe that the first three Councils were held in India, the fourth in Ceylon, the fifth and the sixth in Myanmar (previously Burma). The six Councils are very important in the history of the Buddhism. The sixth Council has a great role in compiling the sermons and words of the Buddha and in preserving it correctly. So, these are also called Great Councils.

Exercise Work
What do you mean by Councils?
How many Councils were held according to the legend?

Lesson: 2

The objective and background of the councils

The six councils were held in different places. To compile the sermons and words of the Buddha and to preserve them correctly were the main purpose of the Councils, but the background of each council was different. By considering the history of the first Council, it is found that, after the Great Passing Away (Mahaparinibbana) of the Buddha the Bhikkhus began to lament. While they were lamenting, and an unruly monk named Subhadra said to them, ‘Bhikkhus! Don’t mourn, don’t lament. At the death of the Great Bhikkhu we have become free form ‘Do this’ or ‘Don’t do this’. From now on we can do whatever we like.’ It is mentioned that, Subhadra was the last diciple of the Buddha took intiation at the old age. According to the travelogue of Hieun Tsang and the books of Tiber, almost all the unruly Monks had the same intention. At this Mahakassapa Thera and other leading monks became very anxious thinking the degradation of the Buddha’s Dhamma. They thought that soon the Bhikkhu Sangha would be deviated and disorderly if such thoughts were originated while the dead body of the Buddha was present. The sermons and words of the Buddha will be corrupted and will be forgotten. As a result, Buddhhasasana (teachings of Buddha) will be declined. Realizing the fact, the learned and respectful Theras felt the necessity of preserving the sermons and words of the Buddha retained in the memory of the different Monks by compiling. Then the first Council was held at the Sattapanni Cave (Guha) in order to compile and preserve the sermons and words of the Buddha.

From the history of the second Council it is known that the Vajji Monks introduced ten rules, by devoicing the Vinaya Rules after one hundred years of the Great Passing Away (Mahaparinibbana) of the Buddha. These are known as ‘Dasavatthuri’ which will be discussed elaborately in the second chapter. The second Council was called at Balukarama of Vesali to decide whether the ‘Dasavatthuri’ was according to the Vinaya rules or not.

From the analysis of the history of the third Council it is found that under the royal patronage of the Emperor Asoka Buddhism spread widely in India. The hospitality and honorarium of the Buddhists’ Monks increased and they got special dignity. So, to gain hospitality and honorarium many ascetic or Tirthikas of other religions introduced themselves as Bhikkhu by shaving their heads and putting on civara (yellow robes) and and holding the begging bowl. They lived there occupying many Vihara and Temples by falsity. They began to preach their false doctrine as true religion and true religion as false doctrine. Anarchy was created in the Sangha and confusions were created regarding the real sermons and words of the Buddha. The third Council was held at Asokarama Vihara at Pataliputra to decide the real sermons and words of the Buddha and to remove the existing anarchy in the Sangha.

From the history of the fourth Council it is found that the son and daughter of Emperor Asoka, Mahinda Thera and Sanghamitta Theri, established the Buddhism in Sri Lanaka. But the Indians Tamils occupied Sri Lanaka and ruled it. They continued to destroy the Buddhist Vihara and culture. They were always at war with the Sinhalese. At last king Vattagamini removed the Tamils with the help of the Sinhalese and began to rule Sri Lanaka. Peace returned and the Buddhism got new dimension. As war continued for a long time famine occurred. This created passions for worldly pleasures among the people and they began to lose moral sense. The Buddhism was at stake for repeated foreign attacks. Anarchy was also created because of the conflict of the Mahavihara and Abhayagiri Nikaya. The number of the irresponsible and irreligious monks was increasing. There were many Arhants but the number of the monks retaining the Tipitaka in mind was decreasing. For these reasons, there arose a possibility of decline and contamination in Buddha’s teachings that had been preserving orally. Under the patronization of king Vattagamini, the fourth council was convened at Alu Vihara (according to another opinion Aloka Vihara) in Ceylon to give permanence form of Buddha’s teaching or Tipitaka along with Athakatha by writing down. It is known as the council of Alu Vihara as it was held at Alu Vihara. This council held in the first century B.C. and whole Tipitaka along with Athakatha was written in palm-leaves.

In 1871 the fifth council was held at Mandalaya during the reign of king Mingdonming of Myanmar. The fifth council was convened at Kaba Azey, the world Peace Pagoda, near Rengoon for the purpose of preserving the Tipitaka, the sermons and the words of the Buddha, on the marble stones by engraving. The Tipitaka was engraved on 729 marble stones at the Mandalaya mountain.

The Tipitaka had been written and engraved by different people in different places. Because of the blunders of the writers and engravers, the sermons and words of the Buddha were presented in a wrong way. Grouping and negligency in the religious matter were noticed in the society because of the foreign rule. The sixth council was convened in Mayanmar in 1954-1956 in order to record the sermons and the words of the Buddha.
correctly, to develop the Buddhakasana, and also to spread it in home and abroad. The entire text of the Tipitaka was recited and tape-recorded in that council. After making a comparative study of the books of the Tipitaka published in the different countries, a rough draft was prepared for re-produces.

The backgrounds of the above-mentioned six Great Councils were different but the purposes were same. The main purposes of the Councils were to compile, to preserve and to propagate the sermons and the words of the Bhuddha correctly.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Exercise Work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>What did Subhadra say after the Great Passing Away (Mahaparinibbana) of the Buddha?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What is the main purpose of the Council?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Describe the background of the fourth Council.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where and why were the fifth and sixth Councils convened?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Lesson: Three

The First Council

The cause of calling the first Council:

There is no controversy about the cause of holding the first Council. It is said that Mahakassapa Thera was not present at Kusinagar while Buddha attained the Great Passing Away (Mahaparinibbana). He heard the Great Passing Away (Mahaparinibbana) of Buddha on his way to Kusinagara from Pava. He also heard that the Bhikkhus, who are wise and modest, had become anxious as to the decline of Buddha’s Dhamma at the comment of Subhadra, an unruly Bhikkhu. We learnt about the comment of Subhadra in lesson two. Many arrogant monks were happy at the Great Passing Away of Buddha as they could pass their lives according to their own will. Mahakassapa Thera reached Kusinagara and heard about the intention of the arrogant monks.

He became very astonished and surprised at this as Buddha did never render his sermons and words in written form. After memorizing the precepts and words his disciples would preach them. Mahakassapa Thera and other leading and modest Monks thought that the sermons and the words of Buddha might be contaminated if these remained scattered or memorized by different people. They might be forgotten and lost. The words of other persons might be treated as the words of the Buddha and Buddha’s Dhamma might be declined. Realizing the facts, Mahakassapa Thera and other modest Monks felt the necessity of compiling the sermons and the words of Buddha. For this, the first Council was convened.

Duration, place and patronage of the first Council: There is a slight controversy regarding the time and place of the first Council. According to the Buddhist tradition, the first Council was held in the cave of Sattapanni at Rajagaha after three months of the Great Passing Away (mahaparinibbana) of Buddha. King Ajatasattu patronized the Council. Under the patronage of king Ajatasattu a great pandal was built in front of the Sattapanni Cave. Southfacing and northfacing five hundred seats were arranged for the theras. East-facing Dhammasana (seass of preaching) was made at the middle of the pandal.
The selection of the Councillors:
Mahakassapa Thera was selected President of the first Council unanimously. It was decided that all the participating Bhikkhus should be Arhants. Then a decision was taken to select five hundred Arhants who were versed in Buddhism. At first Ananda Thera was not selected as he was not then obtained Arhantship, so four hundred ninety nine monks were selected except Ananda. But a place was kept vacant for him as he was the attendant of the Buddha and was also a Srutidhara (who is able to retain sermons after hearing). He retained all the sermons of Buddha. The disciples of Buddha were informed of his quality and all were expecting his presence. He attained the Arhantship just before the beginning of the Council. After the attainment he entered the pandal and took his own place. After the fulfillment of five hundred Arhants the proceedings of the Council began.

The proceedings of the first Council:
Mahakassapa himself was appointed as questioner. It was decided to collect Vinaya first. Upali adorned the Dhammasana. According to the consent of the Sangha, Mahakassapa Thera asked questions to Upali Thera about Vinaya. First, when four Parajikas (the gravest transgression of the rules for the Bhikkhus) were introduced, to whom, the place of introduction etc. were asked and also asked question about Mula Pragypti and Anupragyapti. Upali Thera gave answers to all the questions. In this way thirteen Sanghadisesa), two Aniyata, four Patidesaniya, thirty Nissagga; ninety two Pacittiya were fixed after recitation. After that both Vibhanga, Mahavagga, Cullavagga, Parivara Patho were recited. The Councillor Bhikkhus who were present attentively listened to the Vinaya recitation of Upali Thera. They unanimously approved the Vinaya recited by Upali.

Besides, decisions were also taken about the lesser and minor precepts (k HUDRanukhudra Sikkhapada) because Buddha, while he was living, told that the Bhikkhus might change the lesser and minor rules if they wish. The compilation of Vinaya was completed after the approval of the five hundred Arhants. Vinaya is the life of Buddhhasasana. So between Dhamma and Vinaya, Vinaya was first collected.

Then Ananda Thera was called upon to recite Dhamma (or Sutta) like Vinaya. Ananda Thera took his seat on the Dhammasana. Mahakassapa Thera, as the questioner, asked the questions about the Dhamma to Srutidhara Ananda. First, where 'Brahmajala Sutta’ was preached and to whom it was preached were asked. Then, the questions were asked about subject matter of Brahmmajala Sutta and Puggala (individual). After that, questions about the 'Samannaphala Sutta’ were asked. Ananda Thera properly answered to all the questions. In the same procedure Digha Nikaya, Majjhima Nikaya, Samyutta Nikaya, Anguttara Nikaya and Khuddaka Nikaya were recited. After the approval of five hundred Arhant Bhikkus the Sutta or the Dhamma came to an end. The first Great Council took four months to complete. The first Council is also called the 'Pancasatika sangiti’ as it was participated by five hundred Arhants.

The consequences of the first Council:
In the presence of five hundred Arhants, under the presidency of Kahakassapa Thera and by the recitation or preaching of Upali and Ananda, the teachings of Buddha were compiled or collected as the Dhamma-Vinaya.

Exercise Work
What is the cause of holding the first Council?
Why was not Ananda Thera Selected as Councillor?
What did Upali Thera recite in the first Council?
Lesson : 4
Second Council

The cause of holding the second Council:
The Bhikkhus of Vajji clan introduced ‘Dasavatthuni’ (ten points or rules) which were not related with the Vinaya rules in the sangha hundred years after the great passing away (Mahaparinibbana) of Buddha. Not only that, they also requested the devotees to give Kahapana (Gold and Silver coins) by keeping a copper vessel filled with water at the middle of the Bhikkhu-sangha on the day of Upasotha. They requested the other Bhikkhus, followers of Vinaya, to support the Dasavatthuni. They tried to influence Yasa Thera by giving gifts. But Yasa Thera forbade the Bhikkhus of vajji clan to carry out the practices which are not related with the Vinaya rules and contradictory to Sangha. The Bhikkhus of Vajji clan rejected his request. Then he requested the Bhikkhus and the lay devotees to dissuade the Vajji Bhikkhus from these ill practices. The Bhikkhus of Vajji clan were agitated at this and pronounced on him a penalty of Patisaraniya Kamma (Confessional action). In other words, they invited him to join hands or to make friendship again. Yasa Thera did not pay heed to the arrogant monks and requested the people of Vesali to protect the Dhamma. Being agitated, the Bhikkhus of Vajji clan removed him from the Sangha by giving him ‘Ukkhepani Danda’. Yasa Thera gradually requested all the modest Bhikkhus to solve the problem. They responded to the call and convened the second Council to decide whether the Dasavatthuni (ten points or rules) introduced by the Vajji Bhikkhus, were against the Vinaya rules or not. Following are the Dasavatthuni:

1. The Bhikkhus can preserve the salt in the horns if they wish and can use it in time. But according to number thirty five Pacittiya rule of the Patimokkha, the Bhikkhus can not do it.

2. The Bhikkhus can take their food even after the shadow of the sun slanting upto two fingers broad. But according to the rule of the Patimokkha, the Bhikkhus can not take their meal after midday.

3. After taking meal once, the Bhikkhus can take another meal in another village. But according to number thirty five Pacittiya rules of the Patimokkha they can not do it.

4. The Bhikkhus of different dwelling places of one periphery can perform Uposatha separately. But it is contradictory to the rules of boundary and dwelling places.

5. The Bhikkhus can perform Vinaya Kamma (activities relating bhikkhu sangha) thinking of taking the approval of the absent Bhikkhu afterwords. But it is contradictory to the rules of Sangha.

6. Without considering in the light of rules and regulations, the Bhikkhus can accept to obey the customary rules. But according to the tradition of the Buddhism, the Bhikkus can not accept customary rules if they are not proper and permitted by Vinaya.

7. The Bhikkhus can drink buttermilk in the afternoon. But it is contradictory to number thirty five Pacittiya (expiation) rule of Patimokkha.

8. The Bhikkhus may drink toddy palm juice if they wish. But it is contradictory to rule number fifty one of Pacittiya of Patimokkha.
Buddhist religion and moral education

9. The Bhikkus may use rugs with fringe. But it is contradictory to rule number 89 of Pacithiya of Patimokkha.

10. The Bhikkus may accept gold, silver or money of any kind. But it is contradictory to the rule number eighteen of Nissaggiya of Patimokkha.

Duration, place and patronage of the second council:

The second Council was convened after hundred years of the Great Passing Away (Mahaparinibbana) of the Buddha during the reign of King Kalasoka. Under his patronage it was held at Valukaram of Vesali.

The selection of the Councillors and the proceedings:

The bhikkhus of Vajji clan gave punishment to Yasa Thera. Being driven out from the Sangha, Yasa Thera took shelter in his birthplace Kosambi. From there he gave messages to the Bhikkhus, followers of Vinaya, and tried to be united together. He sent messages to the Bhikkhus of Avanti in west India, Pathaya region and Southern region. He himself went to venerable Sambhuta Sunvari who was staying at Ahoganga Mountain. Thera Sambhuta Sunvari was a great logician and scholar. He supported the opinion of Yasa Thera about the Dasavatthuni (ten points or rules).

After getting the news sixty Arhants from west India and eighty eight from South India reached the Ahoganga Mountain and met Sambhuta Sunvari. Being anxious they said that Buddhhasasana may be decline in future if the Dasavatthuni is not solved. Being counselled by Sambhuta Sunvari they met Revata Thera and informed him of the matter. After analysing the Dasavatthuni in detail he justified them as against the Vinaya rules and told that the bhikkhus of Vajji clan should abandon them.

In this time, the bhikkhus of Vajji clan also tried to get support in favour of them. They, too, sent valuable gifts to Revata Thera to bring him in their side. He refused the gifts and advised them to give up the Dasavatthuni or the practice that contrary to the Vinaya rules. Then they tried to get cooperation from Uttara, the disciple of Revata Thera. But they failed. After that, the Bhikkhus, who were present there at the counsel of Revata Thera, planned to assemble at Vesali to settle the dispute. After selecting seven hundred Arhants Bhikkhus, learned and expert in Tipitaka, they assembled at the Valukaram in Vesali for the purpose of holding council. There was much altercation between the two groups of the monks. At last, an Arbitration Council was formed consisting of eight Bhikkhus. Four monks from East India and four monks from West India participated in the meeting. Eight members of the Arbitration Council were Sabbakami, Khujjasobita, Sala, Basava, Revata, Sambhuta Sunvari, Yasa and Sumana Thera. These eight great scholars discussed the Dasavatthuni in detail in the meeting and declared it to be against Vinaya rules. It has been mentioned in the Cullavagga that Revata Thera presided the council and Sabbakami Thera sat on the Dhammasana (seat of preaching).

All the proceedings of the second council completed neatly just as in the first Council. It continued for eight months. The sermons of the Buddha, collected in the first Council, were recited again and were compiled as the Dhamma Vinaya. Seven hundred Arhants were participated in this council. So it is called ‘Sattasatika Mahasangiti (the Great Council’s of seven hundred)’. Vinaya, the rules to be followed by the Bhikkhus, was the main topic for discussion. So it is also called the Vinaya Sangiti.

The results of the second Council: It was decided in the Council that the Dasavatthu (ten points or rules) introduced by the bhikkhus of Vajji clan were against Vinaya rules. The sermons and words of the Buddha, collected in the first Council, were approved as the actual sermons and words of Buddha. These were recited again and were collected as the Dhamma Vinaya. A group of monks could not accept the decision of the Second Great Council.
The Councils

They were expelled from the Sangha. They were huge in number. They tried to establish themselves. As a result, they arranged another Council. It is said that, ten thousands Bhikkhus were present in that Council. But nothing is known about it. After the second council, the bhikkhus (monks) were divided into two groups - the ‘Theravadi’ and the ‘Mahasangika.

Exercise Work
What is meant by ‘Dasavatthuni’?
Write down the names of the members of the Arbitration Council of the second Council?
Why the second Council is called Sattasatika Mahasangiti?

Lesson : 5

Third Council

The cause of holding the third council: Under the royal patronage of Emperor Asoka the Buddhism was spread all over the India. The hospitality and honorium for the Bhikkhus increased and they achieved special dignity. As a result, for the purpose of getting hospitality and honorium many heretics and ascetics of other religions started to introduce themselves as Bhikkhu by shaving their heads and holding begging bowl and civara (robs). They occupied monasteries and temples by forgery and continued to live there. They preached false doctrine. The corrupt Bhikkhus went here and there and continued to disturb. They were increasing in number. The modest Bhikkhus became annoyed because of their behaviour which was befitting with the Vinaya rules. As a result, anarchy was created in the Sangha. Besides this, at that time the Bhikkhus were divided into eighteen Nikayas (groups). Each of them claimed to be genuine followers of the doctrine of Buddha. As a result, it became difficult to ascertain which is the real doctrine of Buddha. The monks of one Nikaya refused to live and perform religious rituals with the monkss of another Nikaya. Moreover, the modest Bhikkhus also refused to hold the religious rituals like Upasatha, Pravarana etc. with the corrupt Bhikkhus. This chaotic situation was one of the main causes of holding the third Council.

The duration, place and patronage of the third Council:
The third Council was held at Asokarama in Pataliputta, the capital of Magadha, during the reign of Emperor Asoka. Emperor Asoka patronized that council greatly. After the completion of the third Council, he sent missionaries to different countries.

The selection of the councillors and the Proceedings:
The modest Bhikkhus refused to perform the religious rituals such as Uposotha, Pravarana, and Pattimokkha recitation etc with the false monks. For this reason, these religious rituals remained suspended for a long time in the city of Pataliputta. Then the false monks conspiringly passed an order from Emperor Asoka to perform Upasatha. But this did not make the real monks agree to perform Upasatha. As a result, many modest Bhikkhus were killed at the order of the inexperienced minister. Emperor Asoka became anguished at the news. He thought that the Bhikkhus were killed because of his indifferent attitudes. He sent a minister to bring Moggaliputta Tissa Thera from the Ahoganga mountain, to know whether he was responsible for this sinful act or not. Moggaliputta Tissa informed the Emperor Asoka that if a work is done with sinless feelings that will be no offence. Then the Emperor took lessons from him on the Dhamma of Buddha for a week. At the counsel of Moggaliputta Tissa Thera, he took the monks one by one behind a curtain and asked them about the doctrine that they followed. None of the false monks could give the answer. Only the modest Bhikkhus said unanimously that they were the ‘Vibhajavada’. Then the Emperor Asoka could detect the real monks. He expelled the arrogant monks wearing white dresses from the Sangha. It is known that they were more than sixty thousands. After this he said to the modest Bhikkhus. ‘Bhante! The Sangha has been purified. Now the Bhikkhus may perform the Uposatha.’ The purified Sangha performed the Uposatha together at Asokarama Vihara.
Buddhist religion and moral education

After the purification of the Sangha, Moggaliputta Tissa Thera convened the third Council for compiling the real sermons and words of Buddha. He selected one thousand Arhants who were skilled in Dhamma-Vinaya and had knowledge in three disciplines for the Council. The Council was presided over by Moggaliputta Tissa Thera and they collected the Dhamma-Vinaya according to the method adopted in the first and second Councils. Moggaliputta Tissa Thera wrote a book named ‘Kathavatthu’ in this Council. In the book he refuted the views of others and established the doctrine of the ‘Vibhajavada’. The book was incorporated into Abhidhamma Pitaka as it reflected the summary of the sermons and words of Buddha. This Council continued for nine months. The Sritidhara Arhants Bhikkhus again retained the pure sermons and words of Buddha. Abhidhamma Pitaka was referred for the first time in this Council and the words of Buddha were named Tipitaka.

To Send the missionaries: After the Council magnanimous Asoka sent the Bhikkhu Sangha to different countries to preach the religion. He appointed officers to propagate the religion. They were called Dharma-Mahamatra. They propagated the religion in all the cities and towns. He also sent his own son Mahinda Thera and daughter Sanghamitta Theri respectively to propagate the religion. The name of the countries in which Emperor Asoka sent missionaries after the third Council is given below:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>The missionaries</th>
<th>The places of preaching the religion</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Majjhantiaka Thera</td>
<td>Kashmir and Gandhara States</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mahadeva Thera</td>
<td>Mahisamandala</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rakkhit Thera</td>
<td>Vanavasi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dhammarakkhit Thera</td>
<td>Aprantaka</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mahadhammarakkhit Thera</td>
<td>Maharattha</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maharakkhit Thera</td>
<td>Jonaloka</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Majjima Thera</td>
<td>Himvanta Pradesh</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sona &amp; Uttara Thera</td>
<td>Suvarabhumi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Itthiya, Utthiya Bhaddasala, Sambala and devotee Sumana under the guidance of Mahinda Thera</td>
<td>Lankadvipa</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The Councils

The results of the third Council:
The results of the third Council are given below:

1. The fake and arrogant Bhikkhus were expelled from the Sangha.

2. All the Bhikkhus participating in the Council unanimously admitted that the Dhamma-Vinaya collected in the first and second Councils were the uttering made by Buddha and the advice given by Him.

3. The Dhamma and Vinaya recited and compiled in the first and second Councils were again approved in the third Council.

4. The Vinaya that recited in the first Council were kept unchange in the third Council and the Dhamma was divided into two sections called Sutta and Abhidhamma. As a result the sermons and words of Buddha were divided into three categories such as Vinaya, Sutta and Abhidhamma which together constitute the Tipitaka.

Exercise Work
How many Arhants took part in the third Council?
Make a list of the places where missionaries were sent.

Lesson : 6
The Role of Sangiti to compile the Buddhas words in the form of book

Buddha delivered many sermons on different occasions in different places. His disciples used to learn by heart these sermons and propagated them orally. The sermons of Buddha, retained in the memory of the different Bhikkhus, were compiled together for the first time in the first Council after three months of the Great Passing Away (Mahaparinibbana) of Buddha. With the passage of time, these constitute the present Tipitaka and were compiled in the form of book. Any topic, circulated orally, may have the possibility of being corrupted for many reasons. The main causes among them are:

1. The influence of the other languages
2. the co-existence of the people speaking different languages
3. weakness in pronunciation
4. weakness in understanding; and
5. weakness in explanation. There was every possibility of fear that the sermons and words of Buddha might get. There was every possibility of decline and misinterpretation of Buddha’s sermons as they were retained in memory and were orally transmitted. Testimonies can be found if the history of the second Council is thoroughly discussed. Within the hundred years of the Great Passing Away (Mahaparinibbana) of Buddha dispute was created in the Sangha for the first time regarding the interpretation of certain Vinaya rules. As a result, the Sangha happened to be divided into two groups. Purity was kept through the second Council by reciting and compiling again the sermons and words of Buddha, compiled in the first Council. The Sangha of Buddha happened to be divided into eighteen Nikayas (groups or sects) within a hundred years after the holding of the second Council. Bhikkhus of each Nikaya introduced themselves to be the bearer of the real sermons and words of Buddha. Besides, under the royal patronage of the Emperor Asoka the hospitality and honorium for the Bhikkhus increased and this led many heretics and ascetics of other religions started to introduce themselves as Bhikkhu by shaving their heads and holding begging bowl and civara (Patta-civara). For this it became difficult to determine the real sermons and words of Buddha. In this situation, the real sermons and words of Buddha were compiled again by convening the third Council. After this Mahinda Thera, the son of the Emperor Asoka brought it to Ceylon where the sermons and words of Buddha. There Buddha’s teachings also propagated orally for a long time learning by heart. There created a possibility of corruption and forgetfulness of the sermons and words of Buddha for wars, famine and sensual pleasures. Then the king Vattagamini was ruling in Ceylon (Sri Lanka). Under his patronage the fourth Council was organized and the sermons and words of Buddha were written in palm-leaves for the first time. It constituted the basis of the Tipitaka of the present day. From then on, in order to preserve the sermons and words of Buddha, these were copied, engraved on marble-stones and published in the form of books from the manuscript written in the palm-leaves. But because of the errors of the engravers and the writers, sometimes the sermons and words of Buddha were presented wrongly. As a result, confusions were created. To save from this, the fifth and the sixth Councils were convened again. The books published in different countries were examined and scrutinized comparatively through these Councils and the sermons and the words of Buddha were published in books correctly. We are now getting them easily and can learn.

Exercise Work
Where and when were the sermons and the words of Buddha written for the first time?
For which reasons the orally-circulated topics may be corrupted?

Lesson : 7
The Importance of the Council

The main purposes of the Councils are to compile the sermons and words of Buddha, to preserve purely and to propagate. As the backgrounds of the Councils are different, the importance of the Councils has assumed a multi-dimensional form. It is learnt from the study of the history of the councils that by compiling the scattered sermons and words of Buddha, the first Council protected them from corruption and forgetfulness and paved the way to preserve them correctly. The second Council saved Vinaya rules introduced by Buddha from being corrupted. By removing the existing anarchies in the sangha, the third Council freed the sangha from the existing anarchies and saved the sermons and words of Buddha from corruption and decline and thus it played an important role. The fourth Council gave permanence to the sermons and the words writing in the palm-leaves. The fifth Council gave eternal permanence to the sermons and words of Buddha by engraving on the marble-stones. The sixth Council removed all the defects and errors and helped to publish the sermons and words of Buddha correctly. The importance of the Councils can be felt by considering all these facts. Except this, the history of the Buddhism, (India, Srilanka, Myanmar) the rising and the development of the Sangha, the contributions of the members of the royal family in preaching the Buddhism can be known by studying Councils. Besides, the knowledge about the socio-economic, geographical, political conditions and education and culture of the above mentioned three countries can be gained. So it can be said that, the importance of the Councils is unmeasurable in the history of the Buddhism.

Exercise Work
Describe the contributions of the fourth fifth and the sixth Councils.
Exercise

Fill in the gaps
1. Council is the .................. Meeting or assembly of the Bhikkhu-sangha.
2. The Bhikkhus having respect for the Dhamma and Vinaya rules felt the necessity of .................. the sermons and words of Buddha.
3. Ananda Thera attained ............... Just before the beginning of the Council.
4. First Council took ................. Months to complete.
5. The preached religion as ............. And irreligiosity as religion.

Short Question
1. Where and under whose patronage was the first Council held?
2. Why are the bhikkhus of Vajji clan the followers of the irreligiosity?
3. Why and from whom did Asoka accept the Buddhism?
4. How were the sermons and words of the Buddha compiled through the Council?

Essay type Questions
1. Describe the results of the first Council.
2. What is called ‘Dasavitthuni’. What are these? Describe.

Multiple Choice Questions
1. Who was the last disciple of the Buddha?
   a) Dhammarakkhita   b) Mahadeva
   c) Subhadra   d) Ananda

2. Which one is the main cause of holding the second Council?
   a) To expel Yasa Thera from the Sangha.
   b) To accept the arrogant Bhikkhus.
   c) To organize meeting.
   d) To declare ‘Dasavitthuni’ illegal.
Look at the picture and answer the question 3 and 4

Picture model: (From the left) king Ajatasattu, Emperor Kalasoka, Emperor Asoka, Emperor Kanishka.

3. What is the contribution of the above mentioned rulers in compiling and preserving the sermons and words of the Buddha?
   a) for holding a Council.
   b) for preaching Sutta and Moral Verses.
   c) for propagating the advice of the Jataka.
   d) for spreading the Attakatha.

4. What was the purpose behind the activities of these personnals?
   a) to control ‘rituals or Kammayagga’.
   b) to increase wealth.
   c) to extend the kingdom.
   d) to preach religion.
The Councils

Creative Question

1. Chart-1

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Serial No.</th>
<th>Subject</th>
<th>Number</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1.</td>
<td>Participants</td>
<td>500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.</td>
<td>Working period</td>
<td>4 months</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Chart-2

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Serial No.</th>
<th>Subject</th>
<th>Number</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1.</td>
<td>President</td>
<td>Moggintiputta Tissa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.</td>
<td>Patron</td>
<td>Emperor Asoka</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

a. How many parts were the Bhikkhu-sangha divided after the second Council?

b. Explain the purpose of holding the Council in the Buddhism?

c. To which Council is the information in Chart-1 Applicable? Explain.

d. Describe the role of the two persons mentioned in the Chart-2 in organizing the Councils in the context of the textbook.

2. The Assembly of the National Parliament of Bangladesh is presided by the honourable Speaker. The elected honourable members of the Parliament raise different problems in the Assembly for the welfare of the people and for the development of the locality. There are accepted, cancelled and amended unanimously through investigation and selection. At last these are turned into laws.

   a) Who is the author of Kathavatthu?

   b) What is meant by Dharma Mahamatra?

   c) Which activities in the textbook are indicated by the National Parliament, described in the above passage?

   d) Analyze the religious significance of these activities.
Chapter Nine

Jataka

The word 'Jataka' means one who is born. But in Buddhist literature, the incidents of previous births of Gautama Buddha are termed as jataka. Before being Buddha, Siddhartha Gautama had to be born in many different clans and had to pass many aeons for obtaining enlightenment or for the attainment of the Buddhahood. The being who tries to gain wisdom or supreme enlightenment is called Bodhisattva. For this he is entitled as Bodhisattva in every birth. Because of the result of his actions of previous births he was born several times in different clans as king, minister, god, businessman, candala, animals and birds etc. and practised the life of the Bodhisattva. In the state of the Bodhisattva, he practised the ten perfectious (parami) such as: dana (charity), siila (precepts), nekkhamma (renunciation), panna (wisdom), viriya (vigour), khanti (forgiveness), sacca (truthfulness), adhitthana (resolution), metta (loving-kindness), uppekha (discerning rightly or neither attachment nor aversion) and attained the highest superiority in the character. Then after gaining the full wisdom in the last birth he attained the enlightenment (BodhiJjana) and became famous as Sammaka Sambuddha. In the tales of Jataka the descriptions of the different incidents of the Bodhisattva life of Gautama Buddha are found. In the tales of the Jataka he is sometimes the main character, sometimes he is the observer and some where he has played a minor role. The tales in the Jataka are enriched with moral and humane lessons. The characteristics of the Jataka are that it tries to purify the character and enhance the superiority. In course of discussion, Buddha narrated the incidents of his past life to his disciples and followers and inspired them to develop their moral and humane qualities. By reading the Jataka one can form an ideal life full of honest qualities and amity and compassion for all living beings. Besides, many important informations as to socio-economic condition of Buddha’s period are found in the Jataka. The role of the Jataka is not limited. It is essential to read the Jataka to know about the ancient state of the legends that are transmitted from generation to generation, the changes they underwent and the purpose of writing them. The Jataka plays an exceptional role as the source of writing stories, novels and plays in the world literature. For this reason it is called the unparallel source of the ancient history. In this chapter we will study four Jakatas named Shuka Jataka, Seribanja Jataka, Janasandha Jataka and Sukhavihari Jataka.

At the end of this chapter we will be able to -

* Describe the stories of Buddhist Jataka
* Analyze the learnings from the stories of the Jataka.

Lesson: 1

Shuka Jataka

Long long ago, there lived a king named Brahmadatta in Varanasi. At that time Bodhisattva was born in the form of a shuka bird in the Himvanta Province. Bodhisattva as Shuka bird had much strength. He was the leader of the thousands of the Shukas. The leader Shuka and his wife had a son. Both of them reared him with love and affection. The eyesight of the shuka and his wife became weak as they were growing old. They could not fly as they could previously. The son of Shuka went out in search of food keeping his parents at home. While flying one day he saw a green island surrounded by the sea. There was a mango orchard in that island. There were ripe and juicy mangoes of golden colour. He drank the mango juice to his heart’s content. The juice was as sweet as honey. On his way back to home he brought ripe mangoes for his parents.

After eating the mangoes Bodhisattva realized that the mangoes were from that island surrounded by the sea.

He asked his son “Was the mango from that island surrounded by the sea.”

The son replied, “Yes, father.”

Bodhisattva said, “Listen, my son, it is difficult to fly a long distance. The shukas which fly to that island do not live long. You are our only son. We have none in that old age. Never fly to that island.” But the son of Shuka did not pay heed to the advice of his parents. Being greedy he often went to that island to taste the mango juice.

One day he drank much mango juice. He drank so much that his body become weighty. Then he began to fly taking a ripe mango in his beak for his parents. He felt drowsiness in his two eyes. So the mango dropped into the sea suddenly.

The Shuka is carrying mango for his parents
He lost the way because of sleep and tiredness and began to fly lowly touching the water. Being tired and exhausted, he fell into the deep sea. At that very moment a large fish devoured him. Bodhisattva saw that the daytime is almost finished. The sun had set. The night appeared gradually. Their son did not come back. He realized that his son had died falling into the sea.

The parents began to bewail loudly.

There remained none to look after them. One day the old parents died of hunger and thirst.

Advice : Always obey the superiors.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Exercise work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>What did the Shuka do ignoring the advice of his parents?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Write down the consequences of the shaka for not paying heed to the parent’s words.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Lesson: 2

Seribanija Jataka

The Bodhisattva was once born as a pedlar in Seriba state. His name was then Seriban. In that country there was another pedlar named Seriba. He was very greedy. Once, Bodhisattva took seriba with him in the city Andhapura for trade.

Once upon a time a rich merchant family lived at Andhapura. But that merchant family became poor by losing all the wealth. All the male members of the family died one after another. None was living in that family except a little daughter and an old grand mother. They ran the family by working hard in the houses of the neighbours.

They had a plate made of gold. The merchant used to take rice in that plate. None used the plate after the death of the merchant. It became dusty as it was not used for a long time. Then it did not seem to be gold as it was kept with the broken pieces of utensils. The old grandma also forgot about it.

One day a pedlar, greedy seriba was going by the side of the house of the merchant calling, “will you buy pitcher, will you buy pitcher” Hearing the calling of the pedlar the girl said to her grandmother, “please grandma, buy me an ornament.” The grandmother said, “We are poor. Where we will get money?”

The girl then brought the gold plate from the broken pieces of the utensil and said, “It does not serve any purpose. Sell it and buy me the ornament.” The grandmother agreed to her words and called the peddler. She said, “Would you please give my grand daughter an ornament in exchange of this plate?”
The pedlar observed it turning round and round. Seeing it, it seemed to him that it might be a gold plate. Then he scratched at the back of the plate with a pin and realized that the plate is really made of gold. Then he decided to get the plate by cheating them. He said, “What is the price of it? If it costs even a quarter paisa, it will be a loss” - saying this he showed indifference and leaving the plate he went away.

After a while, on his way to return, the Boddhisattva called, “will you buy pitcher? Will you buy pitcher?” Hearing the calling of the pedlar, the girl again insisted her grandmother for buying ornament.

The old grandmother said, “You have heard by your own ears that the plate has no value. There is no other thing at home to sell.”

The girl said, “That pedlar is not good. His words trouble the mind. The calling of this pedlar is very sweet. He may agree to take the plate. Try once.” The old lady called and asked him to sit down. Then she handed over the plate and seeing at once Boddhisattva realized that it was a gold plate. He said, “Mother, the price of the plate is one lakh. Such an amount of money is not with me.”

The old lady said, “A pedlar came a few moments ago. He told that its price was not even a quarter paisa. It may be that because of your virtue it has been converted to gold plate. We will give it to you. You give whatever you like instead of it. Boddhisattva then had five hundred taka and the thing which valued five hundred taka. He kept only eight taka from it. After that he took the gold plate and went to the river side. A ferry boat was at the ghat. He got into the boat and said to the ferry man, ‘Brother, cross me the river.

The greedy seriba again went to the house of the old lady. He said, “Give me the plate, while returning thought that it looks odd if I don’t give you something in exchange of the plate. So I come again. The old lady said, “What nonsense! Didn’t you tell that it costs not more than a quarter paisa? An honest pedlar came a few minutes ago. He may be your master. He has bought it with one thousand taka.”

Hearing the words of the old lady, the greedy pedlar felt giddy. He began to flounce as if he were mad. He threw away all the belongings, money. Then was saying, “Alas’ I am undone. Seriban has seized my gold plate of one lakh taka by trickery,” he ran away to the river side to catch gold of Boddhisattva. The boat was then on the mid river. Seriba shouted as if he was mad and loudly said to the boatman. “Turn the boat, turn the boat.” Boddhisattva forbade the boatmen and he did not turn the boat.

The boatman went to the other side of the river carrying Boddhisattva. The greedy seriba could not bear that sight and loss for the gold plate. His heart broke down with anger and hopelessness. He died of blood vomiting.
The greedy pedlar is telling the boatman to turn the boat

Boddhisattva did charitable works and honest deeds, enjoyed the results of the good deed and went to heaven.

Advice: Grasp all, lose all.

Exercise work
What was the name of the Boddhisattva in the disguise of the pedlar?
What did the Boddhisattva say to the old lady about the gold plate?

Lesson: 3
Janasandha Jataka

Long long ago Brahmadatta was reigning in Varanasi at that time. Then Boddhisattva was born in the womb of the chief queen of Brahmadatta. He was named Janasandha. Being grown up he went to Takkhasila for getting higher education. He returned Varanasi after attaining competency in all the scriptures and crafts. On the day he returned, king Brahmadatta freed all the prisoners from the jail at the success of his son. Then he appointed him to the post of the viceroy. The people were living happily under his rule. His father died after few years of his appointment. The people made Boddhisattva the king. He established six charity houses at the four gates of the city, one at the middle and the other near the palace and donated six lakhs coins every day. The people of the Jambudipa become astonished at this great charity. They were satisfied at his rule. Stealing and dacoities came to an end. There was no sign of feuds anywhere. The prison house was lying vacant.

King Janasandha is giving religious advice to the people

Buddhisattva himself maintained five precepts. He performed uposatha according to the rule. He was very attentive in ruling the kingdom in accordance with the law. He always advised them to follow the religion to perform their works and business honestly.

One day king Janasandha took uposatha vow on the fifteenth day of the full-moon. He thought, “I will advise the people so that their peace and happiness increase and they can lead their lives with religious zeal.” He assembled the city dwellers as well as the inhabitants of the palace by sounding the kettledrum. Sitting on the decorated ‘Rajpalanka’ in the royal domain he told them. “The city dwellers, listen to me attentively:

1. Acquire knowledge in the boyhood.
2. Earn wealth in the youth time.
3. Avoid deceitfulness and evil desire.
4. Don’t be cruel and angry.
5. Don’t be neglectful in nursing the parents.
6. Learn from the masters.
7. Pay honour to samanera, Brahmin and virtuous people.
8. Keep away from killing animals.
9. Avoid miserliness and give food and drink.

Later, the above mentioned ten advices became renowned as ‘Dasa rajadhamma’ or ‘Ten types of royal duties’. The king not only gave honest advice, he himself also lived an honest life. He performed his royal duties with honesty. Following the advice of the king, the people lived happily with righteousness and honesty.

Advice: People will be pious, if the king is pious.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Exercise work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Who was Janasandha?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Write down the “Dasarajdhamma” or the ten types of duties.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Lesson: 4

Shukhavihari Jataka

In ancient time, Boddhisattva was born of an ‘Uddichya Brahman’ clan during the reign of Brahmadatta, the king of Varanasi. He thought that the domestic life is full of sufferings and it is rather comfortable to leave the home. Thinking that he went to the Himalaya. Going there he took the initiation (pabbajja). At last he attained higher state of meditation and eight type results of the meditation. He had five hundred ascetic disciples.

Once in a rainy season, Boddhisattva reached the Himalaya with his disciples. Begging from the towns and the townships they reached Varanasi. He passed four months rainy season in the garden of the king as a guest. Then he went to the king to bid farewell.

The king said, “You have become old. Why will you return to the Himalaya in that age? You stay here sending the disciples to the hermitage in the Himalaya.”

He agreed to the request of the king. Then he said to the eldest disciple, “I give you the duty to look after the five hundred disciples. You go to the Himalayas along with them. I will stay here.”
This disciple of Boddhisattva was previously a king. Leaving the kingship he took the silva. Practicing meditation he had possessed eight types of results of meditation. After getting the command from the master he went to the Himalaya taking the disciples. There residing with the ascetic disciples, he become restless to meet the preceptor. Then he said to them. “Stay here carefully. I will go to the master to pay him tribute.”

Saying this he came to Varanasi and went to the master. After paying tribute to the master he asked him about his well being. Then he lay down on a mat spreading by the side. At that very moment, the king also came to meet the ascetic. He paid tribute to the ascetic and sat by one side.

The ascetic is absorbed in deep meditation

The newly arrived ascetic did not leave the bed even after seeing the king. Lying comfortably, he repeatedly said ‘Oh, what a happiness! Oh, what a happiness!” The king thought that the ascetic might be neglecting him. If it does not, then why he is saying in that manner ‘Oh what a happiness! Oh, what a happiness!” Boddhisattva said, “Emperor, this ascetic was previously a king like you. But now the happiness that he has got after becoming ascetic, he did not get while he was a king. The happiness of a kingship sums to be insignificant to him. After taking initiation he now feels the pure happiness of deep meditation. He is saying thus because of the great outburst of emotion. Saying this Boddhisattva in order to teach the king moral lesson recited the following verse,

The person who has no need of a protector.
The person who is not worried about others protection,
That excellent person is beyond any desire.
Always get the taste of unlimited happiness.
Meaning: That is the person who has no desire is really happy. He does not think to save himself under the protection of others. He does not think to do something for himself. Hearing this religious precept, the king made obeisance by bending and touching the feet of Bodhisattva and went to the palace. The ascetic also paid tribute to Bodhisattva and returned to the Himalaya. Bodhisattva remained at Varanasi. He died at the full age after attaining full knowledge and went to the abode of the Brahma.

Advice: Happiness lies in sacrifice, not in enjoyment.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Exercise work</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Why Bodhisattva went to the Himalaya?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why did the king become angry at seeing the ascetic?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Exercises

Fill in the gaps
1. He was the ........ of the thousands of the shuka birds.
2. The merchant took rice from that ........ plate.
3. Show honour to the Samanera, Brahmana and ........ .
4. At last he attained ----------- meditation and of the results of the meditation.
5. The person in whom there is no ........ ........ is the real happy person.

Short Questions
1. Where did the son of the shuka go to drink the mango juice?
2. What is the price of the gold plate of the old lady?
3. What were consequences of the greedy peddler?

Essay Type Questions
1. What advice did the Bodhisattva gave to his son and why?
2. Explain the advice, “Grasp all, lose all” to the context of the Seribaniya Jataka.
3. Explain the importance of “Dasarajadhamma.”

Multiple Choice Questions
1. Where did Bodhisattva go leaving the house in the Sukhavihari Jataka?
   a) In the deep forest    b) In the Himalaya
   c) To the river side    d) In the Buddhist monastery
2. Ascetic: ‘oh, what a happiness!’- In what context has this saying been used?
   a) To disregard the king
   b) To enjoy the royal happiness
   c) To be absorbed in the happiness of deep meditation
   d) To get rid of diseases

Read the following passage and give answer to the questions no. 3 and 4

Simanta Barua is the only son of his parents. His father was the owner of two garments factories. He inherited the garments factories after the death of his father and he was active in obeying the rules and regulations. He showed honour to the workers and advised them to be virtuous and to perform their duties honestly.

3. Which king’s character is similar to that of Simanta Barua?
   a) Janasandha   b) Vessantara
   c) Shibi        d) Indra

4. By following the advice of Simanta Barua the lives of the workers may be-
   i) happy
   ii) peaceful
   iii) gracious

Which one is correct?
   a) i & ii       b) ii & iii
   c) i & iii      d) i, ii & iii

Creative Questions

1. Sourabh Chakma nursed and looked after his old parents. By cutting wood from the forest and selling them he maintained the family. One day father said, “Being greedy you don’t go to the deep forest. Going there no returns with the life.” Still, he entered into the deep forest in the hope of getting huge wood and he died from venomous snake-bite.
a) What is Jataka?

b) Why did king Brahmadatta free all the prisoners?

c) Which character in the Jataka is indicated by the character of Sourabh Chakma?

d) The advice of the father of Sourabh is logical explain to the context of the advice in the Jataka.

2. In ancient time Boddhisattva was born as a merchant during the reign of Brahmadatta, the king of Varanasi. His family becomes helpless at the Sudden death of the merchant. After death, Boddhisattva was born as a duck. Knowing the helplessness of the family of his previous birth he sent feathers of gold one by one to his wife. Selling them the wife of the merchant manged the family. But she was greedy. She killed the gold duck to get the feathers at a time. After that she began to remorse.

a) What is the advice of the Shukhavahi Jataka?

b) Why is it essential to study Jataka? Explain.

c) Which character is indicated in the Jataka by the character of the merchant’s wife?

d) The last consequence of the merchant’s wife is related with the consequence of the pedlar Seriba in the Jataka- Do you agree? Give opinion in favour of your answer
Chapter : Ten

Biographies

Many kings, ministers, devotees, thers and theries played important role in the propagation of the Buddhism. They are still immortal in the history of the Buddhism because of their service and contributions. The biographies of these great personnals are found in the Pali literature. Their life and ideology are exemplary. By reading their biographies we can build our moral and humane life. In this chapter we will learn about Sariputta and Moggallana, the two great disciples of Buddha, Purnika Theri, the renowned devotee Visakha, king Prasenjit and Bhikkhu Shilabhadra, the pride of the Bengal.

At the end of this lesson we will be able to -

* give identity of the Buddhist intellectuals.
* explain their ideology and life after reading the biographies of Theras, Theries and prominent intellectuals.

Lesson: 1

Sariputta and Moggallana

Sariputta and Moggallana were at the top in the sangha established by Buddha. They were the Aggasavaka of Buddha. Savaka means disciple or the person who hears, keeps and retains the religious matters. So, Aggasavak means the formost among the disciples. Among the disciples of Buddha, Sariputta and Moggallana were outstanding in hearing, retaining and maintaining the Dhamma of Buddha. Sariputta by knowledge and Moggallana by psychic power were the best of all. Aggasavaka Sariputta was also familiar as Dhammasenapati. During the time of religious instruction Sariputta would sit by the right hand and Moggallana by the left hand side of Buddha. So they were called the right hand and the left hand of Buddha.

The family name of Sariputta was Upatissa. As he was the son of Sari Brahmani he was called Sariputta. He was born in the village Upatissa situated in between Nalanda and Indrashila. According to some other information he was born in the village Nalaka. He was also known as Upatissa. Perhaps it was his actual name. But in the Pali literature he is not mentioned in that name. Because of the similarity between the name of a village and the name of a person, it is assumed that he came of an aristocratic family. It may be that the village was known according to the name of his race. His father’s name is not known. But it is believed that his father was a highclass Brahmin. Sariputta had there brothers and three sisters. The names of the brothers were Cunda, Upasena and Revata. The names of the sisters were Cala, Upacala and Sisucala. All his brothers and sisters were converted to the Buddhism and became Thera and Theri. Sariputta was very prompt.

On the other side, Moggallana was called Moggaliputta as he was the son of Moggali Brahmani. He was born in the village Kolita at Rajageha on the birthday of Sariputta. His father was the chief personnel in that village. Perhaps the village was named according to the name of his race. He was called Kolita as he was the son of the traditional ‘kula’ or race in the village. The family of Sariputta and the family of Moggallana had a good relationship for a long time. As a result they were intimate friends from the childhood. They lived in the two villages situated side by side. They had immense wealth.
One day, the two friends went together to watch a drama. After watching the drama they had the feeling of renunciation. Being disgusted with the family life, they decided to renounce the worldly life. After that, they forsook their family and took the discipleship of Sanjaya Belatthaputta. Sanjaya Belatthaputta was a wandering Brahmin mendicant. They learnt all the teaching from the preceptor within a short time. They asked the preceptor, “Preceptor, there is no clue to the final emancipation in this. We want to acquire something which will prevent us from having sorrows of many births, diseases, death, suffering etc. Preceptor Sanjaya Belatthaputta did not give any answer and remained silent. He was actually a “Vikkhepavadi” or ‘Evasive Disputent’. The followers of this issue can not give any decision. They always hesitate. Then they wandered about the whole Jambudipa and had discussion with different scholarly persons. But they did not get satisfactory answer and the way to emancipation. Then they decided to take two paths. If they traced the expected pioneer, they would inform each other. Promising so, they started their journey to two ways.

After few days Sariputta was wandering in Rajageha. One day, Assvajita, a disciple of Buddha was collecting alms there. At that time Sariputta met Assvajita. Sariputta was charmed at seeing the dignified appearance of Assvajita. He asked Assvajita. “Venerable Sir, whose disciple are you? Who is your teacher’ which ism or tenet does he follows?” Assavajita said, “The Sammaka Sambuddha Mahasamanera Goutama Buddha of the Sakya clan is my precepter.” Sariputta wanted to know about the religious doctrine of Buddha. Then Assvajita narrated a verse told by Buddha to him. The essence of the narration is: “There is cause behind the origin of everything. Nothing originates without cause. Buddha said that there is cessation to the cause. The peace is earned with the attainment of the Great Nibbana.” This is the doctrine of Buddha. So Buddha is Nibbanavadi. After hearing the narration Sariputta attained the fruition of Sotapatti immediately. He went to Moggallana and informed him of the matter. After hearing the verse from Sariputta, Moggallana also attained the fruition of Sotapatti. Then they decided to visit Buddha. Out of gratitude, Sariputta wished to take the preceptor Sanjaya Belatthaputta to the Buddha. In spite of his earnest requests he did not agree to go to the Buddha. Sariputta and Moggallana started the journey towards the Buddha with five hundred disciples of Sanjaya Belatthaputta. At this Sanjaya Belatthaputta was stricken with sorrow and became agitated. Buddha was then residing at the Venuvana Vihara was at Rajageha after the instruction “Dhammacakka Pavattana Sutta” at Saranath.

Sariputta and Moggallana accompanied by the followers reached Buddha at Rajageha. Buddha was then giving religious instructions to the disciples. Seeing Sariputta and Moggallana, Buddha with his divine knowledge understood their desire. Buddha initiated them in the Bhikkhudhamma (path of Bhikkhu). All the followers, except Sariputta and Moggallana, attained Arhantship at the place of the ordination. After the ordination, on the seventh day Moggallana and on the fifteenth day Sariputta attained the Arhanthship. On the day of the Ordination Buddha declared Sariputta and Moggallaya as Aggasavaka in the assembly of the Theras and Theris and preached Pattimokkhha. They had an arduous endeavour of many births and rebirths. There were eighty Mohasavakas in the Bhikkhu-sangha of Buddha. Among them these two were Aggasavakas.

Sariputta was endowed with great wisdom. His scholarship was exceptional. He could preach the short sermons of Buddha lucidly and easily. The principal advice of Sariputta is: “Man is mortal. He can die at any moment. So follow the virtues. Listen to the Dhamma in the proper time. Don’t be destroyed by falling in sorrow. The inside and outside of the cities are kept well protected to defend from the attacks of the enemies. In the same way protect yourself and keep away from all sorts of sins. The persons who do not follow the virtues and do not listen to the Dhamma in the proper time, they are lamented falling into hell.”
Moggallana was excellent in psychic power. This physis power was the source of endless working activities. He preached the doctrine of Buddha by flying all over the heaven, earth and hell.

Even after returning from the hell and seeing torments in the hell he advised the others. For this reason his instructions were always attractive. He not only included new items in the instructions but also described them easily and lucidly.

After the attainment of the Arhantship he expressed his thoughts in verse to his followers. The experiences that he earned from his life have also been expressed.

The substances of some of his verses are as follows: “This body is impure, the container of excrement and worms. Why do you adore the body? Impure things are coming forth through the nine doors of the body. Everyone avoids excrement. The Bhikkhus abandon this impure human body in the same way.”

Sariputta and Moggallana, the two Aggasavaka attained the Parinibbana before the Parinibbana of Buddha. Moggallana attained the Parinibbana after the fifteen days of the Parinibbana of Sariputta. As they possessed the Arhantship, they were informed of their death previously. So before the Parinibbana, they paid homage to Buddha and took his permission for the suitable place of the Parinibbana. Sariputta attained his Nibbana at his birth place. Moggallana was attacked by a killer at Kalasaila Mountain because of misdeeds of his previous birth and attained Nibbana. In his previous birth, being instigated by his wife he cast his old, blind parents to die in front of the animals in the deep forest. As a result he had to die in this way. Buddha ordered to preserve the sacred relics of Moggallana at the east gate of Venuvana Vihara. The merchant Anathapindika built a stupa on the relics of Sariputta at Savatthi after taking permission from Buddha. The two Aggasavaka could explain the words of Buddha lucidly. For their great deeds they are immortal in the history of the Buddhism.

By reading the biographies of two Aggrasavaka of Lord Buddha, Sariputta and Moggallana, we learn that a man can achieve his goal if he has a concentrate mind and perseverance. We learn that no deed goes in vain. One must get due rewards for one’s wholesome or unwholesome deeds. Moggallana died at the hands of the killer for the misdeed of his previous life. So one should not do evil deed secretly or being instigated by others.

Exercises work

Whose disciples were Sariputta and Moggallana at first?
Which doctrine did Sanjaya Belatthaputta follow?
What was the chief advice of Sariputta?
Write down the gist of the verses of Moggallana.
Lesson: 2

Visakha

At the time of Buddha, there lived a rich devotee of a noble family in the city of Bhaddiya. His name was Mendaka Setthi. He had a son named Dhananjaya. His wife's name was Sumana Devi. They were very pious, generous and were devoted to humanitarian service. Visakha was born to them. From the childhood visakha was very generous. She was famous for generosity and patronage. She became immortal in the history of Buddhism for her generosity and service to the Bhikkhu-sangha.

Once getting an invitation, Buddha, with his disciples, came to Bhaddiya city to ordain a Brahmin and about three hundred of his followers. On the occasion of the arrival of Buddha, The Mendaka Setthi went to see Buddha with Visakha. She was then seven years old. She had five hundred companions, five hundred maid servants and five hundred well decorated chariots. Visakha got the opportunity to pay homage to Buddha from very near. Being informed of the virtues of Visakha, acheived by her in her previous birth, Buddha preached her Dhamma. Everyone presented there listened to the sermon with deep respect. Hearing the sermon Visakha with her five hundred companions and the Mendaka Setthi attained the fruition of Sottapatti. The Mendaka Setthi with due respect invited Buddha along with his Bhikkhu Sangha to take midday meal at his house. Buddha accepted the invitation. Next day he arrived at the hores of the Mendaka Setthi with his disciples in proper time. Mendaka Setthi entertained Buddha with delicious foods along with Bhikkhu-sangha. Buddha instructed them about the Dhamma. Visakha and the members of the family of Mendaka Setthi were delighted greatly at this. They requested Buddha and the Bhikkhu-sangha to stay fifteen days more. Seeing their respect and devotion Buddha agreed. As a result Visakha got a wonderful opportunity in her childhood to hear the sermons of Buddha and to provide him her service.

With the passage of time, Visakha attained the age of marriage. The parents became active to marry her off. There was a merchant named Migara at Savatthi. He had a son named Punna Vaddhana. Visakha was married to Punna Vaddhana on the family level. The father of Visakha sent her to her father-in-law’s house accompanied by a large number of slaves, chariots, precious jewels and gems. The father of Visakka gave her ten admonitions to live with amity and peace in her father-in-law’s house. These ten admonitions are considered as universal admonitions. They are:

1. Don’t take the indoor fire to outdoor. It means that if you find any fault with any member of your father in law’s house, you must not tell them others.
2. Don’t bring outside fire inside. It means that if any neighbour tells ill about the members of your father in law’s house you must not tell them it.
3. Give only to him who gives. It means that you should lend only to those who returns.
4. Don’t give to him who does not give back. It means that don’t lend the person who borrows but never pays back.
5. Give to him who gives or does not give. It means that if a relative is poor and has no capacity to pay, you should give them.
6. Eat happily. It means that when the seniors finish eating take information about the meals of others and take your own meal.
Biographies

7. Sit happily. It means that you have to sit in such a place that you should not have to get up at the sight of the seniors.

8. Lie happily. It means that after you have finished all the household chores and after the lying down of all the members of the family you will go to bed.

9. Take care of fire. It means that you provide necessary nursing carefully to the seniors and children.

10. Show devotion to the father-in-law, mother-in-law and husband as you show devotion to a god.

These admonitions are given in the marriage ceremonies and in different social programmes till today. These admonitions play a great role in keeping the family happiness.

The merchant Migara, the father-in-law of Visakha, celebrated his son’s marriage for seven days. Prosenjiti, the king of Kosala and many other respectable personnels attended the marriage.

Visakha tried to complete the household chores all by herself. Her father-in-law and mother-in-law were satisfied with her. But the merchant Migara was a follower of ascetics. They did not wear clothes. They came to the house of the merchant Migara. One day the merchant Migara took Visakha before them on the occasion of the Gurupuja. Visakha found them without clothes. She expressed her annoyance. The ascetics felt her state of mind. They said to the merchant, “this lady is the disciple of Gautama Buddha. Remove her from the house. Otherwise you will be destroyed.” The merchant became very anxious at this.

One day Migara was eating frumenty mixed with honey sitting on the Mahapalanka. At that moment an Arhant came to the merchant Migara’s house for alms. Seeing him, the merchant did not show any desire to give him something. Visakha could not give anything without the permission of her father-in-law. She said to the stranger Bhikkhu, “Venerable Sir, please go elsewhere. My father-in-law is taking stale food.” Hearing this merchant Migara became angry. He said to Visakha, “Go away from this house.” He ordered the slaves to drive her out. But everyone of the house was fond of Visakha. Hearing this Visakha said, “I am not a bond-maid. You can not drive me out according to your sweet will. My father sent me to my father-in-law’s house by engaging eight respectful persons. Call them. If they find me guilty, I’ll go away. But I will never leave the house with defamation.” The angry merchant Migara called the witnesses. They wanted to know about the cause of such behaviors from Visakha. In the reply Visakha said, “my father-in-law is eating stale food” it means that he has been blessed with the fruits of religious merits of his previous birth. He is eating the food which he has earned thus”. She got the Judgement in her favour.

In another night she went outside the room taking the lamp in her hand. The merchant wanted to know the reason of it. Visakha said that getting the news of the delivery of a mare she along with the bond-maids went to the stable taking the lamp.” Then merchant said. “Didn’t your father forbid you to take the fire from home to outside? Why did you ignore his instruction?” Visakha said, “Yes, he did it. But I have not violated his command. I am obeying his instruction. By ‘not taking the indoor fire to outside’ he meant that I must not talk about the faults of the members of my father-in-law’s house to others. I never speak ill of my house to other.” Then she explained other instructions of her father to her father-in-law. The merchant Migara realized his fault.
Men while having faced with undesired questions repeatedly, Visakha decided to go back to her father’s house. She said to her father-in-law, ‘I am now ready to go back to my father’s house.’ Hearing this merchant Migara admitted his fault. He repeatedly requested Visakha not to go to her father’s house. Seeing the humility of her father-in-law Visakha said to her, ‘You are a devotee of the unclothed ascetics. I am the worshipper of the Tiratana. I am the daughter of the race that has a profound respect for Budhasasana. I can not but serve the Bhikkusangha. If you give me the permission to donate and hear the doctrine of Buddha at my sweet will, I will stay. The merchant Migara agreed.

After a few days, Visakha invited Buddha with his disciples at her house. The unclothed ascetics also came and stayed outside when they got the news that Buddha with his disciples were going to the house of the merchant Migara. They thought that if Migara take refuge in Buddha, they would be deprived of the charity. For this fear they forbade the merchant Migara to meet Buddha. According to the advice of them the merchant Migara remained in his room seeing the Bhikkhus. After arranging the gifts Visakha called her father-in-law. But according to the words of the unclothed ascetics he told her to complete the charity. Visakha gave the gifts to Buddha and his disciples with deep respect. After the completion of the act of charity, Visakha called her father-in-law to hear the doctrine of Buddha. The merchant thought that if he did not go now it would be a great offence. Thinking that, he was about to go there. At that time the unclothed ascetics said, ‘If you want to hear the Dhamma of the Samara Gautama, hear it from behind the curtain. They thought that Buddha had a magical power. They would spell the merchant Migara and would make him his flower.

According to the command of the ascetics the merchant Migara sat behind the curtain. Buddha said, ‘the merchant, wherever you may sit whether behind the curtain or behind the hill or even behind the horizon, my words will reach everywhere.’ Saying this, Mahakarunika Buddha, started preaching. The merchant attained the fruition of Sotapatti. After that, in front of the Buddha he addressed Visakha as mother and said, ‘Mother, you have rescued this son after so long.’ Since then Visakha is called ‘Migaramata’ or the Mother of Migara.

From then on, at the initiative of Visakha, arrangements were made for the midday meal everyday for the Bhikkhu-sangha. The merchant himself became respectful to Buddha and his disciples. Visakha built a large monastery at Savatthi by spending eighteen crores gold coins and donated it to Buddha and his disciples. This is known as ‘Pubbarama Vihara’. Visakha sought the co-operation of Moggallana for the supervision of the construction work of the Vihara. Moggallana helped to construct the Vihara with his five hundred followers. It is said that, Moggallana with the help of his psychic power took only nine months to complete the Vihara. The two storied Vihara had one thousand rooms. Visakha decorated all the rooms after her liking. Four months festival was held on the occasion of the handover of the building. Visakha had to spend still more nine crores gold coins. Buddha performed six ‘Vassavasa’ or rain retreat in different times at Pubbarama Vihara. Visakha went to the Vihara thrice everyday taking food, other necessary things, incense etc. Once, Visakha asked for eight boons from Buddha. Buddha granted them. These boons have unveiled a new side of Visakha. The boons are:

1. Visakha will provide food to any Bhikkhu who will come to visit Buddha as long as she lives.
2. Visakha will provide clothes to the Bhikkhu-sangha as long as she lives.
3. Visakha will arrange all facilities of medical treatment for the sick Bhikkhus as long as she lives.
4. Visakha will provide food to the attendant of the sick Bhikkhus as long as she lives.
5. Visakha will supply necessary diet to sick Bhikkhus at Vihara as long as she lives.
6. Visakha will provide ‘rice gruel’ to the Bhikkhus as long as she lives.
8. She will give clothes to the Bhikkunis as long as she lives.

Profound conscience of charity and generosity has been expressed through Visakha’s prayer for the boons. In this way Visakha accumulated unlimited virtues by engaging herself to the service of Buddha and the Bhikkhu-sangha at her own delight. Five hundred Bhikkhus took meal everyday at the house of Visakha. Visakha had ten sons and ten daughters. Each of them had ten children. All of them had strength and wealth and lived happily. Visakha became famous as ‘Maha Upasika’ or ‘the great devotee’ in the history of the Buddhist Religion. From the life of this great devotee we learn that not enjoyment, it is sacrifice that makes a man great and noble. So everybody should be infused with charity and sacrifice.

Exercise Work
How may advice did Visakha’s father gave to Visakha?
How did Visakha ordain her father-in-law?
How may boons did Visakha seek from Buddha? What ae these?

Lesson : 3

King Prasenjit

Prasenjit was the king of Kosala. Savatthi was the capital of Kosala and a very prosperous town. Buddha had delivered many sermons and precepts in Savatthi. Many histories and memories of the life of Buddha are associated with that place. For that Savatthi is the major place of pilgrimage. The present name of the town is Sahet-Mahet. It is now situated in the North Province of India. Prasenjit was the son of Mahakosala and contemporary of Buddha. He got education at Takkhasila. Lichchhavi Mahali and Kolio prince Bhandula were his fellow students. He came back to Takkhasila after completing his learning and acquiring knowledge in crafts. Mahakosala, his father became satisfied beholding his skills in knowledge and crafts and enthroned him as the king of Mosala. After becoming a king he used to govern the kingdom with rules and devotion. He loved the learned and virtuous people very much and enjoyed their company. After getting the friendship of Buddha, king Prasenjit became the follower of Buddha. He passed his life being the worshipper of Buddha till his death.

Though the king Prasenjit was the follower of Buddha, he was sympathetic to the other religious sects. It is known that once he made preparation of ‘Mahayagga’ (great sacrifice). But he freed all the animals that were collected for sacrificing at the advice of Buddha. Latter he gave up the ‘yagga’ and set free the sacrificing animals. He often went to Buddha and took His advice in different matters. In the ‘Samyutta Nikaya’ of the Tipitaka there is a chapter named ‘Kosala Samyutta’ in which many advices of Buddha given to the king of Kosala Prasenjit are included. Once, Buddha advised him to take moderate meal. Obeying the advice of Buddha, he possessed a good health.
Mallikadevi was the wife of the king of Kosala Prasenjit. She was the daughter of a gardener. But she was very intelligent. The king loved her and believed her much. He took her advice in any matter. One day he asked the queen, 'Queen! Whom do you love very much?' In the reply she said, 'there is none dearer than oneself.' the queen was very pious, so she spoke the truth. The king informed Buddha of the matter and Buddha confirmed the statement of Mallika to be true. After marriage, Mallika gave birth to a daughter. The king was dissatisfied at the birth of a daughter. At this Buddha said, 'If the women are properly educated, they can be equal to men and can rule the state efficiently'.

The king Prasenjit respected Buddha very much. So he was very eager to create family relationship with the clan of Buddha. The king Prasenjit invited Buddha with his disciples for a week and entertained them with the best food items. On the seventh day he invited Buddha to take food everyday at his house. Being unable to accept the invitation, He requested Ananda to take the invitation. Ananda with his Bhikkhu-sangha went to the house of the king everyday to take meal. As the king was busy, he could not take care of them. At the thought of being neglected they prevented themselves from taking food. The king was stricken with mental anguish. He decided to marry a daughter of the Sakya clan for the purpose of serving the Bhikkhu-sangha and to have relationship with the clan of Buddha. At that time the Sakyas never establish marital relationship with any one other than their clan. King Prasenjit was a very powerful king. Thinking of the possible danger of rejecting the proposal of the king, they made an alternative arrangement. Mahanama was the king of the Sakyas. Vasavakhattiya, a daughter of Mahanama, was born in the womb of a slave Nagamunda. He gave her in marriage to Prasenjit. A son was born to Vasavakhattiya. His name was Virurava. Virurava did never get honour in the house of his maternal uncles. Once, the Sakyas dishonoured him by calling him the son of the slave. He became furious at this. He was seeking opportunity to take revenge. One day he dehorned king Prasenjit, his father, with the help of the commander-in-chief of Kosala and took the power. Prasenjit fled to Savatti and died there within a short time. Then Virurava attacked Kapilavatthu and exterminated the Sakyas. But while he was returning to his country after the war being over, he was fallen into the deluge of water and was killed along with his army.

The mentionable king’s contemporary of king Prasenjit of ancient India were Bimbisara, the king of Magadha, Pradyut, the king of Ujayani, Udayana, the king of Kosambi. King Prasenjit and the king Bimbisara were relatives. Bimbisara, the king of Magadha married Kosaladevi, the sister of Prasenjit. He got Kasi as a token of dowry from the king Prasenjit. Kasi became the part of Magadha. A friendly relationship grew between the king of Magadha and the king Prasenjit. Ajatasattu, the son of Bimbisara played a leading role in performing the royal duties. Being instigated by others, he imprisoned his father. King Bimbisara died in the imprisoned condition. Hearing the news king Prasenjit got furiated and Kasi was taken back. For this reason Prasenjit and Ajatasattu were at war for several times. He was able to defeat Ajatasattu at the fourth time and was kept imprisoned till he was dehorned. Later he gave his daughter Vajira to him in marriage and gave him the village Kasi as a token of dowry. Hearing this Buddha advised him by saying, "the man who wins makes many enemies. The person who is defeated suffers from mental anguish. But the person who has no defeat or victory can enjoy peace for ever."

Sumana, the sister of king Prasenjit, took initiation as Bhikkhuni and entered into the sangha. Hearing and following the preachings of Buddha, she obtained Arahattaphala, the fruit of Arahantship. King Prasenjit and his wife Mallikadevi loved very much to donate Buddha and his Sangha. Prasenjit built Rajakarma Vihara at Jetavana in Savatthi. He built a guest house at the request of his chief queen Mallikadevi. It became famous as 'Mallikarama'. Sitting here Buddha delivered religious instructions. There was a deep forest named Anjanavana not far from Savatthi. King Prasenjit used to go on hunting there. Theri Sujata attained Arhantship hearing the religious instructions of Buddha. King Prasenjit abandoned the killing of animals after hearing the Dhamma of Buddha.

Prasenjit was devoted greatly to charity. Once he invited the Buddha with his five hundred disciples at Jetavana. Calling the citizens he said, 'Come and witness my charity.' The citizens beheld the charity. Then the citizens also invited the Buddha with his disciples and said to the king, 'The great king now sees our charity.' Having witnessed the charity, the king thought that his subjects had shown greater charity than he. I will again arrange greater charity. In this way competitions were held between the king and his subjects on charity. Being defeated again and again, the king thought, 'Could I never make charity like my subjects?'

Being informed of this queen Mallika arranged for a great charity. In that programme the king distributed the gifts to the Bhikkhusangha by his own hand. About fourteen crores of coins were spent for this purpose. By paying tribute to the Buddha he said, 'Reverend Sir, my gifts contain all the material of everyday use.' He also said, I no more get pleasure in war and in extending the kingdom. I want to pass the rest of my days in peace and happiness.' At this the Buddha said, 'The arrangements of the items in a gift is not important. Intention of the mind and the respect and devotion are more important. For the propagation of the Buddha's religion, the service they provide to the Buddha and the Bhikkhu-sangha, good rule and act of great charity afterwards king Prasenjit and queen Mallika are immortal in the history of the Buddhism.

Exercise Work

- Why Virurava did kill the Sakyas?
- Which kings were contemporary of the Buddha?
- What was the relationship between king Prasenjit and king Bimbisar?

Lesson: 4

Punnika Theri

After accumulating the virtues in the present life and the life preceding this lady was born of an aristocratic family during the era of Vipassi Buddha. She became worried at the thought of rebirth when she was grown up. She went to the Bhikkhus. Hearing the Dhamma she entered into the sangha. She was maintaining the life of a Bhikkhuni by observing the precepts thoroughly. She attained proficiency in the Tipitaka by reading it attentively. By the consequences of her sensitiveness of her previous birth she was born as a daughter of slave in the house of Anathapindika at Savatthi during the time of Buddha. Then she was given the name Punnika. It is said that she was named Punna or Punnika as the number of the children was hundred after her birth.

After hearing the preaching of the Buddha, known as the roar of a lion, she attained the fruition of Sotapatti. Later she was able to make a Udakasuddhi Brahmin to follow her opinion by reasoning. For this her master freed her from slavery. After getting the freedom she entered into the sangha and attained Arhantship. The incident run thus: In her slavery life her everyday work was to bring water from the river in the very early morning. She had to get water even in the early morning of the winter season because of the fear of her master's punishment and rude words. In the morning of bitter cold an Udakasuddhi Brahmin bathed in the river from which Punnika collected water. Udaksuddhi is a kind of holy practice of purifying life by getting wet into water. One day she saw the Brahmin immersed in water. She asked him, ‘Brahmin, I collect water from the river in the winter morning for the fear of my master. For which fear are you bathing in the morning of this bitter cold?’ In reply, she said, ‘Punnika! I am observing the custom of washing the result of sinful act. The sinful acts that you do in your old or young days can be freed by the bath of purification.’

Punnika said, ‘Who has told you that bath of purification can free one from sins? It is a foolish advice given by a fool. If it does so, then heaven is confirmed for the tortoises, frogs, snakes, crocodiles and aquatic animals. If it happens so the killers, thieves and inefficient workers will also get rid of sin by the bath of purification. If the river can wash the sin previously done, virtues will also be washed away. ‘O Udakshuddhi! Clean your mind’s defilement first, and then wash your body. Do not commit sin publicly or secretly. If you commit sin, there is no way of salvation. You will not get rid of it if you even flee. If there is fear of sufferings, if sufferings is unpleasant to you, take refuge in Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha, observe the precepts.’ By realising in this way Punnika proved the falsity of the bath of purification and was able to make the Brahmin follow her opinion. From studying the biography of Punnika it is known that an ordinary bond-maid can be famous in the world because of the influence of her good consciousness and wholesome deeds. Even women can attain Arhantship by her perseverance and austere endeavour.

Exercise Work

Write down how was Punnika able to make Udaksuddhi Brahmin to follow her opinion.

Do you support the arguments of Punnika? Put arguments in favour of your answer.

Lesson: 5

Bhikkhu Shilabhadra

Shilabhadra was the first suprem pride of Bengal. He was adorned with many titles as acknowledgement of his work. The titles were Sastraguru, Dhammaratna and Gyanakara. He was born in 529 AD. He was born in the then Bhadraraja clan of Chandina in Comilla. It is known that his nickname was Dantabhadra. He became famous as Shilabhadra after his initiation into Buddhism.

Shilabhadra was uncompromising in acquiring knowledge. He studied Veda, technology, syntax, medical science, philosophy and other branches of knowledge in his early age. He was eager to acquire knowledge from his childhood. By abandoning royal honour and wealth, he travelled the ancient India in search of truth. While traveling the ancient India he visited different monasteries. He tried to know about the religion and philosophy of Buddha. Thus he reached Nalanda. Nalanda was then a university of high standard. This university was developed basing on the monasteries. Though it was monastery based university, the people of all classes had the entrance. During the time of Shilabhadra ten thousands students and one thousand five hundreds teachers were there. Acariya Dhammapala was the principal of Nalanda Mahavihara; Shilabhadra took initiation under his tutorship. It is the place where he took 'Upasampada (higher ordination)' according to the rule of the religion of the Buddha and became Bhikkhu. Then he learned the essence of the Buddhism by arduous practice and perseverance and acquired wisdom in explaining the difficult theories of Buddhist scriptures simply. Shilabhaddra not only took the essence of the mysticism of Dhamma and philosophy from Acarya (teacher) but also continued to ask questions entering into the depth of the truth until he got the eternal truth. In this way he extended the periphery of knowledge and made it transparent. He obtained efficiency in many subjects.

Shilabhaddra earned much praise by defeating a famous Brahmin Pandit (scholar) in a debate. Then debates were prevailing in the ancient India. Even kings and emperors were also associated with it in many ways. It was taken as a matter of great pride in having great scholars in their own countries. So, the kings and the emperors were also interested in arranging such debates. An incident like this happened while Shilabhaddra was staying at Nalanda.

Arriving at the state of Magadha, a Pandit of South India claimed that no pundit was equal to him in spiritual knowledge and also proclaimed his superiority. He called the pundits of the state of Magadha in a debate on religious matters. Hearing this king of Magadha sent a messenger to Acarya Dhammpala whether agreed to participate in the debate or not. Acarya Dhammapala gave his consent and got ready to go to Magadha immediately. His disciple Shilabhaddra was then in Nalanda. He politely requested Acarya, 'Give me the permission'. He was then only thirty years. Acarya Dhammapala was very pleased. Already he has heard the analysis and explanation of the theories made by Shilabhaddra. So he had much confidence in him. He gave him permission. At this time many young disciples became perturbed at the decision of Acarya. Addressing them all, he said, 'I am sure that Shilabhaddra will be able to defeat this pundit.' Many people attended the Dhammasabha (religious meeting). Shilabhaddra defeated the pundit excelled in spiritual knowledge. The erudition of Shilabhaddra spread in all directions. Being satisfied the king of Magadha gave him the revenue of a town as a permanent scholarship. But Shilabhaddra refused to accept it. He said that 'Tricvara' (three robes) worn by the Bhikkhus is sufficient. After the request of the king, he agreed to accept the city and he established a Sangharama (monastery) there. The monastery was named as 'Shilabhaddra Sangharama Vihara.' All the Bhikkus, Samanera addressed Shilabhaddra as 'Saddhama Bhandara (storehouse of true religion)' in great respect. In fact he was the best of all in the contemporaneous time of Mahasthavira Shilbhaddra. He was expert in all learnings and had fame as a pundit. Shilabhaddra, the first among the Bengalese, was able to attain this fame. The Bengalese felt proud of this achievement till today.

After completing his study he joined as a Professor in the Nalanda Mahavihara. After the demise (Nibbana) of Acarya Dhammapala, he was appointed in the post of the Acariya unanimously. His demise occurred at the age of 125 in 654 A.D.

Exercise Work

Where and from whom did Shilabhaddra take initiation into Buddhism?
Why was Shilabhaddra given the revenue of a town as a permanent Scholarship?
Exercise

Fill up the gaps
1. Seeing the dignified appearance of Assavajita ............... was charmed.
2. Moggallanaa was ............ psychic power.
3. You would rather wash the ............... of mind than wash your body.
4. The father of Visakha gave .................. admonitio ns to Visakha.
5. .................. was the first Bengalese who earned fame in Nalanda Mahavihara.

Short Question
1. Which ism did Sanjaya Belatthaputta follow?
2. To whom did Visakha pray for the boons and how many were they?
3. Why was Punnika freed from the slavery?
4. Why are we proud of Shilabhadra?

Essay type questions
1. How did Sariputta and Moggallana obtained the post of Aggasavaka of the Buddha?
2. Evaluate the importance of ten admonitions of Visakha’s in preserving family peace.
3. Write about the contributions of king Prasenjit in the propagation of the Buddhism.
4. Write down elaborately about how Punnika became a Bhikkhuni from a slave.
5. Describe the life and works of Shilabhadra.

Multiple Choice Questions
1. In what Moggallana was the best of all?
   a) in the worldly knowledge
   b) in the spiritual truth
   c) in the psychic power
   d) in the physical strength

2. The purpose of king Prasenjit in marrying Sakya daughter –
   i) as the Bhikkhu-sangha abstained themselves from taking meal.
   ii) for the hpe of getting Kasi state.
   iii) to create family relationship with the clan of the Buddha.
Which one of the following is right?

a) i

b) i & ii

c) i & iii

d) i, ii & iii

Read the following passage and answer the question no 3 and 4.

Papiya Tanchanga is a pious lady. Because of her poverty she does the domestic works in the houses of others. One day she inspired a superstitious man to be ordained in her own religion by proving hollowness of his work by putting arguments.

3. To which Theri of the Biographies is the above mentioned incident related?

a) Punnika

b) Uppalavanna

c) Potacara

d) Khema

4. As a result of Papiya’s accomplishment of the work Papiya ....

i) will gain praise.

ii) will get good remedy.

iii) will attain Arhantship

Which one of the following is right?

a) i & ii

b) ii & iii

c) i & iii

d) i, ii & iii
Creative Questions

1.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chart-1</th>
<th>Chart-2</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>→ Attained Arhatship in fifteen days</td>
<td>→ The sacred remain at Venuvana</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>→ Could explain the speeches defined delivered by the</td>
<td>→ Preach the Dhamma moving into heaven, earth</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>→ Attained Nibbana in his birthplace</td>
<td>→ The Aggasavaka of the Buddha.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

a) When was Shilabhadra born?
b) Why was Punnika freed from slavery?
c) Which follower of the Buddha had the similarities described in chart? Explain.
d) Analyse the contribution of the person described in Chart-2 as an Aggasavaka of the Buddha in the propagation of Buddhism.

2. Episode - 1

Rupen Barua was much eager in acquiring knowledge from his childhood. He was named Dhammanitta after his ordination in the Budhism. He attained competency in many aspects of the religious knowledge by his arduous practice and perseverance. He also attained competency in explaining the difficult theories of the religion. Being satisfied with him he was addressed as ‘the storehouse of true religion.’

3. Episode-2

Going to the monastery everyday Brinta Barua serves the Tiratna (the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha) and accepts the five precepts (Pancasila). She got married when she was matured. She reflected her father’s advice given to her in her family life after marriage.

a) What is the present name of Savatthi?
b) Why was Moggallana attacked by the killer at the Kalashila Mountain? Explain.
c) Which character narrated in the incident-1 has the similarities with the character narrated in the Biographic? Explain.
d) Because of her influence of the activities described in incident-2 Brinta Barua will be redeemed in the present life preceding-Do you agree with the view? Show arguments.
Chapter Eleven
The History of Buddhism

The Buddhism was originated in ancient India in the sixth century B.C. During the advent of the Buddhism most of the people were under the influence of blind faith and false notions. They believed that all the disasters and accidents happened because of the influence of the invisible divine power. So they tried to remain peaceful and undisturbed by submitting themselves to the invisible power. They arranged various types of worship, adoration and observed scriptural rules. Sacrificial ritual and sacrificing of animals were the inevitable part of these worship and adoration. These religious rituals were the way to get rid of all kinds of problems. The Buddha advised that they would rather be conscious about their own doing then worship invisible power. He told them to give up there practices as these were not the right way to salvation and he indicated the way to get rid of sufferings. At the call of his ambrosial, from common people to kings and emperors, all were attracted. They realized that, there is sorrow but there is also a way to stop it. Being inspired by the truth the men were illuminated with new perception. In this way the Buddhism and its philosophy started its journey. With the passage of time, it crossed the boundary of ancient India and expanded to the outer world. This flow of the gradual development of Buddhism and its philosophy is the history of the Buddhism. In this chapter we will study about the history of the Buddhism.

At the end of this chapter we will be able to –

* Describe the social and religious conditions of pre-Buddha age.
* Describe the sixteen Mahajanapadas (great townships) contemporayry of the Buddha.
* Explain the role of the kings of the Mauriya, the Kusan and the Pala dynasty in the propagation of the Buddhism in Bangladesh.
* Give idea about the history of the Buddhism along with the pre-modern era of Bangladesh.

Lesson: 1
Social and religious conditions in Pre-Buddha Age

The Buddha was born in ancient India. Many sages of diverse kinds were born in ancient India in different ages. Social customs and rules also moved onward continuously in different forms. There was the influence of Vedic Brahmanic religion in India in pre-Buddha age. India was then divided into many small kingdoms. The kings used to collect crops, domestic animals etc as revenues from the subjects. The common people lived in villages. Kings, their officers and the rich people lived in the well-protected towns. They got delight and amusement in hunting, using weapons, dancing and singing. Though there were different types of professions, most of the people lead their livelihood by agriculture. Bamboo and wood alongwith bricks-stone were used for building houses. During the time of festivals the people song, danced and prepared various types of cakes. The men and women put on ornaments made of iron. The system of slavery was prevailing in the society. The rich people bought slaves in exchange of money. The war-captives and convicted criminals were turned to slaves. Moreover many were slaves by birth. The system of polygamy was also prevailing in the society. The learners got education usually at the house of the teachers.
Four kinds of cast systems were prevailing in the society. They are: Brahmana, Khattiya, Vaisya and Sudra. At that time the Brahmans worshipped Brahma and other gods with sacrificial rituals. They believed that worship and adoration bring divine happiness. Brahma was considered the creator. Brahma has created the human beings from the different organs of his body. So the religion, action, thought and consciousness all were centered on Brahma. The Brahmans propagated that Brahmans from the mouth of Brahma, Khattiyas from the hands, Vaisya from his thigh and Sudra from the feet were created. The Brahmans were the privileged class and had the supremacy. The kings show special respect to them. They had the topmost position. They proclaimed themselves to be the representatives of the gods. Worshipping, adoration and giving advice were their main occupations. The khattiyas were warriors. They had the power to govern the country. The vaisyas were merchants. Their chief occupation was trade and commerce. The Sudras were working class people. They lead their livelihood by working for others. They belonged to the lower status.

At that time sacrificial rituals, sacrificing the animals, incantation, worship and adoration were the parts of the religious rituals. Besides these, the act of performances like wandering in the forest, living in exile, practising austerities of body were also prevailed. To satisfy the gods and goddesses with the blood of the animals was one of the common religious rituals. Because it was believed that by performing the sacrificial rituals one can get health and wealth and can attain heaven. Different types of incantations, rules of austeres religious practice, exorcism were also prevailing. Men took refuge of these religious rituals to get rid of dangers and diseases. But these religious rituals did not satisfy all. Because they realized that sacrificial rituals and sacrificing the animals do not bring eternal happiness. They searched for emancipation in another way. As a result, different types of religious doctrines were originated. The wandering ascetics propagated these religious doctrins.

Exercise Work

Give an idea about the four types of caste system of Pre-Buddha Age.

Describe the religious conditions of the Pre-Buddha Age.

Lesson: 2

Religious Conditions during the time of the Buddha

Gautama Buddha was born in 623 A.D. At that time 63 religious tenets alongwith the Buddhism were prevailing in India. This information has been described in the Brahmajala Sutta of Digha Nikaya of the Sutta Pitaka included in the Tipitaka. At that time there were six large Samana Sangha (group of ascetics) except the Bhikkhu-sangha. The chief of these six sanghas were: Purana Kassapa, Makkhali Gosala, Ajita Kesakambali, Pakuda Kacchayana, Nigantha Nathaputta and Sanjaya Velatthaputta. They were famous as Saratirthankara or six heretics. They had many followers. A brief idea about their life and philosophy are given below:

Purana Kassapa: No identity of his parents is found. His real name was Kassapa. He was a guard by profession. He got the name Purana as after his birth the members of the clan fulfilled hundred. According to another view, he was named Purana as the number of the slaves in the house where he worked fulfilled one hundred.

It is known that, being displeasant with the work he entered into a forest. In that forest, some robbers robbed the clothes from him and left him unclothed. He entered into a village in unclothed state and began to say, ‘I have attained accomplishment in all knowledges. So people called me Purana. People called me Kassapa as I was born in the Brahmin clan.’ Then the villagers gave him clothes. Then he said, ‘clothes are used to cover up the nakedness. Shame is originated from sin. I have eradicated all tendencies towards sin. I need no clothes.’ After that staying in the forest named ‘Tuccha’ he lived the life of an ascetic. In course of time, he had five hundred main disciples and eighty thousands followers. His opinion was that: Striking, killing, telling lies, robberies has no fault or sin. Virtues can not be gained by charity, self-control and speaking the truth.

Makkhali Gosala: Nothing is known about his parents. He was a slave by profession. One day he was carrying a pitcher full of ghee on his head at the command of his master. On the way he slipped at a muddy place and the pitcher fell into pieces. The ghee was scattered. Being afraid of punishment by his master he entered into the forest and became an ascetic. He revealed that he knows everything. He became familiar as ‘Acelaka’ or unclothed wandering ascetic. He also had five hundred disciples and eighty thousands followers. He supported fatalism. According to his opinions, ‘living beings become pure or impure without any purpose or cause. Nothing happens at the power of self or others. The living beings are rescued in many ways by the influence of fate and habit. Whether they are intelligent or ingorant-their sufferings will be ended after the end of wandering in the life cycle.

Ajita Kesakambali: Nothing is known about the identity of his parents. His real name was Ajita. He was a servant by profession. He could not tolerate the scolding of his master and took to asceticism. After taking to asceticism he wore a blanket made of hair or ‘Kesa’. So he became acquainted as Ajita Kesakambali. He always shaved his head. He also had many disciples and followers. He was the supporter of Annihilationism. According to his opinion there is nothing in charity, sacrificial rituals. There is no world hereinafter. There is no one in the world who can advise the right path. Men are created with four elements such as clay, water, light and air. There remains nothing infinite after death.

Pukadha Kacchayana: He became familiar as Pukadha Kacchayana because he was born in the root of Pukadha tree. A Brahmin brought him up. Finding no other way to survive after the death of the Brahmin he took ascetic mandicancy. His sangha was the largest. According to his opinion none created the seven elements such as the earth, water, power, air, happiness, sorrow and living beings.

Nigantha Nathaputta: He was the son of a farmer named Natha and was the inhabitant of Vesali. He was also known as ‘Nigantha’. He told that there is no book that I haven’t read. He practised severe austerities for salvation. He had five hundred disciples and many followers. According to him sin is decayed because of the practice of austerity. The sin of the preceding life is decayed by the religious austerities. All sorrows end if new sins are not generated.

Sanjaya Velathaputta: He was known as Velathaputta as he was born in the womb of a slave named Velatthi. He had a lump of flesh like a sancha fruit (wood apple) on his head. For this he became famous as Sanjaya Velathaputta. He had many disciples and followers. He was a disputant. If he was asked anything he passed time by saying this or that. Maha Aggasavaka Sariputta and Moggallana, the two disciples of the Buddha, at first were the followers of Sanjaya Velathaputt. According to him, ‘whether the world beyond the dead has existence or not, whether there is the consequences of good deed or bad deed or not - these seem nothing to me’. Ajatasattu, the king of Magadha, thought him to be the most ignorant.

Except the Buddhism, there were sixty two religious tenets which are depicted below according to the scripture of the Buddhism.
Buddhist religion and moral education

Sassvatavada (Eternalism) Perpetualism: The word ‘sassvata’ means, eternal, absolute or unchangeable. The followers of this doctrine thought the soul and universe to be eternal. According to their opinion, the soul and universe are as fixed as the pillar of the ‘Nagara’ Torana (city gate). The followers of this doctrine were divided into four groups.

Ekanksa Sassvatavada (Partial Eternalism): The followers of this doctrine proclaimed that one part of the world and universe is eternal and the other part is not eternal. They were divided into two groups.

Antanantavada (Limitism and Unlimitism): The words ‘Antanata’ consists of two words ‘Anta’ and ‘Ananta’. ‘Anta’ means finite or limited. Ananta means infinite, or endless. The followers of this doctrine proclaimed that the universe is both finite and infinite. They were divided into four groups.

Amaravikkhepavada (Evasive Disputant): The other name of this doctrine is Scepticism. They were divided into four groups. They did never express their opinion in favour of either good or bad. If opinion is given in favour of good, one group may be dissatisfied. If opinion is given in favour of bad the other group may be dissatisfied. So they did not express any particular opinion.

Adhittasamuppannavada (Fortuous Originism): ‘Adhittasamuppanna’ means originated from without any cause. The followers of this doctrine thought that there is no cause and effect relationship regarding the creation of the soul and the universe. These have been originated without any reason. The followers of this doctrine were divided into two groups.

Uddhaghatanika: The word ‘Aghatan’ means death, detachment or destruction. The soul is beyond death that is after death the soul remains unchanged. This doctrine is called Uddhaghatanika. They expressed the opinions of thirty two types.

Uchhedavada (Annihilationism): The followers of this doctrine say that there is no discrimination between sin and virtue. Good and bad are only for living in happiness and contentment in the world. There is no existence of human beings after death. The followers of this doctrine proclaimed seven types of opinions.

Disthadhamma Nibbanavada (Theory about the attainment of Nibbana in this life): ‘Disthadhamma’ means the present body. The followers of this doctrine thought that it is possible to obtain Nibbana in this body. They expressed five types of opinions. During the time of the Buddha, Mahavira, founder of Jainism, was very popular. There were some differences between them. Rajageha was the main area of his preaching. But there was no meeting of the Buddha with him. Mahavira, like the Buddha propagated ‘Ahimsa’ (non-violence).

Besides these, the wandering in the forest, austerity, physical torture, sacrificial rituals, and different types of incantation, austere religious practices and exorcism were also prevailing during the time of the Buddha. Buddha had given the opinion that prevailing religious doctrines contemporary to him were not the right ways to get rid of sufferings. Buddha presented ‘Kammavada’ (theory of kamma) while in the doctrins before the age of the Buddha Kamma and Kaammaphala (result of kamma) had been ingnored and human beings were under the control of fate. According to His opinion, human beings are controlled by Kamma. As one sows, so one will reap.

India was divided into sixteen great territories during the time of Buddha. Each territory was called Mahajanapadas. In the history of ancient India these were known as ‘Sixteen Mahajanapadas’. The Buddha had preached his doctrine through travelling many of these territories. As many places of these territories are associated with important events or memories of the Buddha, they have become the places for pilgrimage.

Exercies Work

Who were the chief of the six Samana Sanghas during the time of the Buddha?
What do you mean by Adhittasamuppannavada?
The History of Buddhism

The short descriptions of the six territories:

All the territories of the sixteen states during the time of the Buddha were not historically famous. Many states lost their identity because of the aggression of the other states. Still many states have special significances in the continuity of the history. The sixteen states are:

The short descriptions of these sixteen states are given below:

1. Anga: The kingdom of Anga was in the east of Magadha. The borders of Magadha and Anga state were divided by the river Champa. Champa river separated the two states. This river was lying in Magadha. The Champa city was the capital of Anga. It is known that Mahagovinda, the minister of the emperor Disampati, established the city. The Champa city was situated in the coastal area in the confluence of river Champa and river Ganges. A king named Brahmadatta ruled in Anga during the time of Buddha. Queen Goggora was very fond of Buddha. She dug a large pond in the Champa city. She built a monastery by the side of it. It is known from the Suttapitaka that Gautama Buddha visited the place eight times. Bimbisara, the prince of Magadha occupied Anga by defeating the king Brahmadatta. At that time this state united with Magadha was known as Anga-Magadha.

2. Magadha: Magadha was situated in the districts of Patna and Gayas of the present India. It was surrounded by the river Ganges on its north, by the river sona on its west, by a part of the Bindya Mountain on its south and by the river champa on its east. Buddha observed the ‘vassavasa (rain-retreat)’ here for several times. Bimbisara was the king of Magadha during the time of Buddha. He was a lay follower of Buddha. He donated the Venuvana garden of Rajageha to Buddha and the Bhikkhu-sangha. King Bimbisara did many noble acts for the welfare of Buddha and the Bhikkhu-sangha. The name of king Bimbisara has been mentioned in different Suttas of the Tipitaka. Being instigated by others the prince Ajatasattu imprisoned his father and occupied the throne while Buddha was living. In his early life he was malicious to Buddha. Later he understood his fault and being repented he sought the shelter of Buddha. He was also a lay follower of Buddha. Ajatasattu shifted the capital of Magadha to Pataliputta. At that time Pataliputta earned fame as the seat for learning.

3. Kasi: Kasi was a developed and rich state in the ancient India. Kasi was renowned for the development of education, crafts and arts. Varanasi was the capital of Kasi. It was the renowned city at that time. Buddha delivered his first sermon ‘Dhammacakkapavattana Sutta’ (Foundation of the wheel of the Law) to the first five disciples (Pancavaggiya Sissa) at Migadava of Isipatana of Saranatha in Varanasi. Buddha delivered his sermon for ten times in the different places of Varanasi. Buddha observed his first rain-retreat (vassavasa) here. Many kings of this state were termed as Brahmadatta. During the contemporary time of Buddha this state was included in Kosala and became renowned as Kasi-Kosala.
4. Kosala: Kosala was a kingdom surrounded by rivers. It was surrounded by the river Sumati on its west, by the river Sappika or Sandika River on its south, by the river Sadanira on its east and by the hilly areas of Nepal on its north. The capital of Kosala was Sravatthi. In the Pali language it is pronounced as Savatthi. A saint named Savatha was here. According to the opinion of many it was called Savatthi as it was his birthplace. Again according to the opinion of many, it was called Savatthi as everything was available in this town. It stood on the bank of the river Aciravati which is presently known as river Rapti. King Prasenjit ruled here during the contemporary time of Buddha. He had much contribution in the propagation of the Buddhism. A renowned merchant who was the follower of the Buddha lived in the capital Savatthi of Kosala state. Their names were Anathapindika and Visakha. The merchant built Jetavana Monastery and the great devotee Visakha built the Pubbarama Vihara and donated to Buddha and his Bhikkhu-sangha. Buddha observed twenty five rain-retreats (vassavasa) in Savatthi. He delivered many sermons in Savatthi. Ayodhya and Saket, the famous cities of ancient India, were situated in Kosala.

5. Vajji: This kingdom was extended to the north of the river Ganges up to the hilly areas of Nepal. It was surrounded by the river Gandaka in its west and by the rivers Kosi and Mahananda on its east. Vesali was the capital. Vesali was a very prosperous city during the time of the Buddha. The Vajjis were a very disciplined nation. They accomplished all the works unitedly. Buddha praised this sort of behaviour of the Vajjis.

Once upon a time everybody in the capital Vesali of Vajji kingdom became puzzled at the fear of epidemic, famine and ghosts. Even the king himself could not take any step. Being helpless they invited Buddha who was the welwisher of all living beings with his disciples. Buddha accepted the invitation of the people of Vajji. The king of Vajji took all the initiative to bring Buddha in his kingdom with due respect. It rained heavily at the arrival of Buddha. This caused the flow of water. The rotten dead bodies, bad smell and wastes were vanished. Lord Buddha ordered Ananda Thera to move round the four sides of Vesali and to recite Ratanasutta. After the recitation of the Sutta, they were relieved of the three fears. On the occasion of the arrival of Buddha shrines (cetiyas) were built in the different places of Vesali. Lord Buddha preached here Satta Aparihaniya Sutta to the inhabitants of Vajji for the prosperity of the kingdom. Buddha observed the last rain-retreat in Vesali.

6. Malla: Malla kingdom was situated in the east of Vajji kingdom and in the west of Kosala kingdom. Buddha had travelled many times through the kingdom of Malla. The road to Magadha and Kosala was through the kingdom of Malla. The capital of the Mallas was Kusinara. It is also called Kusinagara. It was situated on the bank of the river Hirannavati. The present name of the river is sona. Gautama Buddha attained the Great Passing Away (Mahaparinibbana) in the Sal forest of Kusinara. After performing the funeral ceremonies Drona Brahmin divided Buddha’s relics into eight parts and built shrines (cetiyas) on them. Afterwards Emperor Asoka built a large Parinibbana statue of Buddha here.

7. Ceti: Kingdom Ceti or Cedi was situated by the side of Kuru kingdom on the bank of the river Jamuna. The capital of Ceti was Sothivati or Svastivati. It is now situated in the Northern Province of India. ‘Sibi’ described in the Vessantara Jataka was closely attached to it. There was a close relationship between the kingdoms of Kasi and Ceti. Traces are not found about the incidents associated with the life of Buddha.
8. Vamsa: Vamsa kingdom was situated on the south bank of the river Ganges. Kosambi or the present Kosama near Allahabad was its capital. A king named Udayana reigned here during the time of Buddha. He was very ease-loving and pleasure-seeking. He knew the incantation of entrapping elephants. He became the lay disciple of Buddha through a Bhikkhu named Pindala Bharadvaja. The chief queen Samavati and chief nurse Khujjattara of king Udayana were the followers of Buddha. Queen Samavati built a monastery in this garden and gifted it to Buddha and his disciples. The name of the monastery was Ghositarama. Out of respect to Buddha king Udayana built a statue of red sandal wood here in the life time of the Buddha.

9. Kuru: Indraprastha was the capital of Kuru kingdom. It is now situated in the Indrapat area of the present Delhi. A king named Pouravya reign during the time of Buddha. Buddha visited the town of Kuru many times. Buddha delivered sermons here for four times. Ratthropala, the distinguished rich young man of Kuru initiated into Bhikkhuhood under from Buddha.

10. Pancala: Pancala comprised Rohilakhanda and a part Middle Doara. The river Ganges divided the kingdom into two parts. One was North Pancala and the other was South Pancala. Ahicchatra or Chatravati was the capital of North Pancala. It is now known as Ramanagara. Kampillya was the capital of South Pancala. It seems that the kingdom had little influence during the time of Buddha. No references about the people and the city are found in the Pali literature.

11. Matsya: Matsya kingdom comprised the hilly areas of Cambala beside Ceti kingdom and the forest situated on the bank of the river Sarasvati. At the middle was the ‘Virata Nagar (biggest town)’ having the dignity of the capital. It is now Bairat of Jaypur. It is known that the Buddha had visited this kingdom several times. Some famous stone inscriptions of Emperor Asoka have been found in the town Bairat.

12. Surasena: It is the kingdom situated on the bank of the Jamuna. Mathura was the capital of it. King Avantiputta reigned during the time of Buddha. He was contemporary of Mahakacchayana, the disciple of Buddha. He was one of the worshippers of Buddha. Buddhism developed in Mathura region under the patronage of this king.

13. Assaka: Ashmaka or Assaka was situated on the bank of the river. Potali, Potana or Padona was the capital of the state. It is not known much about. An ascetic named Babari lived here. He along with his disciple took initiation into Buddha's religion.
14. Avanti: Avanti kingdom was comprised the area from Mandhata of Normada Valley to Mahesvara and adjacent districts. Ujjayini was the capital of it. Candrapajjota was the king during the time of the Buddha. No information is found about the number of the visit of Buddha here. But Mahakacchayana, the son of the priest of the king, was a renowned disciple of the Buddha.

15. Gandhara: Gandhar had the reputation as the breeding centre of art and culture in the ancient India. Taxila was the capital of Gandhara. A king named Pukkussati reigned here during the time of Buddha. Leaving his kingdom in the old age he went to Rajgaha on foot and entered into the Bhikkhusangha of Buddha. Taxila, the capital of Gandhara was the centre of various learning. The renowned physician Jivaka studied medical science here. The university of Taxila was the most ancient and renowned university. Taxila is now in Pakistan.

16. Komboja: Comboja kingdom was situated near Gandhara to the north and west of present India and Pakistan. Two names are mentioned as the capital of Comboja. They are Dvaraka and Rajpur. Monarchy was prevailing in the kingdom of Comboja. The names of two kings, Candra Varmana and Sudakhkhina in this kingdom are known so far. It is not known about the king who reigned during the time of Buddha. There was a town named Kukktutavati. Mahakappina was the ruler of the town. He was also entitled as king. Realizing the quality and greatness of the teachings of Buddha, king Mahakappina with his councils went to the bank of the river chandrabhaga and became the disciples of the Buddha.

| Exercise Work |
| Make a list of the names of kings and the capitals of the sixteen great territories. |

A short introduction to different kings and their contributions:

Among the kings who were contemporary of the Buddha and contributed much for the welfare of the Buddhism and became famous, king Bimbisara was one of the most worthy of them. He was the king of Magadha. He met Siddhartha Gautama before the enlightenment. At that time Siddhartha was observing a vow of asceticism and was trying to find out the way to get rid of sufferings. For that he was wandering India. Seeing the beautiful, well formed body of Siddhartha Gautama, king Bimbisara wished to offer him the post of the commander-in-chief. In reply Gautama said, ‘I am the son of king Sudhdhodana of Kapilavatthu comprised in the kingdom of Kasala. I have taken asceticism to find out the way to get rid of sufferings.’ Then king Bimbisara told him that he would take refuge in him if he obtained enlightenment. Truly the king Bimbisara took refuge in him after attaining his enlightenment. He circulate a degree in his kingdom to provide appropriate honour to Buddha and his disciples. As a result hospitality and honorium of the Bhikkhus increased. Many people accepted the life of the Bhikkhus to avail themselves of this opportunity. King Bimbisara informed Buddha of the matter. In this situation, Buddha advised not to give ordination to royal servants, thieves, robbers, convicted criminals and debtors. At the request of king Bimbisara, Buddha introduced Upasatha and religious discussion on the time of Amavasya, Purnima and Astami.
There is a reference in the Mahavagga that once Pilindavatsa Thera was cleaning a hill at Rajageha. Seeing this king Bimbisara asked Pilindavatsa Thera about it and he came to learn that he was preparing the dwelling places for the Bhikkhus. King Bimbisara said that he would make arrangements for this if Lord Buddha gave his consent. In due time Buddha gave the consent. But the king was forgetful of this promise. He suddenly recalled it after many days. Then he called the main councillor and asked him, ‘I told the Bhikkhus that I would build dwelling houses for them. Had this work been finished?’ The councillor answered ‘no’. Then the king said, ‘How many nights have passed after the promise?’ Counting the days the councillor said, ‘Five hundred nights.’ Then he ordered to build five hundred Aramas (monasteries) for the Bhikkhus. With the passage of time that place became famous as ‘Pilindavatsa Village.’

Ajatasattu became the king after Bimbisara. Being instigated by Devadatta he was malicious to Buddha. After his father’s death he became repentant and took refuge in Buddha. The first great Buddhist Council was held under the patronage of Ajatasattu after three months of the Parinibbana of Lord Buddha. The teachings or words of Buddha were compiled in that council. Because of that the name of Ajatasattu has become immortal in the history of Buddhism.

Afterwards, the second great Buddhist Council was held under the patronage of king Kalasoka of Magadha after one hundred years of the Parinibbana of Lord Buddha and the third great Buddhist Council was held under the patronage of Emperor Asoka after two hundred and eighteen years. The importance of these great Buddhist Councils is much in collecting, preserving and compiling the teachings of Buddha. These great Buddhist Councils have special contributions in the propagation of Buddhism. It was never possible to arrange the great Councils without the patronage of the kings. The followers of the Buddhism still remember the contributions of the kings in arranging the Councils with respect.

Besides, among the other kings, king Prasenjit of Kosala and king Prodyut of Ujjayani were the worshippers of Buddha. They were contemporaries of Buddha. At that time, they assisted in developing the religion and philosophy of Buddha in many ways with due respect.

Exercise Work
Make a list of the names of the kings who patronized the Buddhism.

Lesson: 3
The Maurya Period

Chandragupta was the first king of the Maurya dynasty. He was the founder of the Maurya Empire. Mauryas belonged to the clan of Surya. The Maurya dynasty originated from the prince Mandhyatri of Surya clan. The Mauryas were democratic rulers in the six century B.C. They along with the other territories of East India included in the kingdom of Magadha. Then the king of Magadha was from the clan of Nanda. At that time Chandragupta developed a relationship with a famous Brahmin. His name was Kauṭilya who was also known as Chanakya or Vishnugupta. With the assistance of Chanakya Chandragupta defeated the king of the clan of Nanda and obtained the throne of Magadha. King Chandragupta was an efficient warrior as well as an efficient ruler. He specially followed the principles of Economics written by his minister Kauṭilya.

Chandragupta took the first initiative to evict the Greek rulers from the Indian Sub-Continent after the death of Greek Emperor Alexander. He declared a war against the Greeks. He occupied many kingdoms by defeating the Greeks. At first, he created a conflict and then established friendship with Seleukos, the follower of Alexander. Seleukos sent an envoy named Megasthenes to the court of Chandragupta to establish friendship, Seleukos handed over Kandahar, Kabul, Hirat and Beluchistan to Chandragupta Maurya. Chandragupta Maurya gifted Seleckos five hundred elephants. Megasthenes later wrote a book about these historical events. The name of the book is ‘Indica’. The main copy of the book is not found now. The famous biographers Plutarch, Justine and Arabian the writers who wrote on historical matters of the second century had used quotations from ‘Indica’ in their writings.

Chandragupta was the follower of Jainism. He reigned for twenty four years. It is said that once the kingdom was stricken with famine. Chandragupta enthroned his son and went to Mahishur. He died there. Bindusara was the son of Chandragupta Maurya. He ascended the throne as an heir of Chandragupta. He was a good ruler. Kauṭilya performed the duty of the minister for some days during the reign of Bindusara. Bindusara did not take arms in his hands being fascinated by the desire of extending the kingdom. Following his father he kept intact the friendship with the Greeks. Bindusara was peace-loving and had passion for education. During the reign of Bindusara the subjects revolted in Taxila. King Bindusara sent Prince Asoka there. Asoka managed the revolt peacefully. Except Asoka king Bindusara had many sons and daughters. He reigned for twenty five years. Afterwords son Asoka ascended the throne as he died of old age complications.

Asoka, the son of Bindusara, became famous as ‘Emperor Asoka’ because of the extension of the kingdom and heroism and strength. At first emperor Asoka did not pay much attention to the Buddhism. After the Kalinga war he showed interest in the precepts and principles of Buddha. More than one lakh people were killed in the Kalinga war. A change came in the mind of Asoka after this tragic war. Then hearing the precepts and sermons of Buddha from Nigrodha Samanera, he became one of the worshippers of Buddha. He was then named Dhammasoka. There was another title also ‘Devanam Piya Piyadasi’ meaning king Priyadarshi the dear of the gods. He followed the teachings of Buddha properly.

The contributions of the Maurya Dynasty in the propagation of the Buddhism:

After being the follower of the Buddhism, illustrious emperor Asoka of the Maurya dynasty paid close attention to the welfare of the mass people. He appointed the officers named Dhammamahamatra for the propagation of the religion among the people. He wrote the teachings of Bhuddha everywhere in the kingdom to preach religion and to educate. These were inscribed in the slopes of the mountains, at the top of the hills and in the caves. In this way he disseminated the inscriptions throughout his empire. These are known as Asoka Rock Edicts. So far 34 Rock Edicts of Emperor Asoka have been discovered. The essence of these inscription were: to respect the elders: to show compassion to living beings: to donate the poor, Bhikkhu sramonas; to behave well with the relatives, friends and servants, to speak the truth etc. He was generous to all religions. People of all religion lived happily in his Empire. He donated everyone liberally. He identified the sacred places intertwined with the memory of Buddha and built monasteries, shrines and pillars there.
He arranged tour in the kingdom with a vow to serve and for the welfare of the people. This was called Dharmayatra (religious tour). During the religious tour he collected the sacred relics of Buddha from the different places of India. Then he constructed 84,000 stupas in the whole India and took step to preserve them. The purpose of this was to attract the people of the country to the ambrosial words of the Buddha. Another contribution was to arrange third Buddhist Council. This council was held in Pataliputra, the capital of Emperor Asoka’s kingdom. The Buddhist sangha was purified through this council. After compiling the real teachings of Buddha he propagated then in both the native country and foreign countries through the Dharmaduta (Missionaries). Asoka sent his son Mahinda and daughter Sanghamitta for the propagation of the Buddhism in Ceylon. King Tissa of Ceylon also took the title Devanam Piya in the honour of Asoka.

An inscription of Asoka records that he sent missionaries to central Asia, Europe, African continent and also Afganistan. His messages were translated in Greek language for the propagation. His empire extended upto Kandahar of Afganistan. The Rock Edicts of Emperor Asoka have also been found there. Besides India, the Buddhism spread in Java, Sumatra etc. Missionaries were sent to Tibet also.

The Mauryas reigned for about 137 years in Magadha. After the end of the Maurya Empire, the Sungas ascended the throne. They did not patronize the Buddhism. But still the Buddhism had its existence. Huen Tsang, in his travel account, has recorded of having witnessed the stupa constructed by the emperor Asoka in Bangladesh also.

Exercise Work

Which king’s contribution do you think greater in the propagation of the Buddhism of the Maurya dynasty and why?

Lesson : 4

The Kushana Period

The empire of Kushana dynasty was established in the first century A.D. Kujala Kadphises was the first king of the Kushana dynasty. This empire was formed with a region from Magadha to north-west India, some area of the Middle Asia and Afganistan. The greatest of all kings of this dynasty was Kanishka. Like Asoka he was not attracted to the Buddhism at first. He came in contact with Parshvaka Thera and became highly devoted to the Buddhism. He became very interested in propagating the Buddhism.

The contribution of emperor Kanishka in the propagation of the Buddhism:

During the reign of Kanishka, the Bhikkhu-sangha was divided into many Nikayas. Emperor Kanishka tried to bring unity among the Bhikhus. He convened a council by advising his preceptor Parshvaka. He brought all the monks representing different Buddhist sects together at Jalandhara. Among them five hundred monks were selected for holding the council. Emperor Kanishka built a beautiful house for them. The Council was held in this building which was afterward named Kundalavana Monastary. The precepts and sermons of Buddha were compiled in Sanskrit instead of Pali in this Council. A book of commentaries was written on the compiled Tipitaka. The name of the book is Vibhasastra. This Council is called Kanishka Council or Sarvastivadi Council. Kanishka built many stupas and shrines for the expansion of the Buddhist religion. He sent missionaries to China and Middle Asia for the propagation of the Buddhism. The great poet Asvaghosa and famous philosopher Basumitra wrote many books during the reign of Kanishka. Kanishka himself was a very scholarly and learned person. He inscribed advices on Rock Edicts in the different places of his empire. A large Rock Edict of this type has been found in Afghanistan. In the Rock Edict the references of building monastery is found.

After Kanishka, Fa-Hien came to visit India during the reign of Gupta Empire. He mentioned the flourishing of the Buddhism in Bangladesh. An image or a statue of the Bodhisattva was found at Mahasthangar of Bogra district. At the same time a Statue of Buddha was also found at Vihara of Rajshahi. It proves that the Buddhism was also spread in Bangladesh.

Exercise Work
Which contribution of Emperor Kanishka do you think important? Write down with your arguments.

Lesson: 5
The Pala Period

Anarchics were created in the ruling system of Bengal in the eighth century. At that time there was no king in the country. The situation was under the control of the powerful people. This situation of anarchy and confusion was called ‘Matsaneyaya’. ‘Matsaneyaya’ means the worst condition of having no rules and regulations. That is to say, the large fishes devour small fishes indiscriminately and like this the strong people oppressed and sucked the weak people in the Bengal during the eighth century. This situation is called ‘Matsaneyaya’. Being desperate, the people of Bengal made Gopala their king. He was the founder of the Pala dynasty. He became king in 750 A.D.

The name of the father of king Gopal was Bappata Deva. He was the grandson of Davitavishnu of Gaura. Gopal reigned for about twenty years. He was the first elected democratic king of Bengal. After his death his son Dharmapala became the king. Vikramala monastery, Somprat Monastery and many other Buddhist religious institutions were established during the reign of King Dharmapala. Devapala became the heir of Dharmapala. In this way the Pala Dynasty ruled Bengal for four hundred years. Eighteen kings of the Pala dynasty ruled from one generation to another, the names of Mahipala, Rampala, Nayapala and Madanapala are especially renowned among the kings of the next generation. Govindapala was the last king of the Pala dynasty.

All the kings of the Pala dynasty were the followers of the Buddhism. But they were respectful to other religions and gave necessary support. At that time Bengal established communication with Java in Asia, Sumatra and Bali Islands. The Buddhism spread in these areas earlier. During the Pala Dynasty, the religious and cultural ties became strong with these regions.
The History of Buddhism

The contributions of the Pala dynasty in the propagation of the Buddhism:

The mentionable monasteries established during the beginning of the Pala dynasty were Odantapuri Vihara, Vikramasila Vihara, Sompuri Vihara, Pandit Vihara and Jagaddala Vihara. King Mahipala renovated many monasteries in the regions of Saranatha and Buddha-yagaya and built new monasteries.

In this period Atisha Dipankara Srigyana, a Bengali Scholar, wrote two hundred books on different topics. He went to Tibet to propagate the Buddhism at the invitation of the king of Tibet. He delivered the ambrosial teachings of the Buddha to the superstition-ridden people of Tibet and led them to the path of the religion. The great monastery Nalanda was enriched much during the reign of Dharmapala. The glory of the great monasteries established by him spread in the outer world. Many Bhikkhus and Sramanas came to the monasteries to get education from Tibet and China. The monasteries were the roaming places for many famous Buddhists scholars. Staying in the monasteries the Tibetan and Indian scholars translated the books on Buddhism and carried them to Tibet, Kashmir, Nepal and China.

Bengali language originated during the Pala period. The first specimen of Bengali language – ‘Charjapada’ or ‘Baudhga Gan O Doha’ were written during this period. It is assumed that these were written from 8th to 11th century. The Buddhist sculptures and arts developed much in the Pals period. At this time Shaktas, Vaisnab and Brahmania religions also flourished. Although the kings of the Pala dynasty patronized the Buddhism, they also supported the other religions. Different religious and cultural traditions of Bengal flourished together in the Pala period.

Exercise Work
Make a list of the famous monasteries established in the Pala period.

Lesson: 6
Buddhism in Bangladesh

Pre-Modern Age: No specific information is found about when and how the Buddhism spread in Bangladesh. The hearsay is that the Buddhism spread in Bangladesh during the time of Buddha. It is known from the hearsay that the Buddha stayed for seven days in Karnasuvarna and Samatata; three months in Pandravardhana and propagated the religion. Karnasuvarna, Samatata and Pundabardhan were the ancient names of the different regions of Bengal. It is learnt from the books of ‘Mahavamsa’ and ‘Dipvamsa’ that Sona and Uttara Thera went to Myanmar to propagate the Buddhism. It is supposed that they went to Myanmar through Bangladesh and on the way propagated the Buddhism in Chittagong. It is assumed that Pandravardhana was under the rule of Emperor Asoka. It is known from the book ‘Asokavada’ that a Nigrantha drew a picture of Buddha and dishonoured it by trampling. Hearing the news Emperor Asoka gave him a severe punishment. Emperor Asoka propagated the Buddhism in the whole empire. It is assumed that the Buddhism spread also in the Pandravardhana regions for these reasons. An inscription was discovered at Sanchi, the famous archaeological place of the Buddhists. It is supposed that the inscription was of the second century B.C. From this inscription it is known that two inhabitants of the region Pandravardhana named Dharmadatta and Ishinandana (Rishinandana) donated money to build decorated gateway and the wall of the stupa at Sanchi. An inscription has been discovered from Nagarjunakunda a Buddhist archaeological sight. It is assumed that this Rock Edict is of the second century A.D. It is inscribed on the Rock Edict that Bengal was one of the centres of the Buddhism at that time.
The Chinese traveller Fa-Hien travelled the Tamralipti region of ancient Bengal in the early fourth-fifth century A.D. In his travel account he has mentioned that many Bhikkhus lived in 22 monasteries. Some other Chinese travellers visited Bengal at that time. Many copper inscriptions of the Gupta period have been discovered. The description that is found in the copper inscription about the condition of the Buddhism is similar to the description found in the accounts of the Chinese travellers. It is mentioned in the copper inscriptions that the great king Rudradatta donated eleven pataka lands for maintaining the monks and worshipping the Buddha with incense, candles and other things in the Asramavihara established by Mahayani Acariya Shantideva for the purpose of getting virtue. The Chinese traveler Huen Tsang visited Bangla at seven century A.D. and studied Buddhism and translated many books staying in various monasteries. It is known from his travelogue that there were 20 Sangharams and 3000 Bhikkhus both Mahayana and Hinayana in Pundrabardhana; 1000 Hinayana Bhikkhus at the 10 Sangharamas of Karnasubarn; 10 Sangharamas and 2000 Bhikkhus in Tamralipti; 30 Sangharamas and 2000 Bhikkhus lived in Samatata. Three were many famous monasteries in these areas. He also saw many stupas and tombs in these areas built by the Emperor Asoka.

The Buddhist dynasties such as the clans of Khagga, Deva, Chandra and Pala reigned Bengal from the seventh century to twelfth century. The Buddhism expanded much in Bengal because of their patronization. At that time Esoteric (Tantrik) Buddhism was very popular in Bengal. Many ancient monasteries; the statues of Buddha, Bodhisattva and gods and goddesses have been discovered because of the digging. It is realized from this that the Buddhism was a very popular religion in Bangla till the Pala period. From the above description it is realized that the sects of Hinayana, Mahayana and Tantrik Buddhism were prevailing in Bangladesh. The Tantrik Buddhist practitioner wrote the Charyapada—the first specimen of Bengali language.

The history of the Buddhism in Bengal from the Pala period to 18th century is obscure. At that time the Buddhists lost their glory due to political, religious and many other reasons. It is known that the Buddhists then lived in Chittagong, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Noakhali, Comilla and Patuakhali. Besides Rajshahi, Bogra, Naogon, Dinajpur were inhabited by the Buddhists.

There are many large and small ethnic groups among the Buddhists. They are Barua, Chakma, Marma, Rakha, Tanchangya, Khiyang, Chak etc. These Buddhist ethnic groups live in Chittagong and Chittagong Hill Tracts region. The other ethnic groups except the Baruas live mainly in Chittagong Hill Tracts regions. Besides the Chak, Khiyang, Tanchangya also live in this region. From the study of the history it is assumed that the Buddhists entitled ‘Barua’; came to Chittagong from Magadha through Assam, Comilla and Noakhali and started living there. In 1201 Bakhtiari khilji attacked Magadha (presently the state of Bihar). Laksman sen was then the ruler of Bengal and Magadha. Laksman sen was defeated by Bakhtiari Khalji. Then a group of the Buddhists went to the east side. It is learnt that they were the ancestors of the Buddhists of Comilla, Noakhali and Chittagong. Comilla region was then under the rule of Pattikera kings. The Pattikera king Ranavankemalla was a Buddhist. He reigned from 1204 A.D. to 1220 A.D. Lalmoi Mainamati of Comilla was then a prosperous kingdom. The name of that region was Samatata. The glory of Salban Monastery and Pattikera monastery in Mainamati was intact.

At present the Buddhists of Comilla are entitled as ‘Singha’ which means the most superior. The word Singha is used with the names of the Sakyas. The Buddha was called Sakya Singha. The Buddhists of Comilla think that they are the descendants of Sakya Singha Buddha. The titles Choudhury, Talukder and Mutsuddi are also prevailing among the Buddhists.

In the 18th century the Buddhists of Arakan ruled Chittagong. Chakma king Shermusta Khan was the ruler of Chittagong then. He was under the Arakanese king. Chakmas believe that Champaka Nagara was their first dwelling place and they came to Chittagong from there. Though there are controversies, the Chakmas believe that Champaka Nagara was in the region of Magadha in India.
Again according to the opinion of many it is somewhere near Comilla. Some others believe it to be somewhere east of Myanmar. Shermusta khan reigned from 1737 A.D. to 1758 A.D. In 1757 the British defeated Sirajadoula in the battle of Palassey and got the jurisdiction of Bengal, Bihar and Orissa. The Chakma king was engaged in battle with the British upto 1877. His kingdom then was extended upto Lusai hills on the north, Dhaka Trunk Road on the south, the river Shankha on the east and the river Feni on the west.

During this period Chakma, Chak, Khiyang, Tanchanga and Barua Buddhists lived in Chittagong. All of them were the followers of the Buddhism. Besides Hindu, Muslim and Christians also lived there. Chittagong and Chittagong Hill Tracts then constituted one district or region.

Around 1774 Marmas settled in Ramu and Matamuhuri region. After 30 years they established their kingdom in Bandarban. Around 1784 the Rakhain Buddhists from Arakan started settling in Patuakhali area of Barisal. Some Marmas and Rakhains came to Dhaka as Chittagong region was under the influence of the Buddhists. Bara Maghbazar and Maghbazar in Dhaka bear the testimony of this. The name of Dhamrai region of Dhaka has been originated from the word Dharmarajika. The ancient name Savar was Sahor. The ruins of an ancient monastery have been discovered here. Atish Dipankara studied in this monastery.

In the eighteenth century the Baruas lived in the regions of Rangunia, Rauzan, Phatikchari, Sitakunda, Boalkhali, Patiya, Satkania and Banskhali. Barua, Marma and Rakhain together had the dominance in Cox’s Bazar and Teknaf region.

The capital of Chakma kingdom in Chittagong was at first somewhere near Satkania or near Ramu. The word ‘Satkania’ had been derived from the ‘Sat Konna’ (seven daughters) or ‘Chakma Rajkonnya’ (Chakma princess). There is still a place named ‘Chakma kula’ in Ramu Police Station.

In 1785, the capital of Chakma kingdom was established in the village Rajanagara of Rangunia Police Station. In 1869 the capital of Chakma kingdom was shifted to Rangamati from Rajanagar as the District Headquarters of Chittagong Hill Tracts was shifted to Rangamati from Chandraghona.

Exercise Work
Write down the names of the Buddhists ethnic groups.

The Modern Age: The Buddhism like the other religions is practised in Bangladesh with due honour. The followers of the Buddhism of this country, like the other religious communities, are the citizens of an independent and sovereign country. To follow the religion by keeping fraternity and friendship with all is one of the traditions of the Buddhists. Following this tradition the Buddhists have been observing the social and religious rituals with due respect.
Buddhist religion and moral education

It is essential to know the history of Chakma, Marma and Barua Buddhists if we want to know the history of Bangladesh. The Buddhists ethnical groups live in the three hilly districts - Rangamati, Banderban and Khagrachari, some Rakhains live in Patuakhali, Barguna regions. The Buddhists entitled Barua, Chaudhury and Singha live in Chittagong, Noakhali, Comilla regions. The history of them is the history of the Buddhists of Bangladesh.

Chakma king Janbakhs died in 1800 A.D. He fought against the British throughout his life. Dharam Bakhs Khan became the king after the death of Janbakhs Khan. After his death Rani Kalindi reigned. The British did not acknowledge her as the Queen for a long time. In 1844, being the head of the hilly circles, she was acknowledged as the Queen officially by the British. She reigned till 1873. In 1860 the British formed Chittagong Hill Tracts comprising the hilly regions.

During the time of the British rule, the Chakmas showed interest in English education like the other communities. They even started visiting Kolkata to get education. The Buddhists left for Arakan, Rengun, Kolkata, Tripura and Assam for the purpose of trade, business and jobs. In the 19th century the Buddhists of Bangladesh departed for the regions enriched in economy and industry-under the rule of the British. By engaging themselves in business as well as government and non-government services and in the professions of doctors, engineers, lawyers, teachers, the Buddhists of Bangladesh have been attaining the economic prosperity. As a result they start practicing religion with a new vigour in order to develop their moral and human qualities. The Buddhist monks play a very important role to make it successful.

During the British period an urge to be self-reliant was created among the Buddhists, and it developed much more in the Pakistani period. The main reason of this fact was the right instructions given by the prudent Buddhist monk and the spontaneous participation of the Buddhists household. 'Unity is strength' – realizing this truth they have started to work together. But they felt that it is not possible to prosper being dependent. So they were united with the people of all religions and took preparation for participating in the liberation war. They participated in the liberation war of 1971 to establish an independent Bangladesh. For this they fell under the wrath of the Pakistani soldiers. They killed the Buddhists, looted their wealth and raped their mothers and sisters. They destroyed the monasteries and the statues of Buddha. But being inspired with the spirit of independence and infused with a new life they engage themselves in constructing the country again. With the urge of living freely in a free country they have been participating in all creative activities and have been enriching the country in many ways. The Buddhist Monks and laities have formed different organizations and they are contributing in the development of the country. The Government of Bangladesh is cooperating in many ways for the development of the religion and culture of the Buddhists.

In 1984 the Bangladesh Government has constituted the ‘Buddhist Welfare Trust’ for the welfare of the Buddhists. There are also arrangements for the certificate Examinations on the Pali language and literature from the Board of Sanskrit and Pali Education, Bangladesh. There are almost 115 Pali toles and colleges under it. There are opportunities of studying in BA (Honours), M.A., M.Phil and Ph.D courses in the University level.

The Buddhists have many religious and cultural organizations. Chittagong Buddhist Association is the oldest one. It was established in 1887. In 1950 the Bouddha Kristi
The History of Buddhism

Procter Sangha was established. Besides these there are some other Buddhist organizations such as Parbatya Buddha Sangha, Bangladesh Sangharaj Bhikkhu Mahasabha, Bangladesh Baudhia Bhikkhu Mahasabha, Rakhain-Marma Sangha Council, Bangladesh Baudha Juba Parishad, Bangladesh Buddhist Federation, Bangladesh Marma Buddhist Association, Uttarvanga Baudha Parishad, etc.

Because of the archaeological excavations the ruins of many ancient monasteries have been discovered in Comilla, Bogra, Dinajpur, Naogaon, Rajshahi, Savar, Narsingdi, and Chittagong of Bangladesh. They bear the testimonies of the past glories of the Buddhists. The archaeological significance of them is great. Among them the Sompura Vihara has been declared as the ‘World Heritage Site’ by UNESCO.

Tourists from the different countries of the world visit Bangladesh to see the ruins of the ancient monasteries. As a result the acquaintance and honour of Bangladesh increase in the world. The Government of Bangladesh is preserving the ancient Buddhist relics. There are many monasteries in the different areas of Bangladesh now. Many monasteries have become renowned for many reasons. Among them Thegorpun Bura Gosai Monastery of Patiya in Chittagong, Pahartali Mahamuni Monastery, Unainpura Lankaram Monastery, Pharchin Monastery of Bagwan, Nandan Kanan Monastery in Chittagong City, Nava Pandit Monastery, Raojan Sudarshan Monastery, Kaptai Chitmaram Monastery, Rajban Nonastary at Rangamati, Cox’s Bazar Aggamedha Buddhist Monastery, Bandarban Rajabazaar, Ujanpura Buddhist Monastery at Banderban, Swarna Mandir at Bandarban, Romkot Bihar at Ramu, Manikchari Rajban Monastery, Dharmarajik Buddhist Mahavihara in Dhaka are mentionable.

Fairs are closely associated with the Buddhist religious tradition. Now many fairs are held centering on the Buddhist Monastaries. The fairs are considered unique source of the Buddhist culture as religious functions, religious dramas, songs and the Buddha Kirtanas (Buddhist devotional song) are held in these fairs. Among them the noteworthy are: Chakrasala Mela, Rangamati Rajban Vihar Mela, Manikpur Parinirvan Mela, Masadia Chaitya Mela, Thegorpun Buragosai Mela, Binajuri Parinirvan Mela, Ichamati Dhutuchaita Mela, Lahichhari Buddha Mela, Shilghata Parinirban Mela, Aburkhol Kendriya Jogendra Baudha Vihara Mela, Pacharai Baish Buddh Mela etc.

The practice of the religion and culture of the Buddhists started in Dhaka in 1950. The Buddhists who live in Dhaka for the sake of service observed different religious programmes. Later in 1960 the renowned Dharmarajik Buddhist Monastery was established in Dhaka. The atmosphere of practicing the religion and culture of the Buddhists in Dhaka was created permanently through this. Now-a-days many monasteries have been established in Dhaka and they are contributing much in the development of the Buddhist religion and culture. Among them Shakyamuni Baudhia Vihara, Antarjatik Baudha Vihara, Bangladesh Baudha Mahavihara, Dharmajyoti Baudha Vihara, Savar Rajban Vihara are mentionable. Many Buddhist monks and domestics played an important role in building the Buddhist society during the British, Pakistan and Bangladesh period. The Buddhist community is playing a very significant role in the development of art, literature, culture and economy of Bangladesh side by side with the other religious communities though they are small in number.

University of Dhaka

Exercise Work

Write down the names of the monasteries where the fairs are held.
Buddhist religion and moral education

Exercise

Fill in the gaps
1. During the time of the Buddha there were ................. territories or kingdoms in India.
2. Gautama Buddha was born in ................. A.D.
3. ............. had a great fame in the development of education and art.
4. The language ................. was originated in the Pala period.
5. ................. was the last king of the Pals dynasty.

Short Questions
1. What did the kings receive from the people as revenue during Pre-Buddha Era?
2. Which branches of learnings were prevailing in India during Gautama Buddha
3. What is religious tour?
4. What is Charyapada?

Essay type questions
2. Give a description of the sixteen territories.
3. Give a description of some of the Buddhist archaeological specimen of Bangladesh.
4. Write down the names of the titles used by the Buddhists.

Multiple choice questions
1. Which one is the capital of Kasi?
   a) Champa city   b) Vesali
   c) Varanasi   d) Savatthi

2. The reason of the fame of Gandhara territory –
   i) as it was the centre of learning
   ii) as it was the centre of rearing art and culture
   iii) as it was for the beautification of the capital.

Which one is correct?
   a) i and ii   b) ii and iii
   c) i and iii   d) i, ii and iii
The History of Buddhism

Give answer to the questions no 3 and 4 from the following chart:

Building of monasteries,

Sending missionaries

Contribution

Collecting the sacred remains of the Buddha

Arranging religious tour

3. The contribution of which dynasty has been meant by the sign ‘?’ –
   a) Pala  b) Maurya
   c) Modern  d) Kushana

4. A ruler of that dynasty arranged a Council and that is –
   a) 1st Council  b) 2nd Council
   c) 3rd Council  d) 4th Council

Creative Questions

1. | Serial No | Name of the dynasty | Ruling Period |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1.</td>
<td>Pala</td>
<td>400 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.</td>
<td>Maurya</td>
<td>137 years</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

a) Who was the most superior king of the Kushana dynasty?

b) Describe any one territory of the sixteen great territories.

c) The king of which dynasty described in the chart played a role in alleviating ‘the rule Matsa Neyaya’? Explain according to the text.

d) The contribution of the kings of this dynasty has become memorable in the history of the Buddhism-Do you agree with the view? Put arguments.

2. Sudarshan Chowdhury, the Polla Mayor of Rangunia was incomparable in truthfulness and charity. He had respect for all religions. He liked to donate freely. He always made inquiries about the conditions of the poor people in his area. He tried to solve the problems.

   a) Who was the first king of the Mauraya dynasty?

   b) Why did Ajatasattu become repentant after killing his father?

   c) The characteristics of which king during the time of the Buddha had the similarity with Sudarshan Chaudhury-Explain.

   d) The purpose of the activities of Sudarshan Chowdhury was to attract the people of the area to the benevolent teachings of the Buddha. Justify the statement in the light of the textbook.
Chapter Twelve

The Daily Activities and Duties of the Buddhists

Bhikkhus and Devotees

Everyone has to perform some daily duties systematically in order to live a beautiful life. Some of the works are related with the physical fitness. Some are for living religious and moral life. Some are related with education and earning. These are commonly known as daily work and daily religious rites. There are some daily religious rites for the Monks and Buddhists to be performed. Besides, there are some instructions of Buddha which are mandatory to perform. In this chapter we will learn about the daily religious rites and mandatory instructions for the monks and the Buddhists.

At the end of this chapter we will be able to-

* Describe the daily religious rites and instructions for the monks;
* Mention essential doings of the monks;
* Describe the obligatory daily religious rites and instructions;
* Explain the contents and teachings of the Sapta Aparihaniya with its background.

Lesson: 1

The Daily activities and the duties of the Buddhist Monks

The persons who have accepted the order of the religious mendicants giving up the domestic life, are known as Bhikkhus (monks), Samaneras (ascetics) in the Buddhism. Their object is to maintain the state of continence and chastity and to seek the way to Nirvana. It is also the duty of the Bhikkhus and Samaneras to propagate the Buddhist’s doctrine to all people. Tathagata Buddha summoned this in His Dhammacakra Pravartana Sutta. He instructed many rules and regulations for the Bhikkhus and Samaneras for living a beautiful life. These have been depicted in the Vinaya Pitaka.

Anyone can have the entrance to the Buddhist Sangha by becoming Bhikkhu or Samanera. But they can not the Samanera until the age of seven and can not be the Bhikkhu if his age is less than twenty. Samanera means apprentice. To become a Samanera one has to be ordained in Samaneradhamma and take order of a religious mendicant. He has to be introduced to the rules of the continence and chastity and has to be complied with them. After that one can be the Bhikkhu from the Samanera. The Buddha has directed some deeds and instructions as mandatory for the Bhikkhus and Samaneras. These are known as daily religious rites and instructions. The description of the daily religious rites and instructions of the Bhikkhus and Samaneras is given below:
The Ten Precepts or Dasasila:

The Samaneras have to accept Ten Precepts (Dasasila) with Trisarana everyday. The observance of the Ten Precepts is compulsory daily religious rites for the Samaneras. The Ten Precepts are to avoid the following habits of: 1. killing, 2. theft, 3. adultery, 4. telling lies, 5. drinking of wine, 6. taking food at afternoon, 7. passion for music and dance, 8. using perfumes and garlands, 9. lying down in luxurious bed, 10. acceptance of gold and silver.

The thought of supervision:

The Bhikkhus and Samaneras should think about the food, dwelling places, clothes and medicine—the four basic elements essential for maintaining life before taking them. These are known as the thoughts of supervision. There are:

1. The thought of supervision about Civara: the Bhikkhus and Samaneras have to think about the wearing of Civara in that way: ‘I am wearing this Civara to protect from the bites of the insects, reptiles; to prevent cold and hot, dust and shame not to create Pancakamaguna.’

2. Thought of supervision about Pindapata: the Bhikkhus and Samaneras have to think during taking food in that way: ‘I am taking food only to maintain life, not to beautify the body and to encrease physical strength.’

3. Thought of supervision about Sayanasan: the Bhikkhus and Samaneras have to think in this way while lying down: ‘This lying down is only to prevent cold and heat, to protect from the attacks of insects, bites, dust, sunrays, reptiles and to accomplish the concentration of the mind not to pass time unnecessarily in idleness or sleep.

4. Thought of supervision about Gilano Prattoy Bhikkhus and Samaneras have to think in that way while taking medicine: ‘I am taking this medicine according to the requirement to cure disease. There is no other bad intention.’

The thoughts of supervision while taking the above mentioned basic elements are called ‘the present thought of supervision.’

One should do the thoughts of supervision before the sun rising, after taking mid-day meal and during the evening prayer. These will be incorporated into theft and debt if any person enjoys these without thinking so. The thought of supervision produces the cause of destruction of greed-malice-illusion.

The four things which should not be done:

The Bhikkhus and Samaneras have to abstain themselves from doing four things which are known as ‘Cari Akoroniyo’. These are 1. not to commit adultery, 2. not to commit theft, 3. not to kill living beings, 4. not to claim as having supernatural power, the fourth instruction was introduced during the famine at Vesali. At that some Bhikkhus claimed themselves to be the possessors of god gifted power. By circulating this they drew the attention of the householders and collected food. So Buddha ascribed some rules and regulations to abstain them from circulating and showing the supernatural power.

Food:

The Bhikkhus take single meal a day. But they have to complete taking meal before noon or before 12 o’clock. Generally the Bhikkhus and Samaneras live on begging. But the Bhikkhus and Samaneras can take meal going to the house of the laymen if they are invited on the occasion of religious festivals.
The articles of everyday use:
The three robes (three Cīvāra) such as Sanghati, Uttarasangha and Antorbas (under garments), alms bowl, razor, needle and thread, girdle and water strainer are the eight daily necessary articles that can be used by the Bhikkhus and Samaneras. Buddha has directed that these articles are sufficient for the Bhikkhus and Samaneras to live.

The Practice of Self-Control:
Taking of gold and silver is absolutely forbidden for the Bhikkhus. If any laity offers those, the Bhikkhus can not possess them. Either he has to return it to the giver or donate it to others. If he donates these to the laymen, he can take other articles of daily necessities in exchange. But the Bhikkhus can not take them for themselves. He can take there things for other Bhikkhus or the Bhikkhusangha. The Bhikkhusangha can take the immovable things like land, monasteries for the development of the rule of Buddha. The kings, emperors and laymen donated in this way during the time of Buddha. But these properties will be counted as the properties of the Sangha.

Panca Bhavana (The Five Thoughts):
The Panca Bhavana or five thoughts is a Bhavana or meditation that is to be done everyday by the Bhikkhus and Samaneras. Metta Bhavana (Meditation of Loving-kindness), Karuna Bhavana (Meditation of compassion), Mudita Bhavana (Meditation of sympathetic joy), Asubha Bhavana (Meditation of Profane things), Upekkha (Meditation of neither attachment nor aversion) - these are known as ‘Panca Bhavana or Five thoughts’. The Bhikkhu-Samanera practises this meditation day and night sitting in a solitary place. Panca Bhavana or Five thoughts abstain themselves from greed, lust, malice, hostility and sexual appetite.

Panca Bhavan or the Five Thoughts are:
Metta Bhavana (Meditation of Loving-Kindness): Let all living beings are free from enemies, danger, disease, fear and live in happiness - this benefactory thinking is known as Metta Bhavana.
Karuna Bhavana (Meditation of Compassion): Wishing emancipation from sufferings being sad at the sufferings of the others is called ‘Karuna Bhavana’.
Mudita Bhavana (Meditation of Sympathetic joy): To feel happiness in mind seeing the beauty, honour, profit, wealth and fortune of others is known as Mudita Bhavana. No living being may not be deprived from the property that he deserves -is the main desire of Mudita Bhavana.
Asubha Bhavana (Meditation of Profane things): The human body is the container of diseases and impurities and subjugated to impermanence and death. By doing meditation on those things is called ‘Asubha Bhavana’.
Upekkha Bhavana (meditation of neither attachment nor aversion): To think about the eight types of worldly matters such as loss and profit, honour and dishonour, disrepute and praise, happiness and sorrow with a calm mind is called Upekkha Bhavana.

Jhana and Samadhi:
Jhana and Samadhi are the parts of everyday activities of the Bhikkhus and Samaneras. The concentration of mind is not possible without the practice of meditation. Men are easily entrapped by desires. Greed, malice, illusion, desires and longing always chase us. Human mind remain restless due to these. Mind is restless by nature and is allured both by good and evil. If it is not possible to control that kind mind, the emancipation from craving is not possible. For that reason, wise men try to control their minds. The object of meditation is to control the mind. The restless mind is to be made settled and concentrated through the meditation. The Bhikkhus and Samaneras have to attain the concentration of mind through the daily practice of meditation. This is the first stage of meditation. To attain salvation one has to surpass four such stages. The practice of meditation instructed by Buddha is known as ‘Vipassana’. The ceaseless practice for the purpose of attaining salvation being free from illusion is known as Samadhi. ‘Samadhi’ starts from the second stage. In that stage only the memory remains surpassing the happiness and sorrow. Six types of knowledges are gained through Samadhi. These are divine vision, divine hearing, to know the attitude of others, to recollect the memories of the previous births, to gain the power to control passions and to attain supernatural or psychic power. Arhat Bhikkhus possess these special knowledges. They have perceived the salvation and will never born again.

Obligatory duties for the Bhikkhus

The Bhikkhus have to comply with 227 precepts or ‘Silas’. An elaborate explanation of these precepts which are obligatory for the Bhikkhus is found in the ‘Patimokkha’. The Bhikkhus have to recite the Patimokkha at least twice in a month, on a full-moon day, on the fourteenth day of the dark fortnight. Most of the precepts described in the Patimokkha were delivered at Rajageha. These precepts are known as ‘the Precepts for the Bhikkhus’ or ‘the Bhikkhusila’ as these are instructed for the Bhikkhus. The precepts have been divided into eight types according to the importance. These are: Parajika (Defeat), Sanghadisesa (Requirement of the Sangha in the beginning, the middle and the end), Aniya (Uncertainty), Nissaggiya (Abandonment), Pacittiya (Expiration), Patideseniya (Confession), Sekhiya (Learning) and Adhikarana Samatha. These are described briefly in below:

1. Parajika: Parajika means defeat, harm, deviation from the religion, abandoned, fallen, removed etc. That is to say, Parajikas are some offences or the occurrences for which the offender can not stay in the Sangha. The offences are adultery, theft, murder and boast of supernatural power. The Bhikkhus must abstain themselves from doing these offences. The Bhikkhu who has got Parajika is not fit for performing the Vinaya Kammamas such as Uposatha, Pravarana etc.

2. Sanghadisesa: The objection or the offence for which the presence is required the presence of Sangha at the beginning, middle and at the end for the sanctity is called ‘Sanghadisesa. There are thirteen types of Sanghadisesa offences. Among these the first four are related with the sexuality. In the fifth offence the Bhikkhus are asked not to do the job of a Matchmaker. The sixth and the seventh offences are about the condition related with the building of monasteries and cottages by the Bhikkhus. In the eighth offence, the Bhikkhus are dissuaded from impression the false offences upon the other Bhikkhus. In the ninth offence, the Bhikkhus are asked to abstain themselves from blaming other Bhikkhus. In the tenth and eleventh offences the Bhikkhus are asked not to divide the Sangha. The twelfth offence is about the prevention of the disobedience of the Bhikkhus. In the thirteenth offense there is an instruction to punish the disobedient Bhikkhus with Pabbajjaniya Kamma’.

3. Aniyata: There is an uncertainty about the inclusion of three offences in Parajika, Sanghadisesa or Pacittiya. So it is called ‘Aniyata’. Two types of adulteries are included in it.

4. Nissaggiya: It means one should leave it or abandon it. If a Bhikkhu instructs without surrendering the thing for which he has been offended to the other Bhikkhus, he will not be free from the offences. He will remain impure. For example: A Bhikkhu can wear three robes at a time. He can keep the extra robe till the months of the Kathina-civara-dana ceremony and till another four months. After that within 10 days he has to give it to another Bhikkhu. If he fails, he will be offended. In the ‘Suttavibhanga’ 30 offences have been mentioned about the meal, bed, clothings, alms-dish, the acceptance of gold and silver etc.
5. Pacittiya: The word ‘Pacittiya’ has been originated from the Sanskrit word ‘Praishcitta’. Generally ‘Pacittiya’ means atonement, expressing sorrow, admitting fault etc. Pacittiya is of ninety-two types. It is divided into nine ‘vagga’- Musavada, bhutagama, Bhikkhunovada, Bhojana, Acela, Surapan, Sappana, Sahadhammika and Rajavagga. Twelve kinds of offences have been depicted in the nine vaggas. These are telling lies, harsh words, slander, quarrels, deceit, oppression, rude behaviour, killing, cutting the branches of a tree, rules about lying and sitting, eating untimely, creating anarchy in the Sangha etc.

6. Patideseniya: The Confessions are of four types. To take food from the Bhikkhuni, to take the alms from a too much sincere devotee, to take food from the house of a person without being invited - these four light sins are counted as offences of Patideseniya. Among these, the third and the fourth are not applicable to sick Bhikkhus.

7. Sekhiya: ‘Sekhiya’ means to learn or taught. Sekhiya is the collection of some rules which must be learnt by the apprentice Bhikkhus or Samaneras. There are total 75 Sekhiya dhamma or topics to be learnt for the Bhikkhus and Samaneras till they attain Arhantship. The difference of Sekhiya in comparison with other offences is that no punishment or atonement is needed for the violation of Sekhiya.

8. Adhikarana Samattha: The word ‘Adhikarana’ means quarrels, the issue of the quarrels, the judgement and the issue of the judgement. The word ‘Samatha’ means peace, solution, settlement through mutual discussion. Seven types of Adhikarana Samatha have been mentioned in the Patimokkha. In the Adhikarana Samatha it has been depicted to settle the disputes and disagreements through the discussion, according to the Shikkhapada narrated in the Tipitaka, the Bhikkhu sangha being united, by confessing the guilt, through the learned senior monks, through the mutual agreement for the prosperity of the Sangha. The Bhikkhus get together in the Pavarana and confessing the guilt they expiate their sins. The Bhikkhu who desires to be atoned will say, ‘Dear Bhikkhus, if you see anything or hear anything against me or if you have any suspicion regarding my character please tell me. If these are true I am ready to penance for it.’

The Bhikkhus have to maintain the rules and regulations depicted in the Patimokkha. Lord Buddha in his last advice before the Great Passing Away directed to perform duties without losing self-control. He also said that so long the Bhikkhu sangha will follow the right path having self control, the Saddhamma (true religion) will be continued. Advising the beloved disciple Ananda not to lament he said, ‘Be yourself your lamp, be your own shelter, don’t be dependent upon others, attain superiority by taking refuge in religion. ‘The Buddha has given the highest priority to the Dhamma and Sangha, the carriers of the Dhamma, in his absence.
Travelling of the Bhikkhus with the Alms-dishes in their hands.

Exercise Work
Write a report on the daily activities of a Bhikkhu collecting information from a Monastery (Group work)

Lesson: 2

Daily activities and duties of the Laities

Buddha had delivered many religious advices for the lay devotees so that they could live a gracious, beautiful and peaceful life. These religious advices are found in the different books of the Tipitaka. These religious advices of Buddha addressed to the laities are known as 'Gihí Vinaya' or rules for laities.

These advices are mainly found in the Sigalovada Sutta, Kalahavivada Sutta, Parabhava Sutta, Mangala Sutta, Vyegghapajjha Sutta, Khaggavisana Sutta, Lakkhana Sutta, Gihipatipada Sutta, Dhammika Sutta, Gahapativagga, Vidura Pandita Jataka. These sermons or instructions of the Buddha are compulsory to perform for the laities. The daily activities and duties narrated in Tipitaka are briefly described below.

1. Sigalovada Sutta:

While staying at Venuvana Vihara at Rajageha, the Buddha met a son of a Brahmin named Sigalaka. After bathing in wet dress Sigalaka was paying homage to the six directions: east, west, north, south, up and down. When the Buddha asked about this, Sigalaka said that he is making obeisance to the six sides being advised by his father and because of the paternal custom. The Buddha realized that Sigalaka has not realized the underlying implication of the homage of the six sides. Then he explained the underlying meaning of making obeisance to the six sides and gave some instructions about the duties of the laities. These are given below:

The avoidance of the four types of troubled work (Klistakarma): A pious householder should avoid four types of troubled works such as killing, theft, adultery and falsehood.

The avoidance of the four types of sinful acts: A religious householder should avoid the four types of sinful acts such as wilfulness, envy, fear and committing sinful acts being ignorant. These sinful acts destroy fame and honour.
The avoidance of six offences: Taking intoxicating drugs, travelling at an unsuitable time, involvement in amusement, gambling, bad company, idleness—these six offences should be avoided by the pious laities because:

a) One has to suffer from six bitter consequences for taking drugs: The are — 1. loss of wealth, 2. quarrels increase, 3. different diseases are originated, 4. disreputation spreads, 5. becomes shameless, 6. devoid of knowledge of ascerlaining or differentiating good and evil. For these reasons one may also lose one’s life.

b) Because of the untimely travel: 1. one may be unprotected, 2. the wife and sons may be unprotected, 3. the properties may be unprotected, 4. fear will always be active in the mind, 5. may be scandalized for sinful acts, 6. may have to face unexpected incidents.

c) If one is always involved in amusement and delight one has to pass time in fear always.

d) Gambling, that is to say, playing cards, playing dice: 1. increase enemy for the winner, 2. the person defeated feals repentance, 3. honour is destroyed, 4. no importance is given to the words in the meetings, 5. harrasments from the friends and relatives and 6. becomes unable to sustain the family members.

e) For keeping bad company: 1. deceitful, 2. characterless, 3. drug addicted, 4. imposter and 5. robbers may be friends: As a result, the character is defiled and life may be lost.

f) Because of the idleness not grown riches do not grow and grown riches are destroyed.

The sings of a friend: A person who dissuades a friend from doing sinful acts, engages him in good deeds, makes him hear unheard, give the directions towards heaven is known to be a real friend. One should make friendship with them.

The sings of an enemy: The person who always plunders the wealth of others, excels only in words and incapable of action, is a sycophant and inducer is an enemy in the guise of a friend. He should be abandoned.

The six sides of a householder: The religious householders should perform six types of duties and responsibilities. These are called to keep the four sides.

a) Making obeisance to the east indicates to perform the duties and responsibilities toward the parents. The duties towards parents are done in five ways. These are 1. to support the parents in their old age, 2. to complete their tasks before the task of the self, 3. to keep the honour of the clan, 4. be to heir of their properties by being obedient and, 5. to give gifts in memory of the dead ancestors. Parents also have five duties towards their children to perform. These are 1. to dissuade them from sinful acts, 2. to engage them in good deeds, 3. to educate them in proper time, 4. marry them off at the proper age, 5. to make them heir of the properties judging their eligibility.

b) Making obeisance to the west indicated to performance of the duties towards the wife. One has to perform five types of tuties towards the wife. These are 1. showing respect to the wife, 2. to be courteous, 3. to be satisfied with own wife and not to be involved with others wife, 4. to have the authority over property and wealth and 5. to provide her with clothes and armaments to the best of one’s capacity. The wife also has five duties towards her husband to perform. These are 1. to do the household chores properly, 2. to greet the family members and the guests cordially, 3. to have profound love for the husband, 4. to be skilful in household work and be free from laziness.
c) Making obeisance on the north indicated the performance of the duties toward the relatives and the friends. One has to perform five types of duties towards them. These are 1. to donate and to provide temporary monetary help, 2. to use sweet words, 3. to do them well, 4. express profound sympathy and 5. to treat them well. One has to perform five types of duties towards relatives and sons of the family. These are 1. to protect them when they lose self control, 2. to protect their property and wealth, 3. to assure him in fear, 4. not to desert him in danger, 5. to honour him.

d) Making obeisance on the south indicates that one has duties towards his teachers. One has to perform five types of duties towards the teachers. These are 1. not to sit in the high seats in the presence of the teachers, 2. nurse them, 3. to obey their orders, 4. to pay attention to their advices and 5. to practise learning. The teacher also has five types of duties towards the students. These are 1. to dubit beautifully, 2. to teach in detail, 3. to select the textbooks, 4. to praise the students to the friends and 5. to protect them from danger.

e) Making obeisance to the up indicates the duties towards Samaneras and Brahmins. One has to perform five types of duties towards the Samaneras and the Brahmins. These are 1. to serve respectfully by giving food, clothings, medicines and dwelling places, 2. to make the public respectful to them, 3. to wish their welfare, 4. to greet them respectfully and 5. to entertain them with the best food. The Samaneras and Brahmins also have their duties towards the householders. These are 1. to dissuade them from sinful acts, 2. to engage them in good deeds, 3. to wish them good, 4. to reveal the unheard to them and 5. to correct the known things and to show the good way.

f) Making obeisance to the down means to perform the duties towards the staffs. One has to perform five types of duties towards the staffs. These are 1. to handover the duties according to their abilities, 2. to give them sufficient fees, 3. to nurse them during the diseases, 4. to divide among them the best food and 5. to give them rest sometimes. The staffs have also five types duties towards their masters. These are 1. to get up from the bed before their master gets up, 2. to go to bed later, 3. to take only the given things, 4. to complete the work rightly and 5. to praise their master.

2. Vyeeghpajja Sutta

Once the Buddha was staying in the village Koliya. A Koliya named Vyeeghpajja requested the Buddha to give some advices to the householders who are confined to the earthly matters for the welfare in this world and the world hereafter. The Buddha directed them to follow four auspicious rules in the earthly life. These instructions have been depicted in the Vyeeghpajja Sutta. The instructions are:

Enthusiasm : One should have the zeal to earn with labour and honesty for one’s livelihood. One must be enthusiastic about the completion of the work nicely.

Observation : One has to conserve the money and the property which have been earned through honest means so that the thieves, abductors, jealous relatives or fire can not destroy them.

Connection with the honest people : One should mix with the persons who are respectful to Triratna, wise, Virtuous and Wellwishers. One should follow their honest qualities. Only they are good friends. Their contact is essential to build an honest life.

To live a disciplined life : to cut his coat according to his cloth is the sole duty of the householders. They should be frugal in expenditure. They also have to avoid miserliness. Leading a life in accordance with the income and expenditure is called a disciplined life. In this regard the Buddha has also said that if one possesses the four good qualities he will be highly benefited in this world and the world hereafter. These four qualities are respect, precepts, donation and wisdom.
3. Mangala Sutta:
The Buddha has instructed thirty-eight types of welfare instructions for the benefit of the gods and men, and these are compiled in the Mangala Sutta of the book Khuddakapatha. These thirty-eight types of welfare instructions are obligatory for the householders. These are:
1. not to serve the inglorious,
2. to serve the wise and an honest person,
3. to show reverence to the persons worthy of worship,
4. to live in a resembling country,
5. to recollect the virtues previously done,
6. to guide oneself to a right way,
7. to acquire knowledge in many subjects,
8. to learn different crafts,
9. to be modest,
10. to speak lucidly,
11. to nurse the parents,
12. to maintain the wife and children,
13. to earn living by honest means,
14. to donate,
15. to observe the religious rules and rites whole-heartedly,
16. to help the kinsman,
17. to do virtuous acts,
18. not to be involved in sinful acts,
19. to keep away from wine and drug-addiction,
20. to lead a religious life without losing self-control,
21. to be proud of virtuous men,
22. to be polite before them,
23. to be satisfied with what one gets,
24. to admit the favour of the beneficent,
25. to listen to the religion in proper time,
26. to be forgiving,
27. to obey the superiors,
28. to meet the religious master,
29. to discuss the religion in proper time,
30. to meditate,
31. to observe the state of continence and chastity,
32. to observe the four Aryan truths,
33. to meet Nirvana,
34. to remain faithful to the Astalok Dhamma,
35. not to be grief-stricken,
36. to be free from greed, envy,
37. to be fearless,
38. to keep away from the sinful acts.

4. Gahapatiyagga:
The venerable Buddha had advised the householders to possess fifteen types of virtuous qualities in Gahapatiyagga. These are given below:
1. to keep firm faith in the Buddha,
2. to realize the true nature of the religion,
3. to keep faith in the Sangha,
4. to donate,
5. to be generous in distributing wealth among the virtuous men,
6. to be eager to listen to the religious advice,
7. to give up vanity,
8. to be free from guilt,
9. to keep faith in the Triratana,
10. to keep the principles or follow the precepts,
11. to be modest,
12. to be shy,
13. to be engaged in learning,
14. to be contributive,
15. to acquire knowledge.

5. Parabhava Sutta:
While staying in the Aram of Anathpindik at Jetavana in Savatthi, the Buddha gave instructions to a god about Parabhava or the causes of defeat. These instructions are also obligatory to the householders. These are:
1. It is inevitable that the learned person will win, the inglorious person will be defeated, the virtuous will win and the irreligious will be defeated.
2. It is sure that the person who consider the dishonest person honest, does not consider the honest person and takes the shelter of falsehood will be defeated.
3. The person who is idle, wrathful and without any enthusiasm will be defeated.
4. Despite his ability, the person who does not maintain his parents will be condemned in this world and the world hereafter and will be defeated.
5. The person who deceives the Sramanas and Bhikkhus by telling lies is defeated.
6. In spite of his having riches, the person who does not give anything to others and enjoys himself is defeated.
7. The nation that takes pride in religion and clan and the person who hates the poor relatives is defeated.
8. The person who is deeply attached to another’s wife and takes drugs can never possess wealth. The properties earned by him are destroyed. He is defeated.
9. The person who is dissatisfied with his wife and is deeply attached with bad woman is defeated.
10. The person who takes young wife in the old age suffers from jealousy and passes sleepless days and nights. He is defeated.
11. The person who selects wife, children or relatives who destroy money as the heirs of the property loses his property and is defeated.
12. The person who has an absurd expectation to get inaccessible wealth is defeated.

6. Dhammadika Sutta:
Once the Buddha was staying in the Aram of Anathpindika at Jetavana Vihara in Savatthi. Then an worshipper named Dhammadika arrived there with five hundred worshippers. The adored the Buddha and asked about the true nature of the householders. The Buddha gave the following advices about the true nature of the householders:

1. Don’t kill any living being, don’t be the cause of killing. Never allow the killing by others. Don’t be envious to all living beings whether they are strong or weak.
2. Don’t steal the things of others, never allow the stealing by others. All sorts of things that are not given are abandoned.
3. Boycott adultery just like the flaming furnace. Be active in observing the state of continence and chastity and dissuade yourself from going to another’s wife.
4. Don’t tell lies in the meeting places or councils and don’t instigate others to tell lies. Don’t approve falsehood. Gove up telling all sorts of lies.
5. Don’t be drunk, don’t encourage others to be drunk. Never allow taking drugs. Keep away from taking drugs.
6. The foolish persons engage themselves in sinful acts because of having no self-control. So never instigate others to lose self-control. Avoid foolishness.
7. Keep away from the five sinful acts such as killing, taking the things that are not given, telling lies, adultery and intoxicating drugs.
8. Be dutiful to parents and support them. Be involved in suitable trade and commerce. The real householders follow these instructions without being excited.

7 Vidhura Pandita Jataka:
Before attaining the Budhhahood, the Buddha was born as Buddhisattva in different clans. Once he was born as Vidhura Pandita. The instructions He then gave for the welfare of the householders for living happily in the home must be followed by all householders.

1. The person who because of their wisdom follow the virtuous course, have firmness, are enterprising, sharp-sighted, have competency to judge everything live happily in home.
2. The persons who do not go to another’s wife, do not take the tasty food alone, are not influenced by fortune telling, live happily in the home.
3. The persons who follow precepts, proficient in household chores, engaged themselves in virtuous acts without being excited, have intelligence, free from pride, modest, soft-spoken and quiet live happily in the home.
4. The persons who earn through the virtuous means and donate it, donate to the suitable persons, distribute equally to all candidates, are experienced about the time of sowing and harvesting live happily in the home.

8. The instructions of the Buddha about the income and expenditure:
The Buddha has advised to use the earnings or the profits by dividing it into four. These are:

1. Keep one fourth for yourself. Donate one part from this past
2. Employ two fourths in agriculture or trade.
3. Save the fourth part so that you can use it in adversity.

Besides these, the Buddha has given many religious instructions for the householders. By following these the domestic life can be happy as well as one can advance towards the way to Nirbana. So all the householders should abide by thes advises.
Exercise Work
Write down the underlying significance of householders keeping the six sides.
How many qualities of the householders have been mentioned in the Gahapatibagga?
How far is the advice of the Buddha regarding the income and expenditure logical? Justify.

Lesson : 3
Rules for the Householders

The good conduct denotes humanity. Good conduct and self-restraint are the preconditions to live in a society. Venerable Dharmapala Thera of Sri Lanka has written a book entitled ‘Gihidina Cariya’ in the Ceylonese language. The book contains the code of conduct to be practised by the householders. Some rules as mentioned in the book are quoted below:

Duties to be done in the morning:
After rising from the bed a Buddhist has to wash his face and hands and worship the Buddha. It is his ardent duty. One should go to the Bihar to worship and adore if the monastery stands at the nearest distance. It is not possible, this can be performed at home. Having finished adoration he has to clean the furniture and fittings. Thereafter taking breakfast he has to meditate on Metta Bhavana. After that he has to pay attention to the usual work.

Meal: One has to wash face, hands, legs properly before taking meal. One should take food delightfully. One should not take food having the remains in the hand. One should not take food inanimately. The food should be chewed properly. One has to leave the seat after taking the permission of the companion, parents or brothers and sisters if necessary. One should not talk and walk while eating. One should not make sound while eating. After taking meal one should wash face and hands properly. One should take meal everyday at proper time.

Rules for bathing and wearing: One should not wear dirty clothes. Thought small in quantity one has to wash and clean the clothes timely. One should not wear the perspirated clothes. One should not bath without wearing clothes. Nose, hair and feet should be cleansed properly. One should pare the nail before they become long.

Rules for walking on the roads:
One should follow the locally prevailing rules while walking on the highways. One should be careful not to touch the body of the others with the umbrella if one has any. While walking one should not be inattentive. While crossing the road look carefully to the right and left. One should be careful about taking food on the way. One should help the blind, old and children in crossing roads if one can.

Code of conduct in the meeting:
One should participate in the meeting properly dressed. One should present one’s opinion with arguments by showing honour to the opinion of others. It is improper to speak in one voice. By maintaining the highest civility and courtesy one should stay in the meeting. Punctuality is the pre-condition of participating in the meeting and conducting of it.

To visit a patient:
It is a social and moral duty to see the ailing relatives, friends and neighbours. One should show sympathy and has to encourage him. One may take necessary medicine and diet as far as possible. One should sympathize and encourage the persons who attend the patient. One should take precautionary step before visiting the patients attacked with contagious diseases. One should stay in the room of the patient for a long time. One has to change the dress after visiting the patients and wash face, hands and legs. It is one of the important health rules.
To have a glance at the deadbody:
It is a social as well as a religious duty to see the deadbody of relatives and neighbours. One should go there wearing clean dresses and the dresses should be put off and washed after returning. One should console the bereaved members. Birth and death are two common events. All living being are liable to death. In this way one can console them and express sympathy. One should have to attend the religious performances done for the dead. To help if it is needed is a good work.

The duties of the children in the family: In a family the children have to perform many duties. Except studies, they alhe to help the family in different works within the range of their capability. They have to participate in the family works in a particular time and during leisure. They should help the parents in their business. They have to keep their eyes on all matters though the help isnot needed. This increases the knowledge and experience. Bookish knowledge does not serve in the real life without the working experiences. They should keep in mind that any honest labour is full of dignity.

Nomenclature: The persons should be named according to the religious faith. This increases the intimacy and familiarity with their own religion. Ones can be given according to the tradition of own country, customs and tradition of the forefathers.

The performance of daily religious rites:
Every Buddhist household has a Buddha image for the performance of the daily religious rites. A statue or an image is kept there. The householder Buddhists generally worship thrice a day before the family Buddha image. Rising early in the morning and after cleaning the face, hands and feet the Buddhists worship the Buddha with flowers, drinks, food and fragrant incense. In that same manner the Buddha is worshipped with food and drinks before 12 o’clock in the noon. In the evening in the same manner the Buddha is worshipped again with lamp, fragrant incense and drinks. By regiting the fixed verse one has to dedicate the offerings with devotion. It removes the darkness from the mind and creates love for the Buddhists religion. Some verses which are used in performing the daily religious rites are given below:

1. Flower offering verses (puspha puja gatha):
   Vāṇṇa gandha gunapaṭam etam kusumasantatiṃ pujāyāṃ munindassa siripāda saroruhe pujemi Buddhaṃ kusumena tena puṇṭena me tena ca hotu mokkhaṃ puppham mālāyati yathā idam me kāyo tathā yāti vinasaḥbhavam.

Translation: I am offering these flowers which have beautiful colour and fragrance at the lotus like auspicious foot of the great sage Buddha. I am worshipping the Buddha with these flowers so that I can attain eternal bliss for the influence of this virtue. These flowers are withering in that same way my body will be destroyed.

Through this verse we can realize the transitoriness of the universe.

2. Scented materials offering verses (Dhupadi Sugandhi Puja):
Gandhasambharayuttaṃ dhupenAhaṃ sugandhinA pūjaye pūjaneyyantaṃ pūjābhājana-uttamam.

Translation: I am worshipping the Buddha, the most suitable for adoration with the fragrant incense. The symbolic meaning of the verse that depicts the worshipping of the Buddha, the most suitable to be worshipped and possessing the infinite virtues is that the virtues of a man who possesses the real virtues will become visible like the fragrance of the incense. Only this best person is suitable for adoration.
3. Candles or Oil-lamp offering verse (Pradipa Puja):
Ghonosarappaditendipen tomohamsina
Tilokadipang Sumbuddham Pujjami tomonudam
With the flaming lamp, prepared with the oil of Ghonosha or built of metal having the power to remove the darkness I worship the Buddha, who is like the Trilaka-Pradip, the remouer of ignorance-darkness.
In this verse the Buddha has been praised as the remover of darkness of ignorance from our minds like light.

Exercise Work
Prepare a day-to-day record accoridng to the rules for the householders.

Lesson : 4
The Seven Conditions for Welfare
There was a prosperous kingdom named Vesali during the time of the Buddha. The Vajjis and the Licchavis, inhabitants of Vesali were the followers of the Buddha. The Licchavis built in magnificent Kutagarasala Monastery for the Buddha and His Sangha. The Buddha observed the rain-retreat (vassavasa) for five times there. The Buddha delivered more than one Suttas and instructions while he was staying at Vesali. The ‘Satta Aparihaniya Dhamma’ for the householders is one of them. ‘Satta Aparihanyo Dhamma’ means the seven indispensable duties. While staying at ‘Sarandada Cetiya’ Lord Buddha delivered these instructions to the Vajjis. The Vajjis proved themselves to be unconquerable and prosperous nation in ancient India by following these seven indispensable duties. Any nation or society that will follow these seven indispensable conditions will never be defeted. These are :

1. Taking decisions through the meetings unitedly.
2. To edil together the decisions that have been accepted and if a new cause arises, to solve it unitedly.
3. Not to introduce any kind of corruption in the society or in the state level. Not to discard the good policy of the ancestors and should abide by the ancient principles and instructions.
4. To respect, honour, feel proud of them and adore them. To follow their commands.
5. Not to misbehave with the wives and young girls that is to say to preserve the honour of the women.
6. To preserve the monasteries, cetiya built by them and their given properties properly and to follow the Buddhists religion.
7. To serve and protect the Arharts and virtuous Bhikkhus by providing them with necessary donations, to arrange their happiness and facilities and to ensure their safe stay.

The Satta Aparihaniya Dhammas for the Bhikkhus: Lord Buddha delivered seven indispensable duties for the permanence of the Buddhist Sangha and these have been compiled in the Mahaparinibbana Sutta. The Buddha delivered these instructions for the future welfare of the Bhikkhusanha and He said that by following these they will never be defeted. The seven indispensable rules for the Bhikkhus are :

1. The Bhikkhus will be united to gether.
2. The Bhikkhus will perform duties of the Sangha being united togethr.
3. The Bhikkhus will follow the instructed Shikkhyapadas.
4 The Bhikkhus will honour, adore and serve the senior monks.
5. The Bhikkhus must not be under the control of the desire for the cause of rebirth.
6. The Bhikkhus will pay close attention to austere ascetic practice for Nibbana in the forest or in a lonely place.
7. The Bhikkhus will make arrangements for the ease and comfort of the Bhikkhus who have come and how have not yet come.

In this way the Buddha has delivered the obligatory principles and instructions to be observed in His absence for the welfare of the householders, Bhikkhus and Samaneras and also for the practice of the Buddhists religion uninterruptedly.

Exercise Work

Write a short essay on the merits of the Satta Aparihaniya Dhamma.

Exercise

Fill up the gaps

1) The wish for the deliverance from sorrow by being sympathetic with destitutes is called the thought of .................

2) One has to suffer ............... results for taking drugs.

3) False ................. is attributed for sinful acts.

4) One has to perform ................. types duties towards the teachers.

5) The ................. persons commit sins because of the excitement.

Short Questions

1) Explain the present thought of supervision.

2) Differentiate between the Bhikkhus and the Samaneras.

3) What do you mean by ‘Sekhiya’ Explain.

4) Describe the duties and responsibilities of learners towards their families.

Essay type Questions

1) Describe the daily religious rites and instructions of the Bhikkhus and Srmanas.

2) Describe the obligatory daily religious rites and instructions to be performed by the householders.

3) What is ‘Satta Aparihaniya Dhamma’? Write in detail.

Multiple Choice Questions

1. What does ‘Nisaggiya’ mean?
   a) one should confirm   b) one should notice
   c) one should abandon   d) one should perform.

2. Why are meditation and self-absorbed spiritual meditation obligatory to the Bhikkhus and Srmanas?
   a) for controlling the mind   b) for getting praise
   c) for fame and distinction   d) to be free from crime.
Read the passage below and give answer to the questions no 3 and 4

Amit Barua was ordained in the Buddhism. While he was taking food, the chief of themonastery asked him, ‘Why are you taking meal?’ In reply he said, ‘only to live’. Then the Bhikkhu said, ‘Do you think in that way while you accept the four basic elements?’ In reply he said, ‘Yes, I do think in that way.’

3. What is called this type of thought of Amit Baua according to the daily religious rites and instructions for the Buddhist monks?
   a) thought of friendship           b) five thoughts
   c) thought of supervision         d) thought of sympathetic joy.

4. By accepting that thought Amit will dissuade himself.
   i) from greed
   ii) from malice
   iii) from desire of sexual urge

   Which one is right?
   a) i and ii    b) ii and iii
   c) i and iii   d) i, ii and iii.

Creative Questions

1. The inhabitants of the village Panipara always take decisions unitedly. They respect juniors, seniors, mothers, sisters. The Bhikkhus in the village also perform their duties together and try to abide by the instructions of the Buddha.
   a) How many causes of defeat has the Buddha mentioned in the Pravaba Sutta?
   b) Why should one look at the deadbody? Explain briefly.
   c) Which principles of the Bhikkhus and householders are indicated by the activities of the inhabitants of the Panipara village? Explain.
   d) What do the activities of the village Panipar bring for a self and the country? Explain to the context of the textbook.

2. A good relationship is alaways existing between venerable Bhikkhu Praggananda and Bhikkhu Karunashree. Both of them follow the Vinaya rules. A person gave the Bhikkhu Praggananda a chain of gold. He gages it to a householder. For this Praggananda earned fame. Bhikkhu Karunashree got delighted at the fame of Praggananda. Besides Karunashree tries to concentrate his mind through the process of inhaling and exhaling.
   a) What are the four things unfit to be done?
   b) Why have the Bhikkhus to do evil thought? Explain.
   c) Which rule has the venerable Bhikkhu Praggananda performed? Explain.
   d) “The activities of the Bhikkhu Karunashree is a must for all Bhikkhus’-Analyse the statement to the context of the daily religious rites and instructions for the Buddhists.

THE END
অহিংসা পুরো ধর্ম
– গৌতম বুদ্ধ

দারিদ্র্যমুক্ত বাংলাদেশ গড়তে হলে শিক্ষা গ্রহণ করতে হবে
– মাননীয় প্রধানমন্ত্রী শেখ হাসিনা

For free distribution from academic year 2010 by the Government of Bangladesh